Demon Slayer: Thunder Breathing-Laijutsu the Movie: Origins

1. Choosing idea and pictures. The idea was to make a Demon Slayer movie poster.

2. Created the movie title with the Text option and made it into Japanese. I used Google Translator to help me out with that. Then I did a rough cut out on the main focal point/character of the movie and added one of the lightnings to him. Followed that with adding the Demon slayer logo.
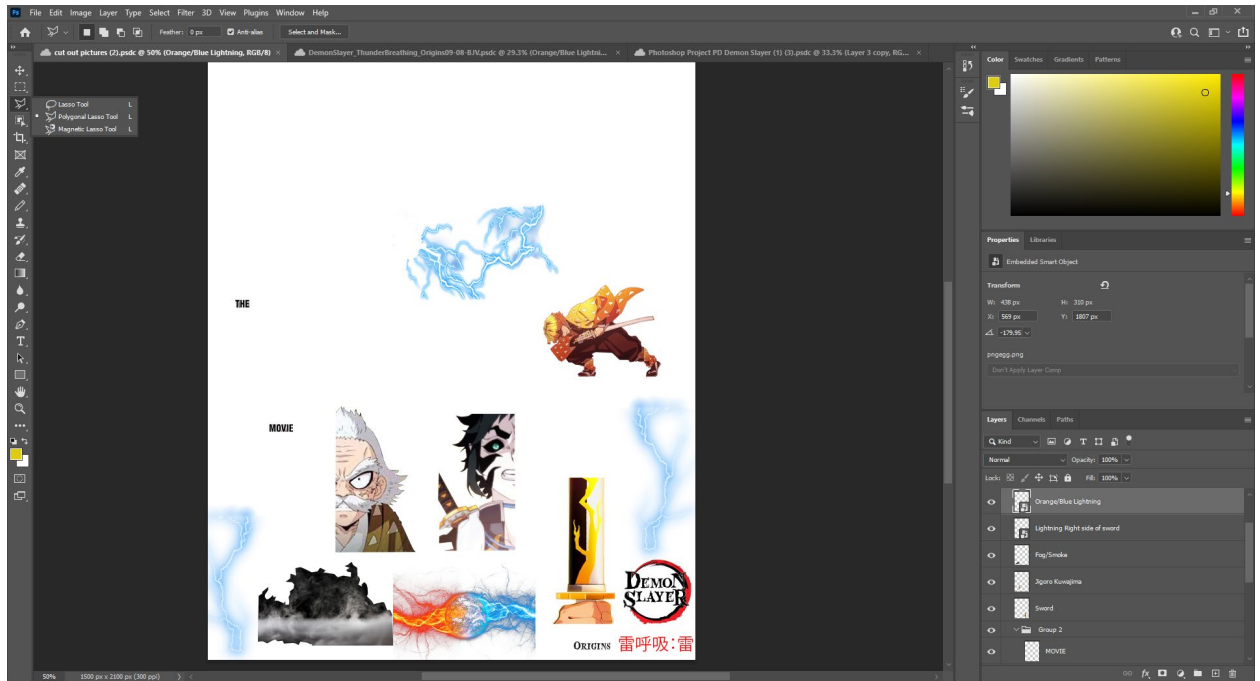

3. It was too flat and basic so I started gaining more ideas from the watching clips of the show on YouTube. I did rough cuts on most of the pictures and created a rough draft. I
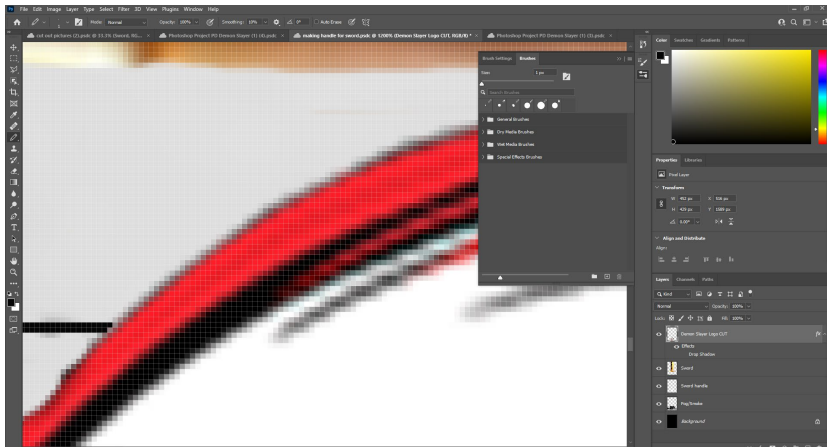

4. Next, I used the lasso tool and touch up tool to cut out all picture with precision. Also, I changed the color of the title.

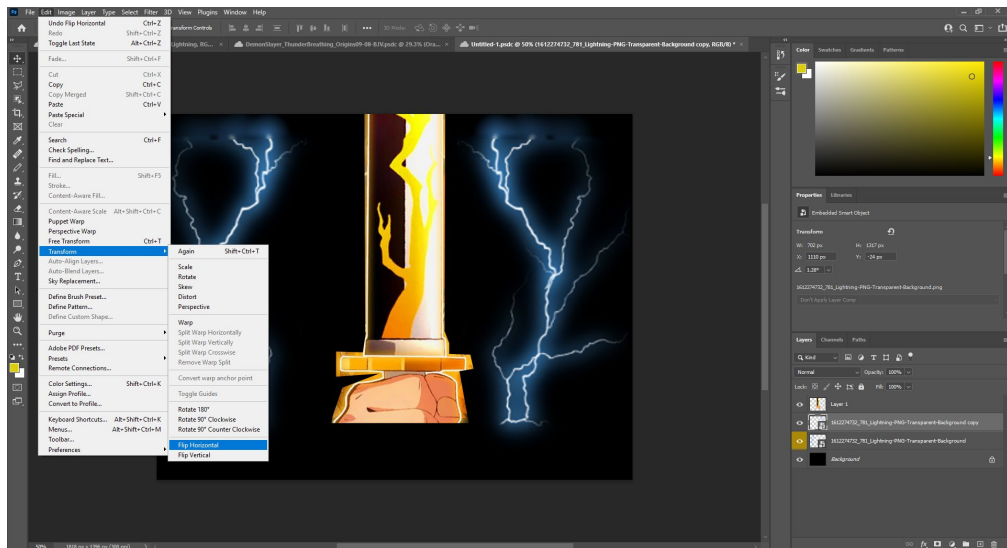

5. I ran into a problem with the sword. Basically, the hand around it was too wide. First thing I tried was just erasing some of the hand to hide it behind the Demon Slayer logo. It didn't look good to me, so I decided to erase the whole hand and the small bit of the sword handle that is showing. I made a white triangle and created my own handle and hid it behind the Demon Slayer logo. Below is what I did and a reference photo of why I chose the white handle. I used the pencil tool to draw a line representing the wrap around the handle, then I used the paint tool to color it in.

6. I added Kaigaku, Jigiro, and the title of the movie on the sword (I turned the letters the same color as the logo), "THE MOVIE", "ORIGINS" (I used a "Demon Slayer font I found on Google), and lightning around the sword. I tried it in another file. I made two and used the horizontal button to flip it in the direction that I wanted.
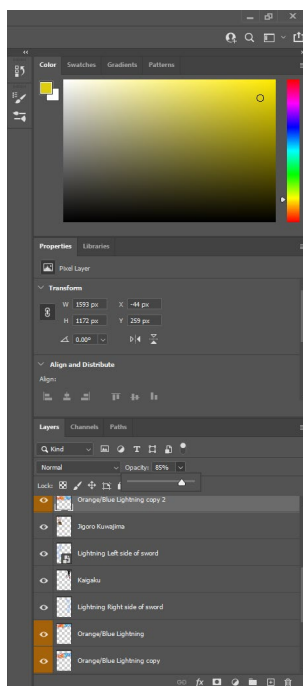

7. I added the main character, Zenitsu. I attached his own lightning coming out of his sword and blurred the bottom of both pictures on top left/right.

8. I added some orange & blue lightning to be a background for the people up top. I used three of those pictures to make that effect. I added another layer on top of the people to cover their underneath crop. I turned all the orange/blue lightning at the up to 85% opacity. I made Zenitsu and his lightning bigger on that sword. I made the smoke on the bottom to raise up higher.

9. I wanted to test myself to see if I could put it on a bus stop billboard. I turned my movie poster into a jpg. I used the movie poster I made and a billboard I downloaded from the internet. I turned the opacity and fill down on both the stock picture of the billboard and my movie flyer to get this look. I wanted to give the illusion that it has some type of covering and/or plexiglass covering the poster.