The Signature Sweet Potato Muffin

was born when Chef Kim's young son, Jordan, refused to eat the sweet potato puree she made for him. She vowed she would never waste sweet potato puree again. Inspired by her already successful Sweet Potato Pie and Cheesecake, she set out to make a muffin that was worthy of the Sweet Jazmines name. After lots of experimentation, the Sweet Potato Muffin with triple sec glaze was officially introduced to customers.

Over the years, the recipe spawned the entire Sweet Potato Signature Collection that includes three different cakes, a cheesecake, a miniature, a pie, and of course, the muffin that launched it all, the Sweet Potato Muffin.

What about the finicky eater who started the whole thing? Ironically, Jordan LOVES Sweet Potato Muffins, which are also a customer favorite at Sweet Jazmines.
