

OH&S Hazard Identification and Evaluation (026)

Take control of safety

Course overview:

Hazard Identification and Risk Assessment is a fundamental task for any organization, and any company's strategy when adopting the ISO 45001 standard. This course will cover the basic concepts of Hazard Identification and Risk Assessment for occupational health and safety management systems.

Prerequisite:

Basic knowledge of OH&S issues is recommended.

Course Objective:

To explain Hazard Identification, Risk Assessment and Control principals in relation to the ISO 45001 standard including understanding of the differences between incidents and accidents and hazard and risk.

What you'll learn:

- Explain Hazard Identification, Assessment and Control principles
- Understand job safety analysis, work procedures and hazard reporting methods
- Understand the difference between incident and accident
- Understand the difference between hazard and risk
- How to assess risk

Who should attend:

- OH&S professionals and consultants
- OHSMS implementation and maintenance teams
- OH&S auditors
- Management Representatives
- Hazard assessment and evaluation teams

Duration and Delivery:

4 hours.

Available as either instructor led in person or virtual training and self-directed, computer-based e-learning.

Flexible and Customisable

Cost:

$1,250.00 (CDN) + taxes

Up to 10 students

(On-site courses, instructor travel costs are not included.)