

Dream Cachë

Welcome to Sheri's dream cache releasing what has been kept hidden until now. There are stores of riches kept in a vault up to this day, which open the door of understanding the voice of God in dreams as answers to prayer. The wind, the storm, the rain and the lightening of God are coming. Feel the wind? There is always a gentle breeze just before the tornado. Oh how we have looked for the eye of the storm in this world in which we live, yet we have not found it. We have prayed, yet we are not healed. We have spent countless hours on our knees without finding our deliverance. Our children remain on drugs; our families are still in bondage; we are yet poor and destitute. Our Churches are poor, filled with empty pews and singers off cue. Where are the answers to our prayers? We have been tricked by our enemies. They have snuck in and left seeds of doubt which grew into a cancer eating away at our faith in God. Our vision has been clouded by our own sinfulness and lust for the things of this world. Yet, we continue to seek a force outside ourselves which will save us from the dreadful condition which we are in. Where is He? Take encouragement, friends, I have brought a fresh shipment of hope: It's the hope of hearing the voice of God for yourself. Just like Moses heard the voice of the Lord and brought Salvation to the Children of Israel, He is bringing the same today. Has God changed? No. Suppose you ask a question in prayer: Do you expect an answer? There is one, you know? I am here to help you reach out to God in a special way and enable the enemies of doubt within your life to be crushed and conquered. What I bring is a bridge to faith. We attempt to reach a God we do not know; only have heard about from those going on before us. But, when we reach into that darkness, we are unsure of a connection: Will there be a hand reaching back to us? We don't really know. That is faith, my friend. Faith reaches into the unknown seeking something you are unsure of while trusting that there will be an answer on the other side. Welcome to my dream Cachë. It is like a jewelry box filled with gems, sparkling in the moonlight: dreams that come to life as the voice of God dances through my head night after night. And, He wants the same for you. He told me, so. Your dreams and visions can be a bridge to a relationship with God giving encouragement, hope, help, and direction hidden in this vault of wondrous pictures sent straight from heaven.

I have propped open for you five doors
and a window .
I encourage you to learn to seek God through learning to understand His voice as it comes to you His way, now as you are comfortable accepting it. Remember, God came in thunder, storm and a wind in times before. Why wouldn't He now? May I present this shipment of Grace. For it is by the Grace of God that we are saved. Remember that.
