

Hop-a-log fun with Sharing Ole Lumpy.
This is one of the Red Ribbon Kids Books featured by Glorybound Kids.

Sharing Ole Lumpy

This is the story of a brother and sister who don't want to share the log with their brother. A storm comes along and overturns the whole situation. The book teaches us how to scoot over on our log to make a place for others.

Glorybound Kids books sneak celery into the diet by putting peanut butter on it. What we offer is sweet moral fiber.

Hop-a-log Children 6 books feature a family of frogs who sing and dance their way into the lives of children. The stories are released in books, animated CDs and as background for plays that can be performed in educational environment.

Breathing life into dreams

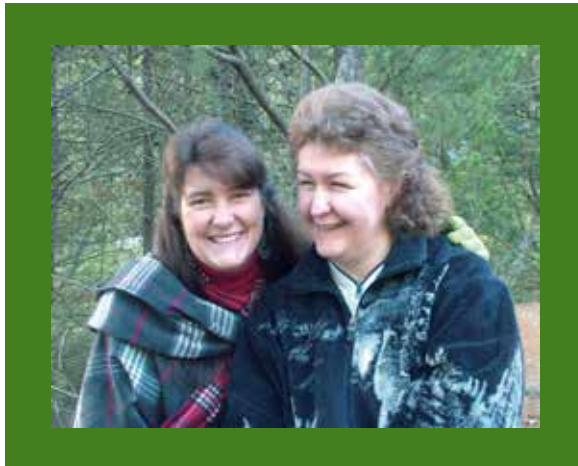

Mission of Glory Bound Books

Glorybound Kids is attached to Glory Bound Books Ltd out of Las Vegas, Nevada. We are a business which was started by two sisters who put their talents together. Sheri Hauser is a writer and Karna Peck is an artist. Together they began publishing wonderful books with delightful messages and pictures.

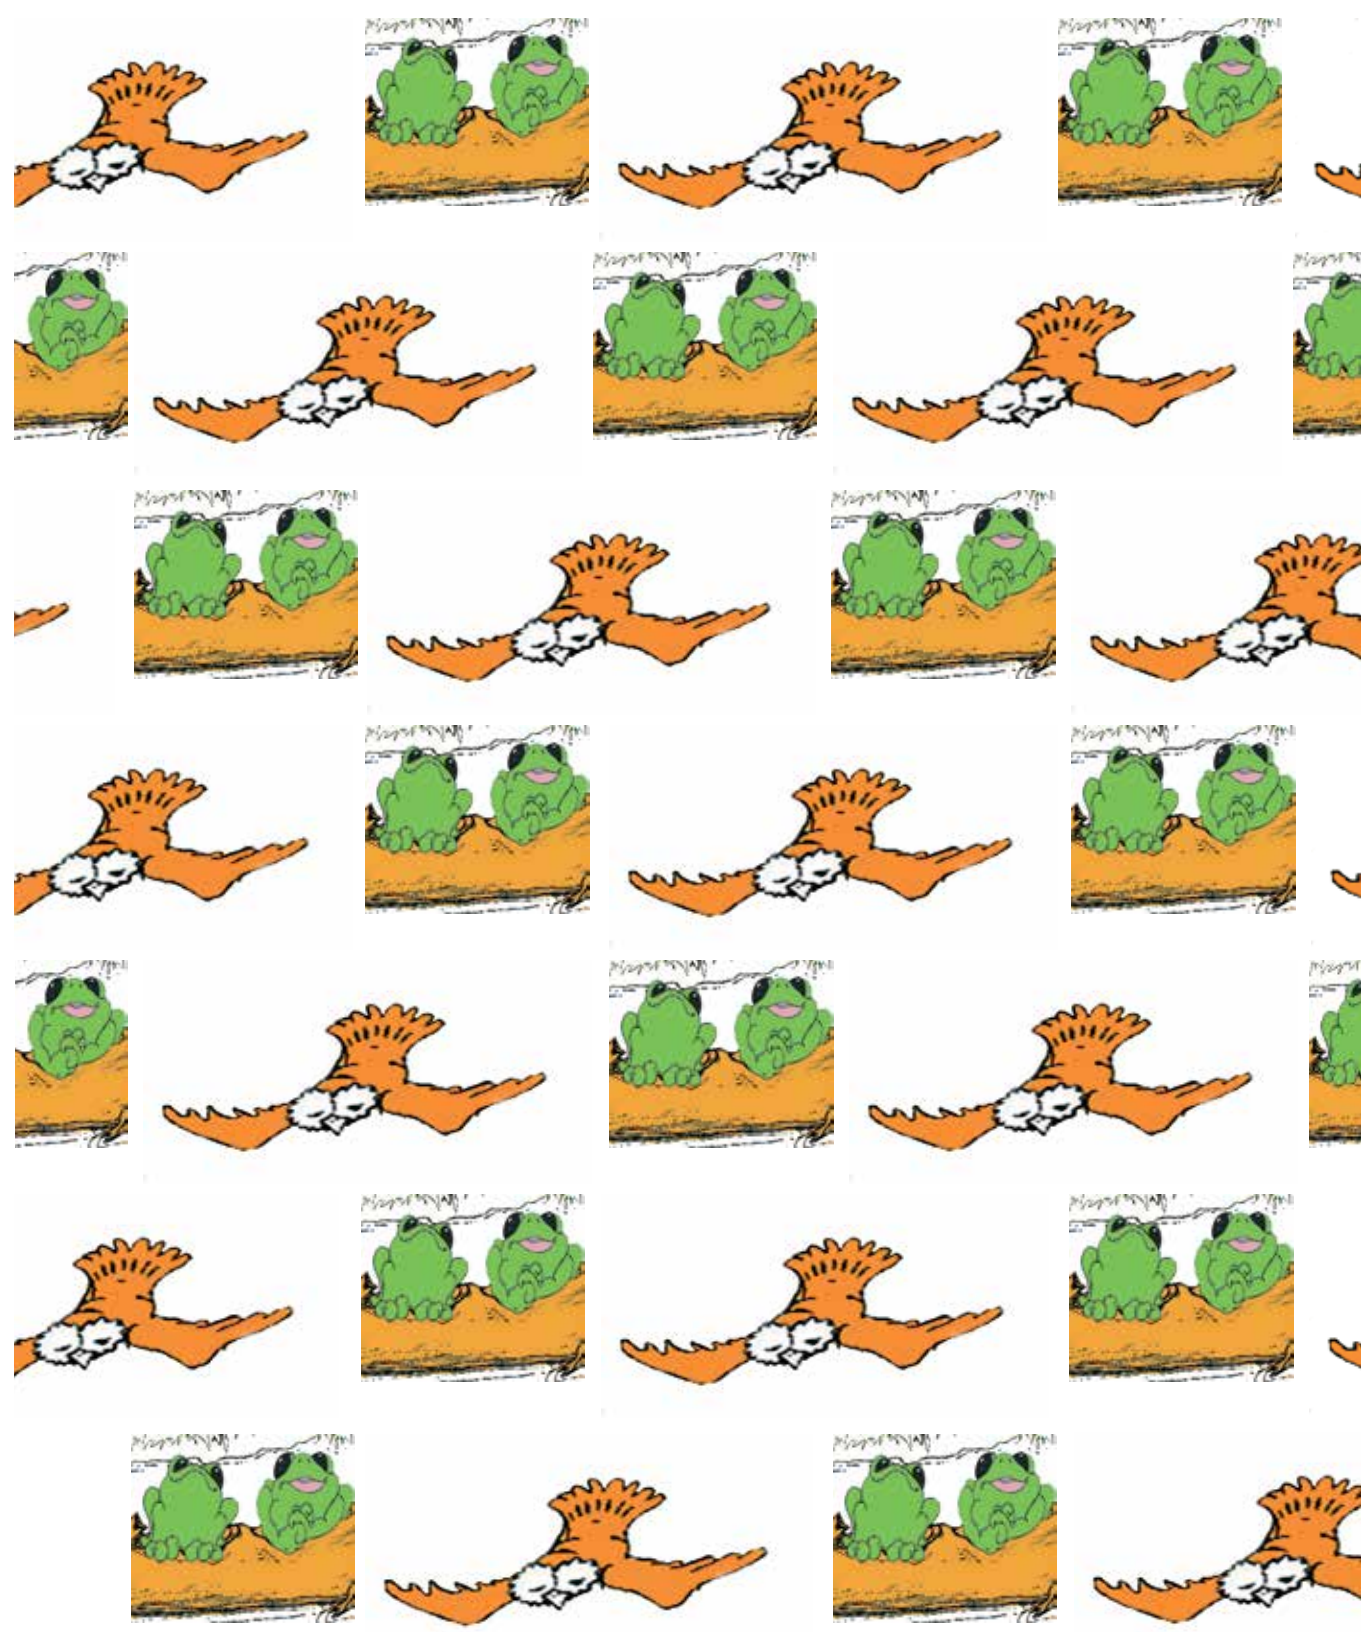

The books are classical and seek to promote good moral behavior. Many of the books are translated into foreign languages and are released with music, CD's, and plays which can be performed by the kids.

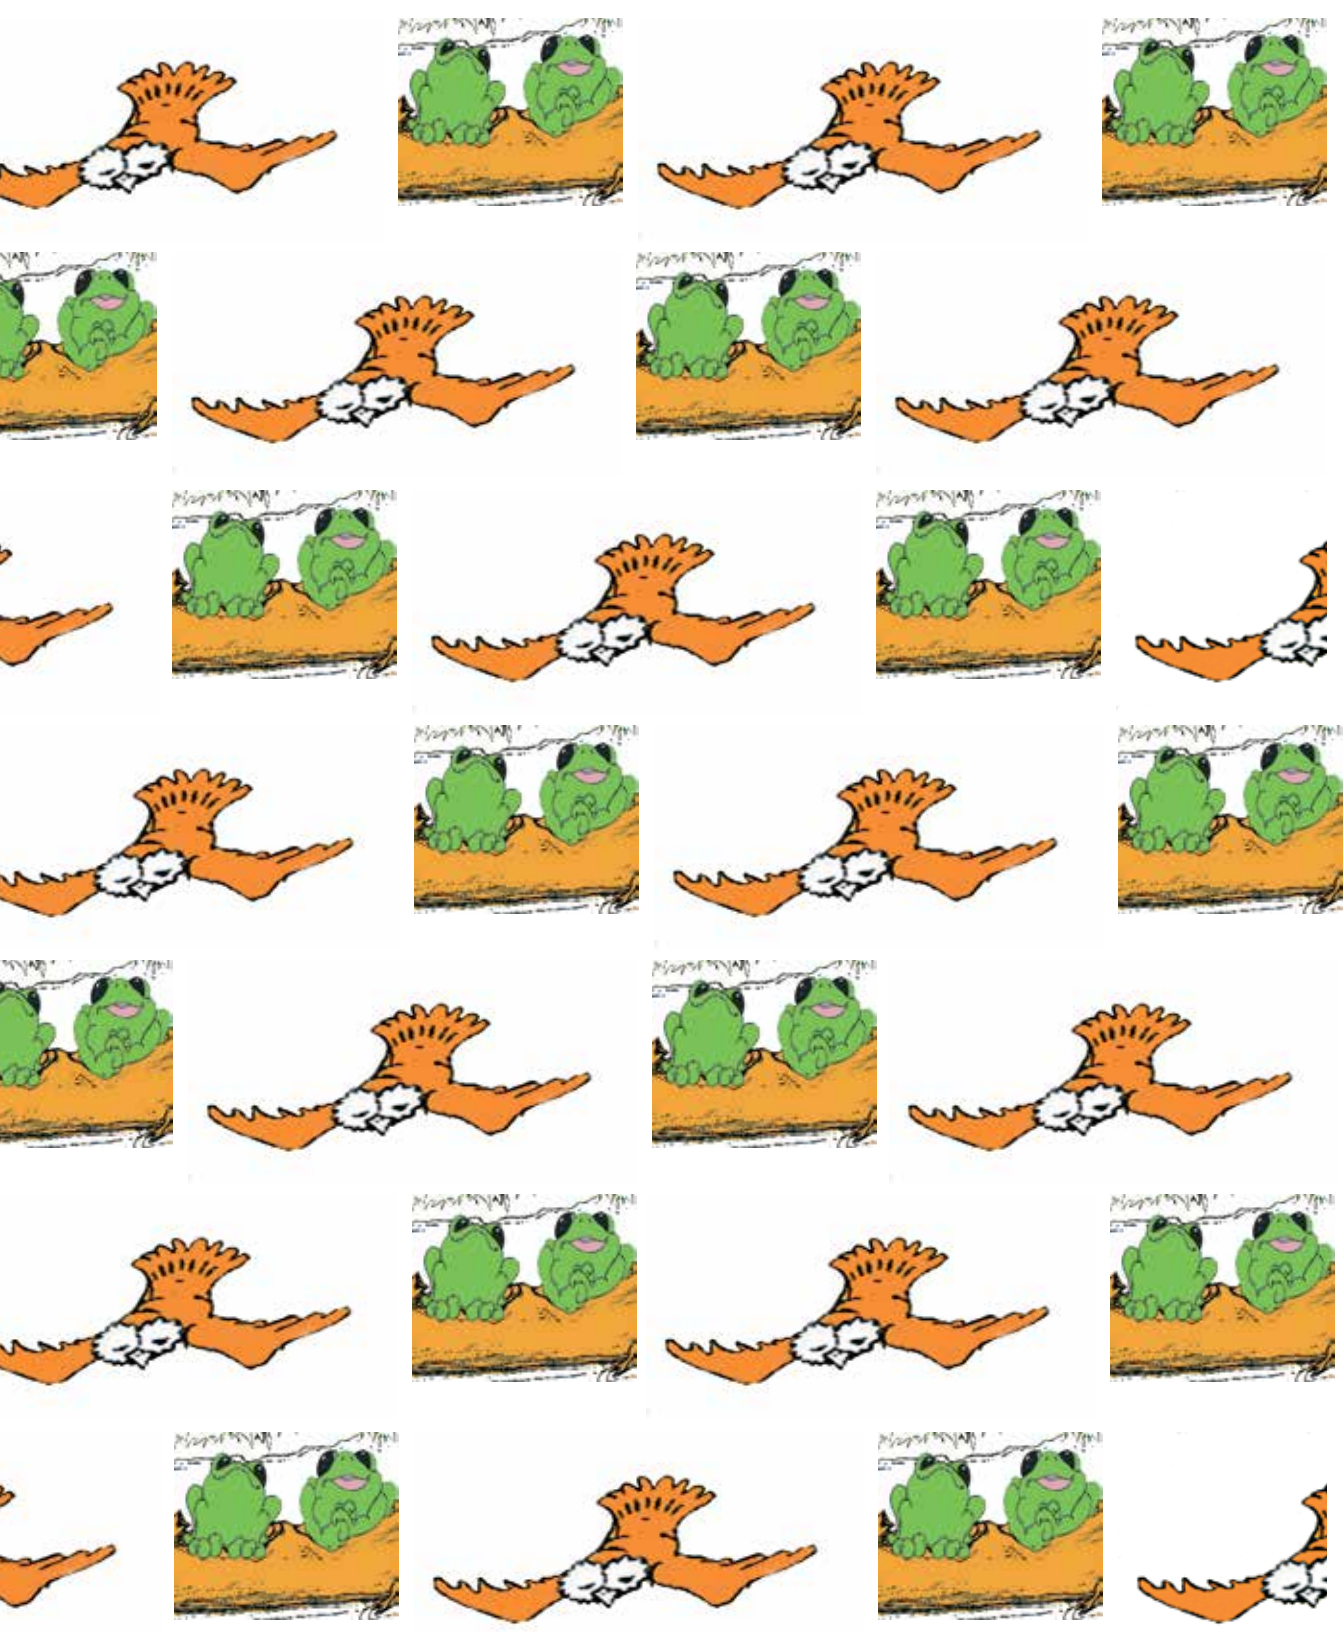

Karna and Sheri are trying to put themselves out of a job by encouraging the kids to do art, stories and poetry on their own. They actively promote learning and share all of the books on-line free of charge through the web site www.fordreamers.com.

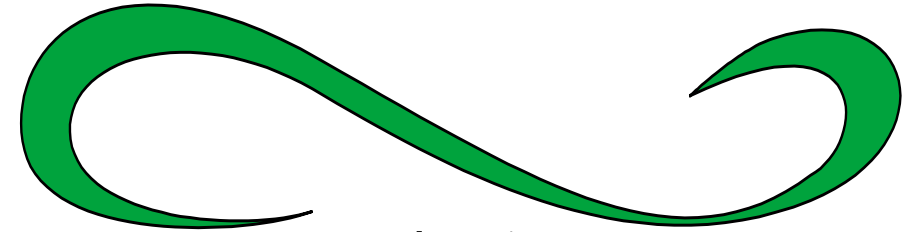

We have other artists and authors who have joined the 'family' bringing their art and stories which we are putting into song and music making DVDs as fast as we can. John Jones has been a wonderful help adding music and color to the stories.

Our distribution is to individuals through the web site, schools and book stores. Our books are like peanut butter in celery because they sneak healthy principles into the reading diet of children

Biography

Karna and I are sisters who enjoy sharing our gifts and talents with the world. Karna has been doodling frogs since she was a child. One of her goals is to make art that makes others smile. I believe she does. You can visit a lot of her art on the web site for Glory Bound books www.fordreamers.com. Karna’s art provides the backdrop for every aspect of the web site. You can order some of her paintings through her web site KarnaPeck.com.

I began writing the children’s books at the request of Karna because she needed an excuse to draw more frogs. I began writing other books a few years ago and went to Karna’s studio to select paintings to decorate them with. After a while, she approached me with the idea that she wanted me to come up with 12 books. I had already written a few children’s books, so we decided to use them as an excuse to get together a few times a year and ‘play’. You might say we haven’t done a very good job of growing old. It is our hope that by reading these books you will be able to step back in time and loose a few wrinkles as well. Enjoy. Sheri.

The pond was quiet and the moon was full. A gentle breeze blew across cat tails causing them to whisper into the wind. Soaker and Joker were lazing on a well worn log next to where the stream lets out into the pond.

The beavers had chewed off all of the small branches when this mighty fir tree fell in a winter storm. Then, they continued to chew at the bark, saving it for a late night snack by taking it back to their cozy burrow deep within their dam. The log was soft to their seats and Soaker and Joker had sat there so many times, that they had their personal indentations in the wood.

It was like 'theirs'.
She knew that he always took the right side and he knew that she always took the left.

You might say they were in a rut, but they liked it.

There is something to be said for going to a familiar place and having a special spot that fits your sitter.

And, it's hard to find a place to fit a frog's sitter,
so they valued their log.

They even gave it a name: 'Ole Lumpy'.

There were many fun times on Ole Lumpy.
Soaker and Joker swam under it and hopped over it practicing their techniques.

Like racing cones for the practice sessions of a race driver, they hopped and ducked between the limbs trying to keep a rhythm until they reached the end of Ole Lumpy.

Sharing Upside Down DOMJ

We were a happy two, me and you sitting on our froggie tushes in the gushes on a log like a funny little frog.
The storm came to us and made a fuss.
Our place was a mess, and we confess we wouldn't share. We didn't care.
when our bro came, we didn't like his name.
we sent him apart with a broken heart.
Still, he cared when we didn't try.
He shared Ole Lumpy when we made him cry.
He overturned our turn.
He fixed what was awry
Ole Lumpy has been shared like it should have been
We have learned how to care and found a new friend.

Sometimes they found frog eggs as they swam under it in their duck and hop adventures. The log was a great place to attach little eggs to grow up safe.

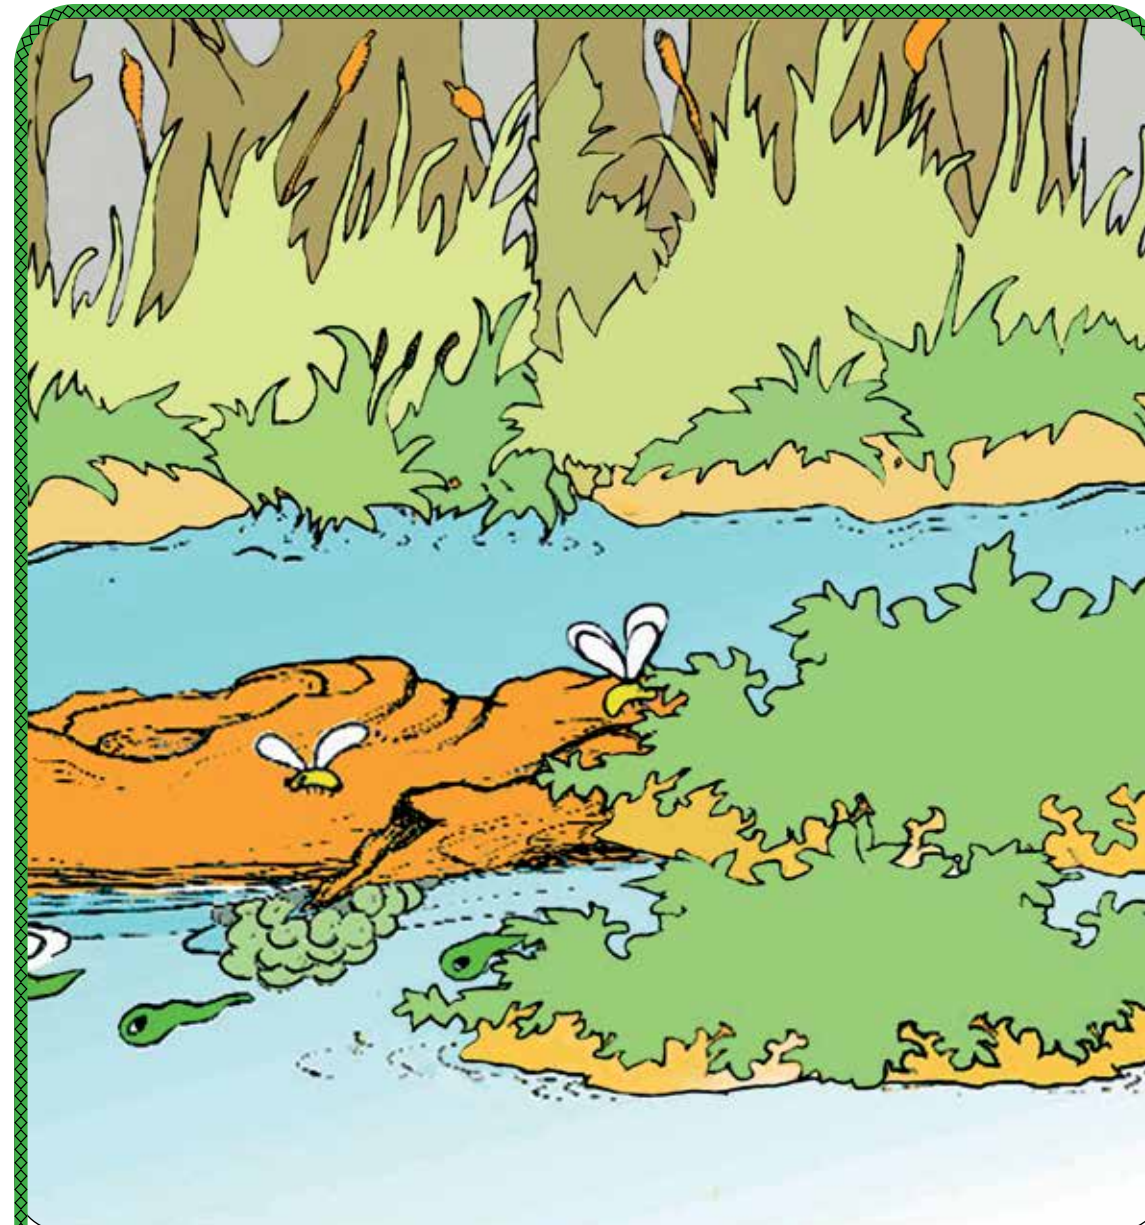

Imagine their surprise when they surfaced from their daily sit (now underwater) and found that Warty and carved all of their names into the log. He had decided to share. Even when they didn't share, now that he had a chance, he shared his space on the log. He even renamed the log with the old name and engraved it into the end.

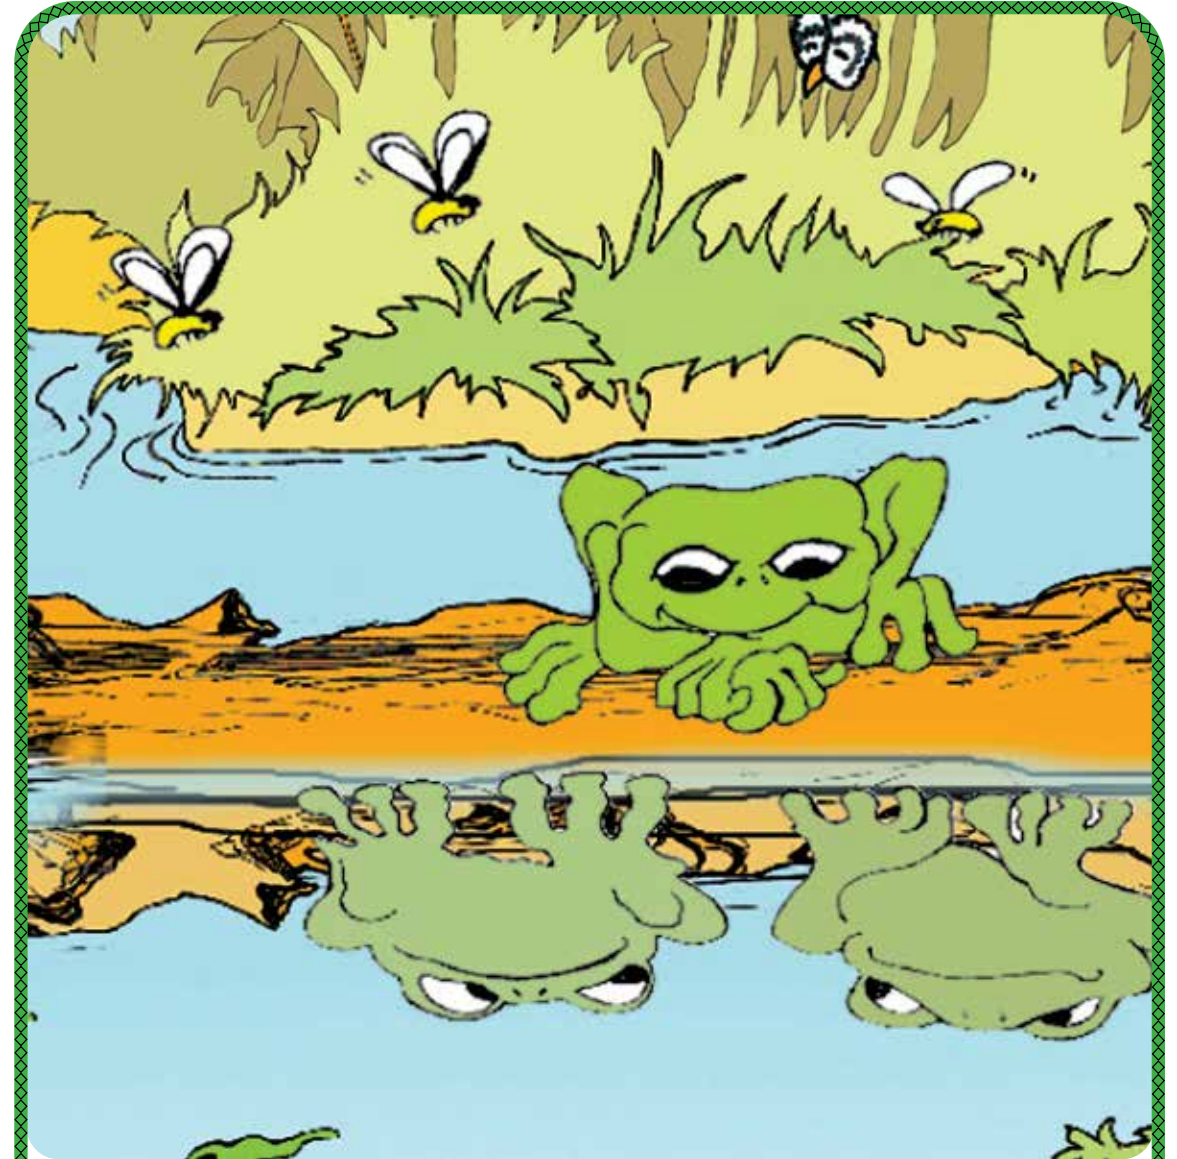

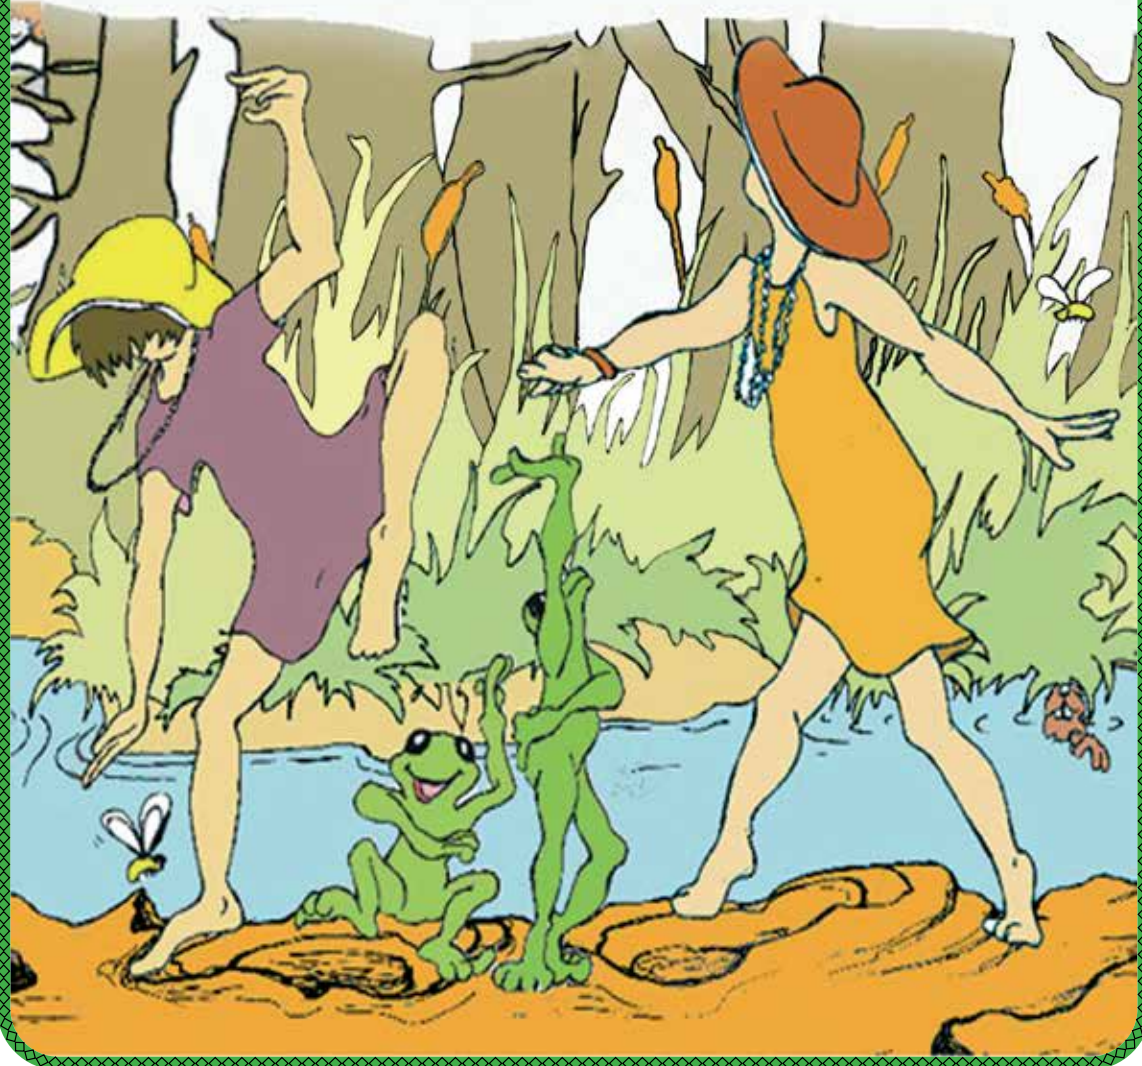

So, the three little froglets assumed positions on the log, each setting their slimy tush on their name. And, Soaker and Joker knew that after a little while Ole Lumpy would indent to become the perfect spot for them all. They said to Warty that they were sorry and knew in their little frog hearts that it was Grandcroaker Pa that sent the storm into their pond because they refused to share with their brother.

But, they also knew that Grandcroaker Pa was the one who had provided them with a little brother who was much smarter than them because he was willing to provide a place for them when theirs turned upside down.

Mom hid them under a knob just out of eye view of predators. The owl, with his keen eyes never found the eggs when mom parked them under Ole Lumpy.

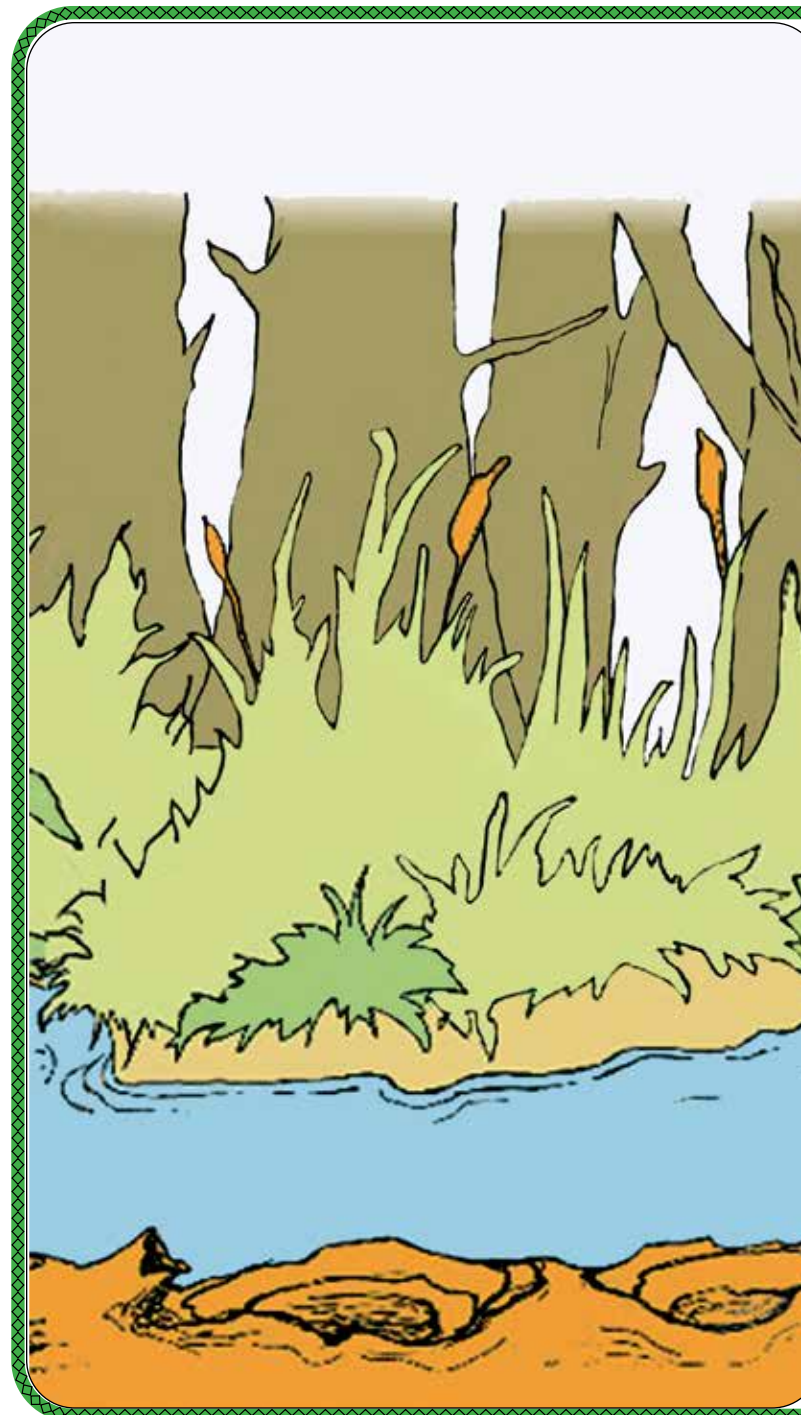

And, Ole Lumpy was the place where the girls that lived nearby came to practice their ballet. They would walk the log from one side to the other crossing the little creek as it poured out into the pond.

Frogs like to stay under water, so it {almost} worked. But, it wasn't as much fun under there, because there wasn't as much to see. They couldn't have the top, because Warty had claimed it, so now they were stuck with their underwater seats. They had a problem.

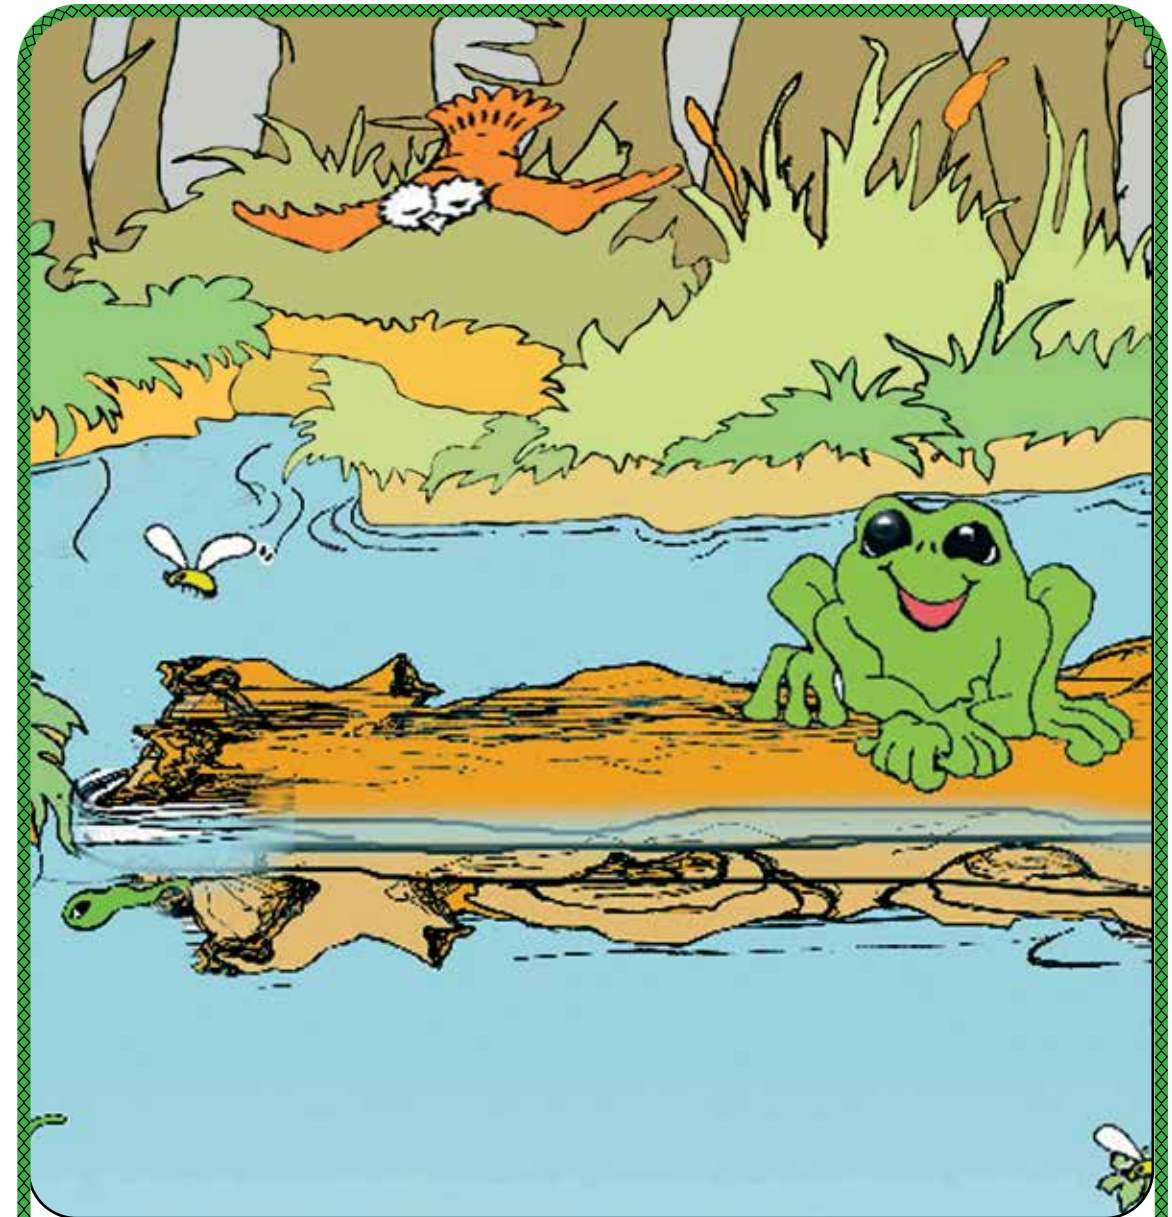

This made Soaker and Joker angry because they felt that it was their log. So, they immediately hopped onto her to sit in their favorite spots. But, to their surprise, they couldn't find them. The log had turned over. So, they swam under it and tried to sit in their favorite spots.

He would have certainly gotten sick from drinking too much muddy water if they had left him there to unstuck himself. He was difficult to control.

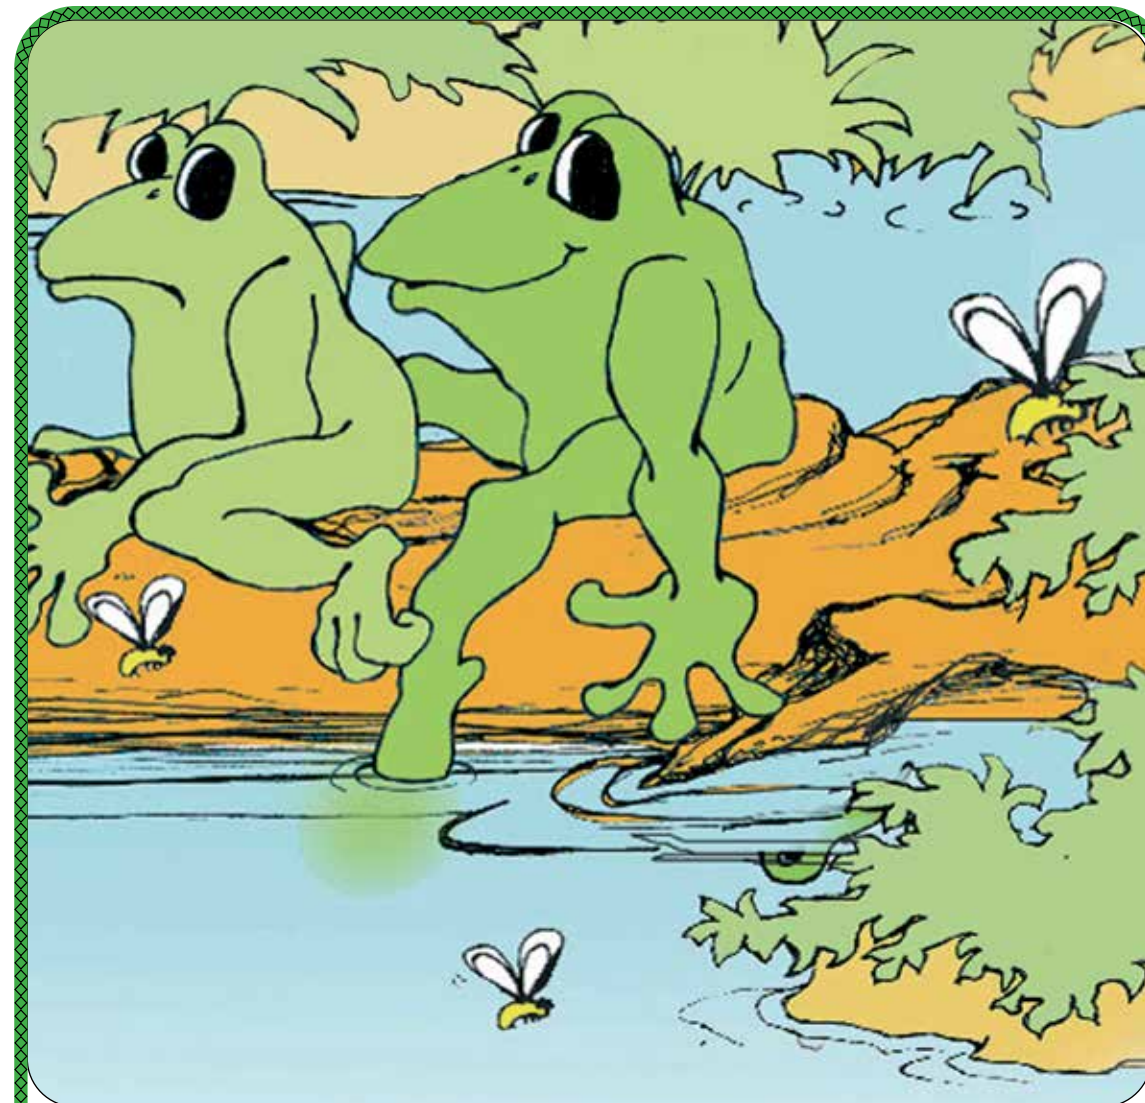

And, just as Soaker and Joker went back to their places on Ole Lumpy, Warty got scared. He heard the cat tails rustle and thought it was an owl coming to snatch him for a late night snack, so he came crashing into the middle of them as they sat in their spots. Well, it wasn't very comfortable to sit so close to each other.

At first they blamed the beavers for taking her,

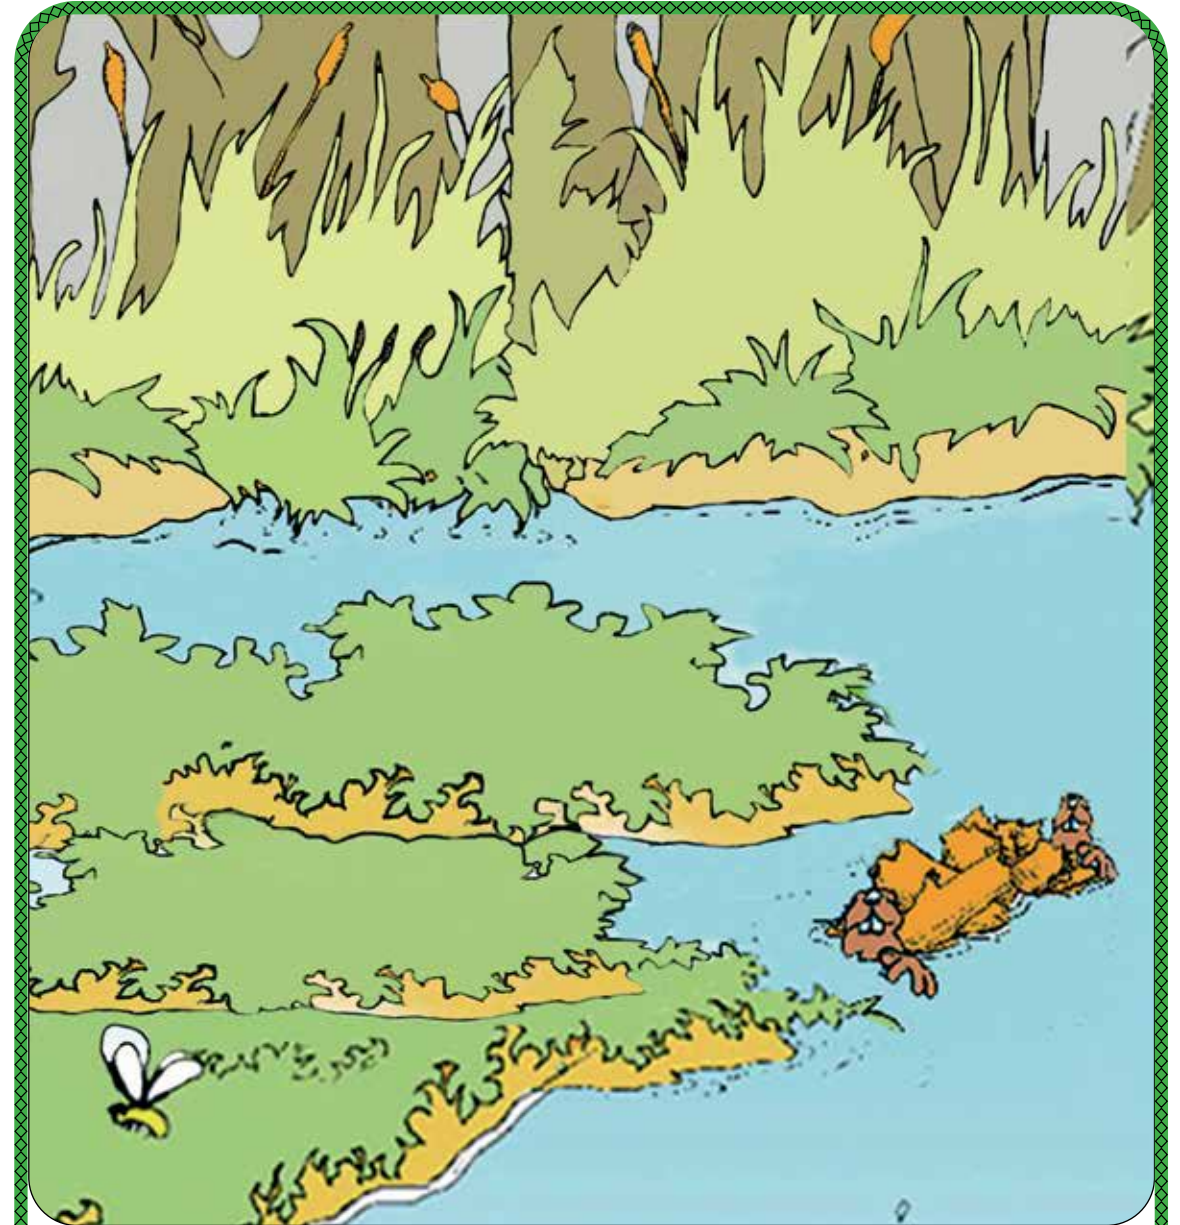

In the morning Soaker and Joker came out to assess the situation and found Ole Lumpy gone.

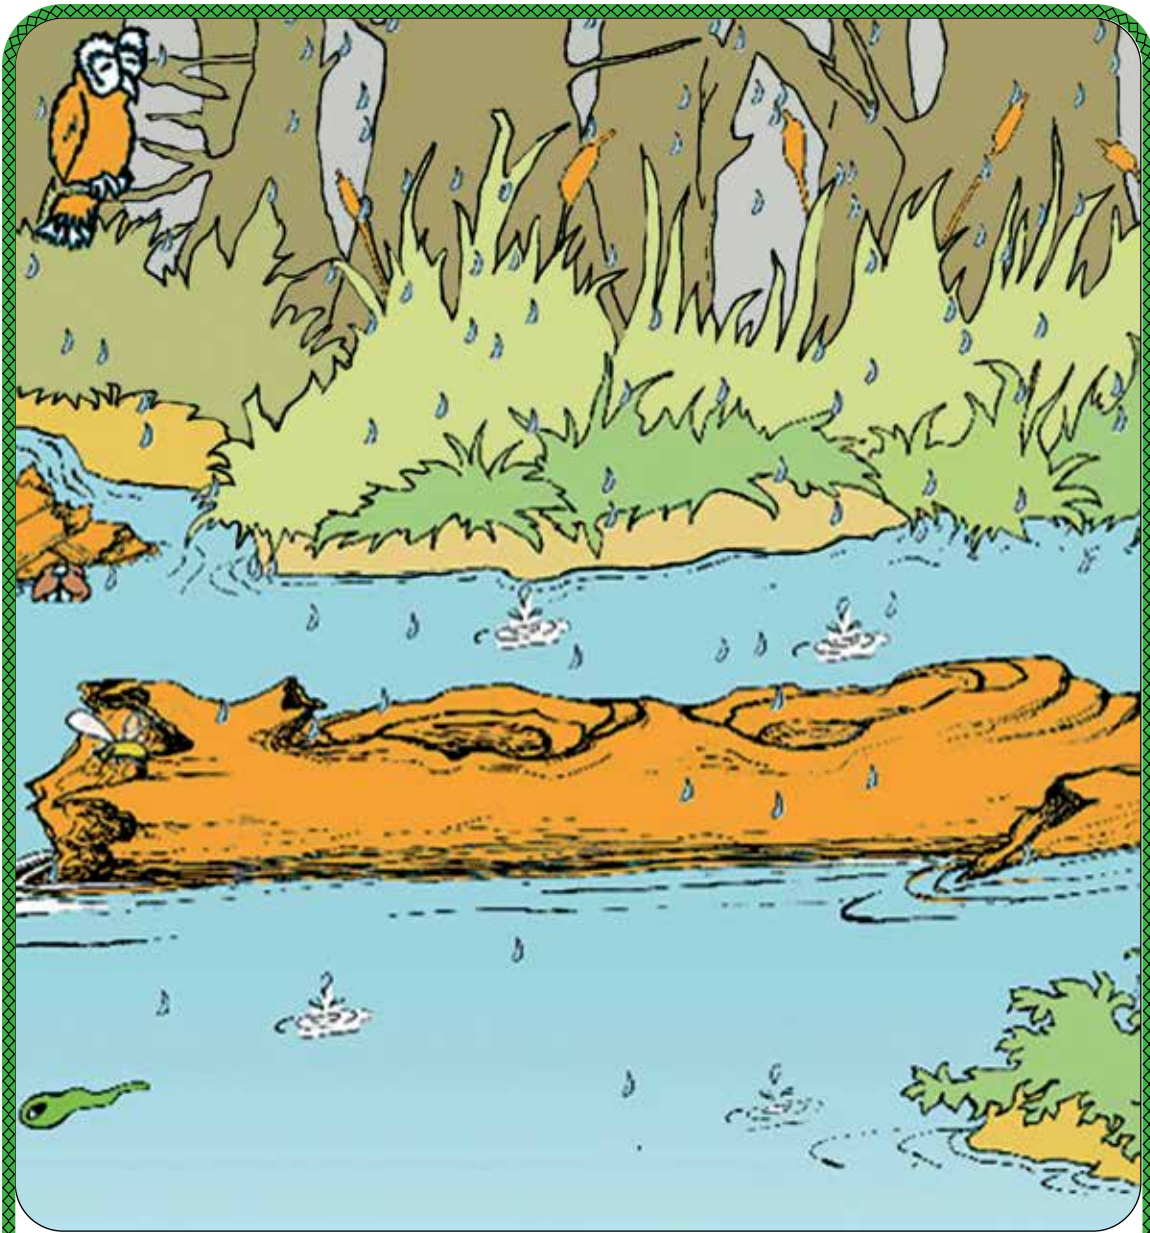

And if they kept their frog sitters in their molded wood chairs, it was too tight with him between. Besides, he wiggled all the time. Little froglets have a tendency to wiggle all of the time, just like little people. They are very similar that way.

So, they all moved down the log.

her to the other side of the pond.

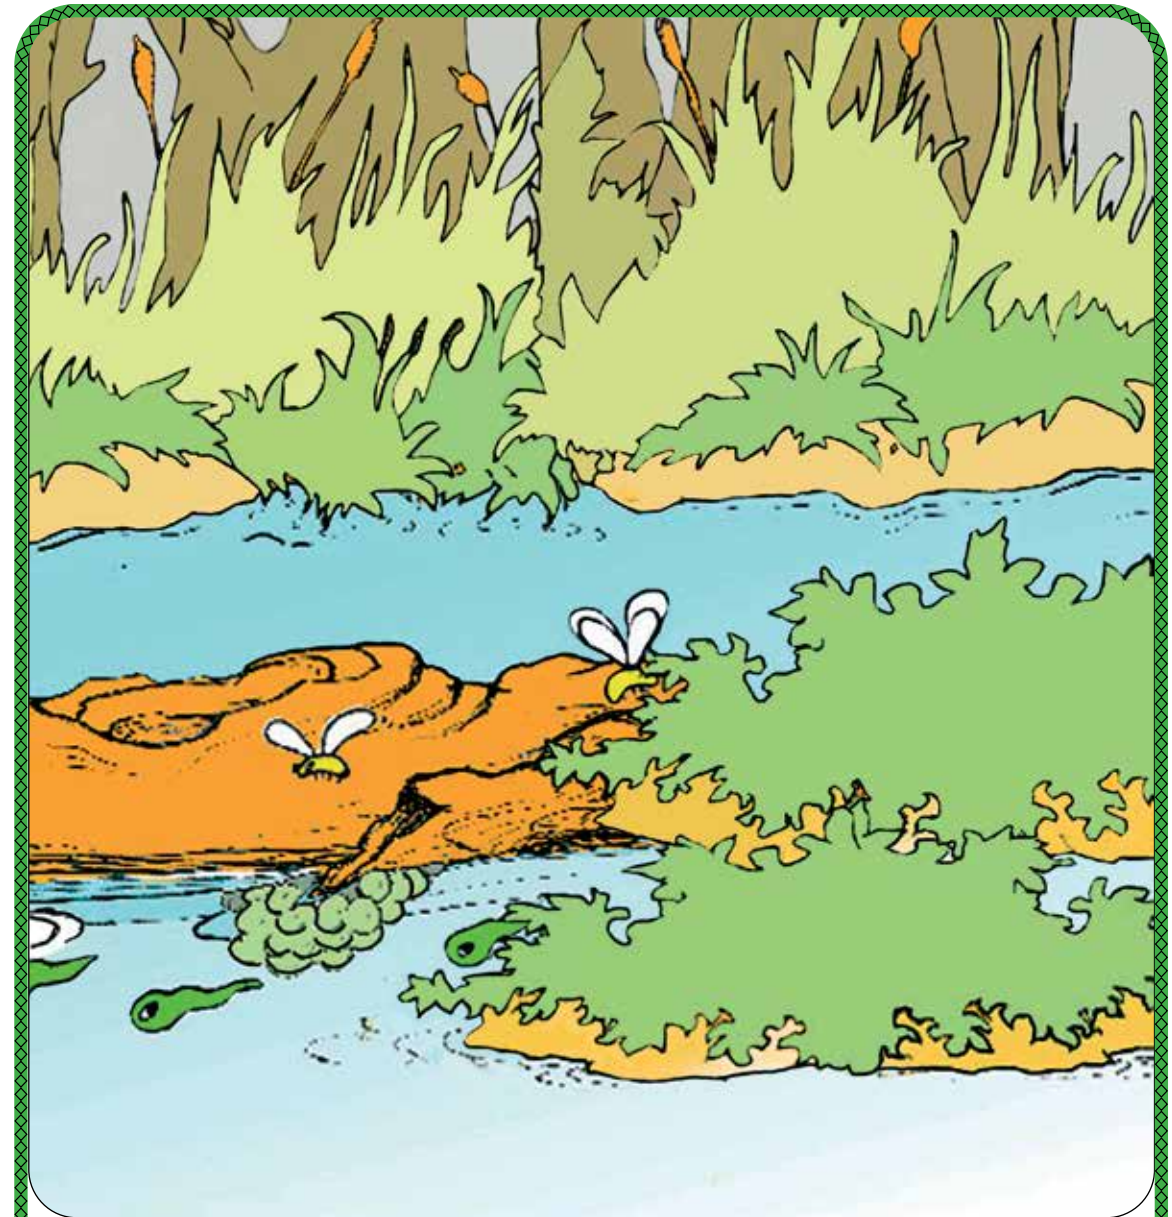

That night a storm came that filled the river that fed the pond. As the water rose, the river got bigger. When the water reached the

There was a real problem. How could they be in their favorite places but still including their little brother?

They decided it was impossible, so told him to go home. Then, they assumed their places and pretended to be happy. But, they weren't and they felt really guilty because when they sent Warty home he hopped slowly hanging his head to the left. (Of course it was hanging to the left, because it wasn't right.)
