

CHAD HARTING, MS

SENIOR OPERATIONS SPECIALIST

PROFILE

Chad Harting is Senior Operations Specialist at ONYX Exposure Science, LLC, where he leads operations, DevOps, systems development and strategic planning. He brings more than two decades of experience building and running complex, multi-stakeholder operations across emergency response, international real estate development, and residential construction. At CTEH, Mr. Harting supported data and logistics for the Texas General Land Office (TGLO) Hurricane Harvey recovery, then reinvented the firm's post-hurricane damage assessment methodology. He engineered custom field software that captured damage assessments of the built environment quickly, cleanly and accurately, and designed and delivered training curriculum to hundreds of responders. His system was deployed for Hurricane Ian in Florida, helping restoration partners gain time and accuracy, and it grew CTEH's hurricane response program from under $500K to $12.8MM in billable revenue in its first year. Earlier, he directed sales and development for a 20,000-acre mixed-use development in coastal Belize, keeping teams safe and productive in remote, logistically demanding terrain, and managed crews, subcontractors and suppliers as a fifth-generation custom home builder. A 2000 U.S. Olympian, he applies the discipline of elite performance to every operation he runs.
