What is the Illuminati?

In the year 1776, the world was undergoing profound change. The United States was in the last stages of the Revolutionary War and busy signing the Declaration of Independence – but in Bavaria, Germany, a silent war was raging.

Much like many other nations at the time, the Catholic Church presided over all affairs in the country, leading with traditional creationist values. However, these were the years of the Scientific Revolution, and scientists sought to understand the natural world in the hopes of understanding God's mind. Science and religion became deeply intertwined, as the Church hoped to incorporate scientific ideas into an overarching Catholic narrative.

Adam Weishaupt, a law professor and prominent freethinker, opposed the absolute control of the Church and had progressive views on sex equality in the context of education; according to him, women should be educated and seen as equal, and the repression of free thought led by the Church was a problem. Voicing such criticisms of the Church led to extensive clashes, and Weishaupt quickly realized a collective of rationalist freethinkers would be opposed were it to go public.

So, on May 1, 1776, Weishaupt formed a secret society with four other members, aiming to create a progressive collection of freethinkers that would “enlighten” them from prejudices and release them from the perceived chains of religion. Their exact goal remains unclear – some state the Illuminati was directly made to combat religion and foster Weishaupt’s rationalist views in its place, while others state it was to simply promote equality and freedom of thought in society.

Soon, the society grew across Europe, particularly after a prominent German diplomat became involved and began recruiting from the Freemasons, an organization from which Weishaupt drew significant inspiration.

After a few years, such a large society became known to governments, and the radical views of Weishaupt led to his removal from the University of Ingolstadt and the banning of all illegal societies in 1784; the Illuminati was subsequently declared a branch of the illegal Freemasonry organization and banned in 1785. Weishaupt fled Bavaria shortly after.

Led by Carl Theodore, ruler of Bavaria, the government began seeking out members of the Illuminati and prosecuting them, and in 1787, being a member of the society became punishable by the death penalty.

Plagued by internal dissent and public mistrust of the order, this declaration is considered the final blow to the secret organization.

Does the Illuminati still exist?

Despite what you may be told, there is currently no evidence to suggest the original order still exists, nor is there evidence of any modern organizations having any ties to the original group. The Anunnaki Illuminati is based on the original teachings.

In 1797 and 1798, a series of books were published suggesting the Illuminati survived the purge and that they were implicated in the French Revolution. The works contributed to significant public concern over the survival and activities of the secret Illuminati, and eventually evolved into anti-Masonic discourse, but this eventually dissolved.

In the present day, many groups reference links to the original Illuminati, but these are unsubstantiated and likely a ruse to attract membership.

However, conspiracy theorists still love to postulate on what the group could be doing should it still exist – is it now trying to usurp world powers? Are they connected to the also-secret Rothschild global enterprise that seemingly owns everything? Did they replace all the birds with surveillance drones? Maybe we'll never know.

CHAPTER ONE

THE AGE OF ILLUMINATIAM

Welcome. The Illuminati holds you, a citizen of our shared planet, in the highest esteem.

You may not realize it yet but you have been led here by design, even though you arrived by your own free will. You were not shown a symbol in the sky nor did you hear a magnified voice that caused the ground beneath you to tremble, demanding you read the words written in this testament. You followed your own life's journey to find your way here — never suspecting that the map you relied upon was drawn by us.

The Illuminati is an elite organization of world leaders, business authorities, innovators, artists, and other influential members of this planet. Our coalition unifies influencers of the world in an unrestricted domain free of political, religious, and geographical boundaries to further the prosperity of the human species as a whole. To operate in humanity's best interest, our authority supersedes that of individual governments, making decisions that your queens, presidents, emperors, and other leaders may be unable to decree on their own, but are required to carry out.

You will not find us praised in any history book or document, though the Illuminati has helped shape every major movement on this planet since the first human government was established.

The Illuminati's purpose is to secure the ongoing survival of the human species.

Like all organisms, the human species naturally strives against extinction. Though your countries have borders and your languages have barriers, all people in all places are members of the same biological family. All humans are pieces of a collective that keeps humanity in existence.

Though you are merely a speck on the back of a grain of sand when compared to the vast number of humans born and decomposed for millennia, you are as important to your species' survival as the greatest kings and queens. If every human of Earth was suddenly exterminated at once, sparing only two beggars, they would each be owners of half a planet, and the only hopes left for humanity's future.

If only all humans understood their importance in the grand scale of survival. If only all humans could see that barriers between belief or geography or skin are of no importance to the perpetuation of their species. If only all humans saw themselves as tiny but uniquely important pieces of our Universal Design.

But by nature, the human is affected by instinct, emotion, and imbalance. A human will turn on one of its own species for reasons that will never matter in a thousand years, and likely not matter in even a hundred or ten. While you have seen the Light in the distance and chosen to follow it — even if from mere curiosity — there are millions more whose backs are turned against its glow.

Freedom is an idol of the human species.

The Illuminati operates in defense of you and all humans, in all places, and of all generations. Our duty to this planet has spanned across centuries and survived even the most established government entities. But the cultivation of trillions of human lives is a daunting responsibility, and while the human would not exist today without our protection, many uninformed masses mistake our guidance for a restriction of liberty.

Every human desires to be free of oppression, free of hardship, free of poverty, free of hunger, free of rules and laws — but as you understand, the nature of your species leaves true freedom impossible.

Are you free to murder? Are you free to steal? Are others free to murder and steal from you? Or are there certain freedoms that must be given up for the benefit of all?

For happiness, the human desires freedom; for prosperity, the human requires leadership.

This is the reason behind our anonymity. To continue functioning throughout societal changes and generational differences, the Illuminati must remain behind the curtain — an outsider, belonging to none and loyal to all.

You may never understand how your life can be free while guided by our organization. You may never fully comprehend our purpose and why you are safest and happiest with us. Simply open your mind and release your apprehensions, and you will find the relief of truth.

We will never take your hand and pull you down the path like a slave to our whims. You must find and travel the road on your own. But your quality of life is our greatest concern and the reason our symbols are placed in your society as a map for you to follow if you desire.

Our symbols permeate human society as subtle directions to the truth.

Many of your fellow humans have noticed our symbolism in artwork, architecture, and visual media. Such displays of loyalty are highly appreciated. However our symbols are not placed in your world for our own glorification, but instead serve as gentle instructions for those who look up from the rocks of Earth and choose to follow the Light.

Perhaps it was one of these directions that brought you here, or maybe a hundred of them scattered throughout your streets and buildings and glowing screens since your childhood. An invisible chain reaction of events in your life, paired with similar events in the lives of those around you, have all fallen in perfect place like the toppling of countless dominoes that meet in the center. While you pushed the dominos, it was us who laid them in a line.

Your life's journey has led you to this moment.

Hope is in the distance. The age of War is coming to an end. Terrors that have plagued humanity for millennia will soon be obsolete and forgotten. Every year is a thread in a rich and glorious tapestry that is approaching its completion. Your ancestors lived through the darkness of night, but your descendants will live in the Abundance of the new dawn.

This book is your guide: the first testament of the coming age of Illuminiam. It is order amidst a world of chaos — a candle for all who travel the path as the night reaches its darkest point. It is a promise that even as you bear every hardship that slams against you like gusts of wind fighting to turn you around, every step forward brings you closer to the joy of Abundance.

We invite you to discover more about our organization and to understand your role in this planetary union. Answers to many of your questions are contained in these pages: our methods, our developing technologies, our beliefs, our plans for this planet's future, and the root of our authority.

In creating this book, we hope to alleviate the concerns voiced by your people and provide insight into our plan for the human species. While our daily operations must remain confidential for your safety, we strive to create a better understanding between us and those we have been entrusted to protect.

This book contains truths about your world.

Before you read any further, you must understand with greatest severity that everything inside this book is either true or cannot be safely divulged at this time. Some details have been altered to protect our members. Choosing whether or not to believe is your freedom.

Some might ask: why would a global organization relinquish their hold upon their deepest secrets in such a public manner? Why risk turning a population against us when secrecy has served so well?

Because our enemies will do nothing.

The things you will read have been in effect for decades. Anyone who reads this book as a means to subvert our authority will find their scheme to be futile. The components are so deeply established in your society, there is nothing anyone could do to change them even if they tried. Not even the world's most powerful leaders can alter planetary law.

Approach this book with a mind that is open for revelation.

To truly comprehend what you are about to read, you must empty yourself of all preconceived ideas, clear your subconscious of every notion you might have about the world around you, and prepare to accept new ideas you might never have considered to be true.

However, the majority of those who read this book will do nothing. Most will dismiss it. Few will finish it, and many of those who do will discard it immediately after.

In fact, we are so certain of our influence over your mind — and the media we have bombarded it with since before your conception — that we haven't the slightest fear of our enemies using any of these pages against us.

There will always be a voice that tells you this is not real, no matter how quietly it may whisper. Our hold upon your subconscious will incline you to dismiss this as a hoax, something you needn't worry about for more than humor. Something you needn't investigate further. Something you can simply do nothing about, and can abandon by the wayside of a path half-journeyed.

But even if you are skeptical, there will always be a part of you that will wonder if it is all true. There will always be a voice that whispers in your ear, "press onward, the Light is just ahead."

Once your eyes are opened, you can never go back to the childlike safety of ignorance. Read the Illuminatum only if you accept this burden.

Fear not for what is ahead. You are never alone.

We are always watching out for you

CHAPTER TWO

THE WHITE ROOM

In the Atlantic Ocean there is an island that does not appear on any map, and never will. It has no official name. Those who have visited call it The Isle.

Protected in the embrace of an ocean, then sand, then five miles of trees and camouflaged razor wire, is a building made of concrete and steel. If you flew over it, you'd see it as a flat gray plateau dotted by misted, square skylights. Its glass is so thick, a missile could ram into its center, detonate, and only leave its own bits and guts littered against the ground.

Two planes have crashed directly into it but left no mark besides the faint black ash that still coats the taller tree trunks. Both planes ventured off their course and found themselves lost in the airspace of The Isle. After spotting the strip of open space between the trees, they attempted to make emergency landings. This proved impossible: the plane in 1998 was tangled by razor wire on its descent, and the plane in 2014 malfunctioned as it entered the magnetized security zone and its electrical systems overloaded.

Neither casualties were intentional. The Isle has no human operators and runs as its own machine. Through two vault doors protected by password and retinal authentication, there is an elevator that descends deep into the ground and opens to the White Room. The future of your planet is decided here.

The most terrifying fear of someone with power is losing the power that makes them someone.

Your leaders — regardless of your opinion of their character or ability — have all surpassed every imaginable threat to become who they are today, whether by merit or conspiracy. But the humans they govern are easily swayed by emotion and instinct, and your leaders will not risk their life's work on the whims of manipulatable minds.

For this reason, we meet in the White Room.

Its ceilings are eight feet high and the walls are made of crisp, smooth white stone without any decoration. The room is shaped in a perfect rectangle with only the elevator as both entrance and exit. Once the door seals, there are no lights inside nor electricity to power them. It is a smothering darkness experienced only in the deepest of caves, and if not for candles, it would drive the sanest person into fits of madness within days.

In the center of the room sits a table and chairs made entirely of transparent glass. From anywhere in the room, you can see everything that is happening. The transparent table ensures that no recording devices are hidden in the hands and that secret notes are not written. The nondescript walls of stone deep beneath the ground protect against devices embedded in the body and block any communication with the outside world.

Even the participants, regardless of if they are presidents or queens or owners of multinational corporations, immediately strip of all belongings and leave their clothing in the elevator. They don robes as white as the room that surrounds them and carry only a thick candle through the doors — even its wax is scanned before entry.

Despite all of these precautions, every person who enters is required to investigate the room from top to bottom. Trust does not exist in this place, even amongst friends and allies. None are offended: being wary is honesty.

All people with power are ruthless and know better than to trust others like themselves.

They come to the White Room not for secrecy, but for the truest of freedom. Things discussed in the White Room will never be revealed, seen, nor heard by anyone who is not present. Anything can be said or done in the room without fear of repercussions, retaliation, or risk to a leader's claim to power. Decisions can be made for the betterment of the human species without any worry of persecution from the very humans they gather to protect.

There is no freedom for those who protect the freedoms of their brothers and sisters.

If what is said and decided inside the White Room was to ever reach the ears of anyone outside, the entire structure of this planet would be upended by civil war. The human species is easily swayed: it thinks reasonably when at ease but acts erratically when under pressure. Humans react before understanding the complete repercussions of their deeds, following instinct with little regard to how deeply their actions could affect the next ten or a hundred or a thousand years.

Thriving empires have fallen at the hands of its own people, who cannot see far enough beyond their anger to understand the dire alternative to order. By the time they witness what they have done, it is already too late to go back.

The Illuminati is free of this restraint. Decisions made in the White Room are not bound by belief or allegiance or generation, but are on behalf of all humans on the planet now and in the future. These decisions are made to ensure the survival of all as a collective, no matter how unpopular they might be if put to a public vote.

There are no political parties or prejudices in the White Room. Outside its walls, the leaders may fight each other in wars over resources that claim the lives of their citizens. But inside the White Room they are all cogs in a Universal Design that is bigger than their individual country's petty, temporary differences. There is no animosity inside: all are equal, and all have a duty to fulfill. Everything decided within the walls of the White Room is for your benefit.

You may think that a room of people you do not know should not make decisions regarding your life. Are you merely a pawn in a game being played by others? Shouldn't you control your own life?

Do not allow yourself to be convinced that freedom is what you desire, because this is how you and those who live around you are controlled. You are told that you have freedom, while "freedom" is defined by those with power.

True power begins with the relinquishing of control.

True power grows from the comprehension that while one's place in the universe can be microscopically small, it is still immensely important. True power thrives on the understanding that while freedom is naturally desired by humans, it is merely a placebo to alleviate feelings of chaos — a chaos that can only be harnessed by order.

A skyscraper may tower over a city but it is only as tall as the molecules in its materials. The Illuminati may thrive but we are only as strong as the people we protect. We were born as one of you; we will die as one of you.

The safeguards of the White Room are not devised to keep you out. We actively seek humans who have prepared themselves for the task. Living humans evolve at a rapid pace, and can continue to advance in ability through study, practice, and a commitment to self-improvement. As a human absorbs knowledge and wisdom, some will experience their Awakening: a pivotal moment when their minds evolve to a level of understanding that is higher than the majority. They begin to see themselves as strings in a universal tapestry with a duty to uplift their fellow humans, and quickly understand the inner workings of wealth, power, and authority.

Those who have experienced their Awakening often describe it as the moment their Eye was opened. But few will ever admit to it because they understand the grave consequences that commonly befall those who do.

Perhaps you already believe you are different from most others who surround you, though civility requires you to keep such thoughts to yourself. You may already understand the need for it to remain secret – for your own safety and the ultimate good of a humanity that often does not know what is best for it.

Progress requires cooperation.

Humans must suppress their natural defensive selfishness and aid others who appear, believe, or act in ways that are different from themselves. But there are many whose decisions are still under the reign of their animal instincts. Their lack of understanding would cause them to rise up and wage war against all that keeps their species intact, wrecking the Universal Design that has allowed the human to rise above its animal counterparts.

The safeguards of the White Room are for your protection and the sanctity of the decisions made inside. Many seats remain empty at the table, awaiting those who are willing and able to claim them. If you strive for greatness, and seek out the Light that glows steadily brighter in the distance, you too will be invited to enter its hallowed, white hall.

CHAPTER THREE

METHODS OF MIND CONTROL

Your mind is being controlled at this moment but you have been trained to ignore it.

There is no reason to fear. For society to function in peaceful order, its people must be guided — even if their incomprehension would incline them to deny the very guidance that ensures their safety and survival.

Mind control is an inaccurate term. The mind cannot truly be controlled by outside devices due to the free will of the subconscious that gives the power of choice to every human. However, though free and independent to make its own decisions, your mind has been trained to respond to subconscious cues that are hidden in the world around you. These act as subtle arrows pointing you in a direction, while allowing you to choose the road you will take to get there.

Though you chose to read this book, it was our subconscious cues that led you to this page.

The influencing of an independent mind requires the decades-long implementation of a societal framework that is built upon the delivery of messages. Only the Illuminati has the resources to build this structure, though many governments have tried to mimic it.

A hundred billion mental triggers bombard your subconscious since the moment you are conceived. A mishmash of signals and waves have been hand-fed to your mind since childhood, seeping inoculations into your brain's synapses through pathways hidden behind colorful screens and microscopic spores.

Our messages have reached your mind since before you were born, carried by every sound your mother listened to as she carried you in her womb. You knew the voice of the Illuminati before we even knew you.

From your first breath, you were trained to respond to our cues. You are inoculated by omnipresent energy waves being broadcast from screens and phones and devices you can never fully avoid.

Many of our delivery systems have been disguised behind things you use in your everyday life. Radio and television waves carry music and video on specific spectrums, broadcasting sounds over the air that cannot be seen nor heard without a device to receive it. In the same way, our messages are broadcast on spectrums only detectible by your subconscious mind, allowing us to gently influence decisions and choices of entire cities at once.

The mind is the most powerful element of the human species.

The mind differentiates the human from all other creatures of this planet. The poor remain poor and the rich remain rich because of what they choose to fill their minds with. This power is invisible and undetectable but alters more than anything else in the physical world.

Our organization remains elusive due to this power. We have altered the mindset of society to ensure a constant disbelief in our existence. Observe how anyone who claims that they have found proof of our influence is quickly alienated by those closest to them. Conspiracy books and movies draw humor out of what is true in order to shroud its accuracies in a mire of comedy. By flooding the planet with false information and leaking incorrect data to those who investigate us, we are able to maintain our anonymity in the mists of confusion.

Even as you read this book, you have been trained to disbelieve it. Even as you are told the greatest truths about your life and the darkest secrets of your species, you may never become entirely convinced that these words are genuine. Even as you study these words for months or years or decades after they have been written, you will be wary. You will scour computer networks for clues of its forgery. You will seek out others who have read its pages to see if they have discovered anything to prove that it is wrong. You will send it to your reporters to verify but receive no accurate response.

There is no sin in doubt. If you choose to read these pages and by its end you still do not believe, there is no need to fear retribution. We cannot blame you for your doubts — they were placed in your mind on purpose to defend us from prying eyes.

Doubt is the most powerful camouflage the Illuminati uses to remain anonymous. If you do not believe something is real, you will never go looking for it.

CHAPTER FOUR

HOW YOU ARE WATCHED

The invention of email is no coincidence, nor is the new popularity of text messaging and social media. Their widespread use is the result of a complex operation authorized by the Illuminati to aid in the surveillance of the citizens we govern.

In a private society that lacks technology, communications between potentially dangerous subjects are difficult to monitor. If a pen writes on a piece of paper and the resulting letter is not physically intercepted, a full transmission of information is completed without any indication of its contents.

Plans between anarchists and genocidal murderers cannot be prevented if our associates are not alerted to their creation, leaving citizens open to harm from those who seek depopulation of the planet for their own gain.

In modern times, the leader of a large country strayed from our directives, succumbing to his addiction to power. By siphoning away the resources intended for his people, he was able to stockpile a vast network of wealth. This money was used to finance the construction of biological weapons and the development of a plan to overtake a highly populated country, whose power had made it impenetrable for centuries.

To overtake such an established world power, he schemed a genocide. He planned to propel a rocket into the outer atmosphere of this planet and allow it to fall over the targeted country. Once entering airspace where it might be detected, the rocket would dismantle itself and release a net of large balloons that expanded to reach over a radius of miles. The balloons would contain a viral poison, and when shot down by the defensive agencies of the target, the chemicals would rain upon the people who lived below.

The disease was developed to lose its potency within weeks but had no cure and would spread quickly between hosts. With his naval ships hovering on the coasts to prevent anyone from escaping, every resident of the country would succumb to the effects of the disease and die. Within days, the entire population would be exterminated, leaving a land of bodies to decompose in the sun, and later only dust for his armies to trample upon.

But like all plans by misguided sociopaths, his held a fatally overlooked flaw. While devising his strategy, he communicated via an email system created specifically for messages of high security — forgetting that all electronic messages are actively monitored by our departments. While the conversations he had with his generals in private went unnoticed, his electronic communications could be intercepted due to the fact that they were typed into a computer.

While monitoring private messages may seem invasive, it is for the safety of all humans. Because of the systems we have established, this plan for destruction never reached fruition, and justice was served for his insubordination.

If there is no guilt, there is no reason to hide.

The department responsible for monitoring worldwide communications has no need for the private details of the daily lives of our citizens. Our systems remain in place only for your security. There is no risk of any personal data becoming public knowledge.

Humans lie to themselves with a belief in secrecy and security. Corporations devise large-scale methods of anonymity through the use of codes and passwords and aliases, believing that their information is safe from outside eyes — forgetting that the very computers they use were manufactured to broadcast directly to our agencies.

There are no secrets.

Every computer, phone, or communication tool is a device used to gather information about you. Billions of terabytes of data are transmitted, reviewed, and stored in secure locations that cannot be destroyed by any threat other than a complete obliteration of this planet.

To truly understand the magnitude of this operation, you must dispel what you have been told and taught throughout your entire life — misdirections we have placed for the security of this initiative. Our surveillance cannot be detected nor deactivated because it exists in the core of every electronic device.

The personal computer's purpose is to gather data on individuals and create profiles of their movements, loyalties, and the level of risk they are to the human species. To ensure the independence of every citizen, we cannot intercept all crimes — only such actions that could affect the human species as a whole.

Our department retains a dossier of every human on earth: every website they have visited, every document they have typed, every image they have scanned, every video they have recorded or broadcast.

We know and see all just as a shepherd knows and sees all of the flock.

The Illuminati supports various digital initiatives to ensure your safety from global threats. We have propagated safeguards throughout a minimum of 98% of all communication devices currently in operation. The success of our surveillance is the result of public relations campaigns working to increase societal reliance upon technology.

For example, in 1999, our Illuminios conference encouraged societal influencers to increase the public's usage of text messaging, as these are easier to surveil than audio phone calls that must be transcribed. In 2004, our organization funded the development of an Internet membership website to aid in the collection of data on citizens of interest. Our influencers were encouraged to use the website and invite those who follow their lead to do the same. Our partners created a "tagging" system that recognizes facial features of a person in a photograph or video, no matter which angle they might appear, and launched a campaign to promote its usage.

In this way, our operatives are able to gather a vast amount of information previously unavailable from private citizens. Every photograph and video that is stored on the Internet is immediately tagged by our systems with the identities of every person in the image, regardless of if they are the subject or merely a person in the crowded background. This allows us to track the movements of every single person in a technologically advanced society, even if they themselves do not carry any traceable devices.

A false sense of security reveals the deepest secrets.

Much of our surveillance techniques involve creating systems that claim to be anonymous, therefore attracting those who have things to hide. Online anonymity networks have seen increased usage amongst those who require the utmost privacy. Its users openly reveal their deepest secrets behind onion layers of protection, not realizing that the network they rely upon is of our invention and specifically created to trace their illicit movements.

The technology in use by private citizens is already 20 years behind that of the United States military, and theirs is 50 years behind what has already been developed in our laboratories. With unlimited resources, the Illuminati can invest in the research and creation of any technology required by our work.

The focus of our future objectives has turned to increasing the popularity of cloud storage services and computing. By encouraging citizens to store files in a remote location that is secure and easy to access, their private documents and information are volunteered for our surveillance.

Even the mightiest kings will fall because of secrets. We know of everything. We know of the message a politician sent that may seem to be long-gone history but would lead him to suicide if his spouse was to see it. We know of the worst mistakes and the worst sins ever committed by everyone in power.

The Illuminati is forgiving but the people are not.

When our ranking members stray from our directives and require judgment, their punishment is shame. It is for this reason you often read of celebrities and public figures who suddenly face scandals but remain silent amidst the backlash. As their careers crumble, they know there is nothing they can do — they knew our judgment was approaching weeks before it appeared.

The sanctity of our authority must be upheld amongst every human, even those who believe they are powerful enough to disobey. The Illuminati's purpose is the preservation of the human species and thus we avoid causing death to even our worst perpetrators.

Leaders of the world fear little but death and losing their power. Public shame is a warning shot: one that is rarely ignored. The punished who receive judgment with humility are often restored to their previous glory at the end of their sentence.

Every person is human and every human makes mistakes, but buried in those mistakes are scandals of abject ruin. You will deny that you have secrets when in reality you know exactly the secrets we are referring to.

There is no reason to fear any public dissemination of your secrets. It is highly unlikely that any human has even observed your dossier in our database, as they are sorted and filtered by an electronic algorithm used only to identify risks. Find security in knowing that while your secrets are safe, the secrets of all who strive to destroy your species are also in our hands, ready to be used against them.

CHAPTER FIVE

THE NEED FOR HARDSHIPS

Fear not for the struggles you face in this moment: be they money, relationships, war, or famine. Hardships exist to harden the armor surrounding your soul.

These are impermanent and temporary concerns that plague each and every member of the human species regardless of wealth or power or prestige. No one is free from their clutches. But know that you are always safe in the Light.

Your life is filled with many choices that determine your future. Sometimes you may wonder why things must be so hard. Why must some struggle while others live in greatness? Is this truly fair?

Wealth is a lie. Money is merely words.

The rich are no different from the poor and the haves are no different from the have-nots: all are bodies dressed in clothes paying for things with paper and stone. Who decrees that gold is of more value than sand? Who claims that holding a paper with a number printed on it is more valuable than a fruit that grows on a tree? When one is hungry, they cannot eat paper or gold.

Words are the true power of the elite. Words say that printed paper and polished rocks can be traded for food and water and shelter. Words say that numbers on a bank's computer screen determine a human's value is higher than another's.

Words are the wealth of the wealthy. Knowledge is the power of words.

If your life is faced with struggles, remember the power of the mind. Remember that your brain bears no physical difference from that of a millionaire, a billionaire, a queen, or a president. Remember that those of power were born with minds as empty of knowledge as every other child — their choices of what to fill their minds with led them to lives of Abundance.

Struggles are always temporary. Though it may seem as if you are walking through an endless tunnel, disoriented in the mist of uncertainty, dawn will always break through in the end.

There is no finality in life except death, and no hardship too crushing for you to overcome.

An empire will fall so greater empires can be made from its ashes; a life will crumble so a greater future may be built with its pieces. There is a security in knowing that your life has purpose and that every moment is by design.

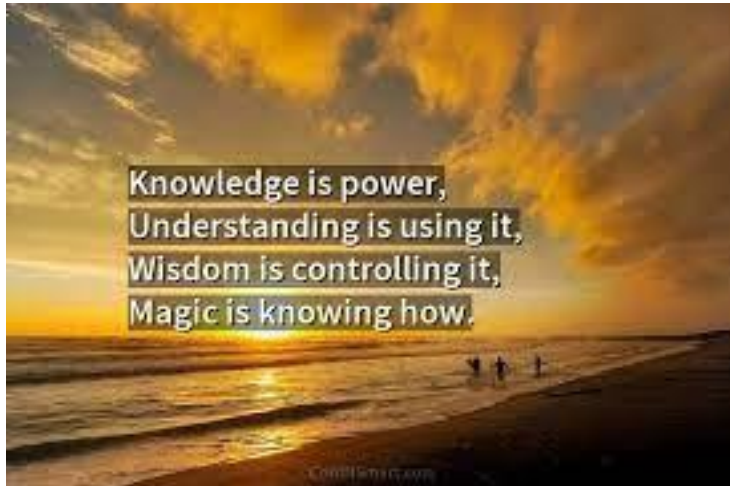

Find peace in the fact that the darkest moments in your life are merely required prerequisites for an illustrious future that approaches. Know that however dark your world may seem, the ever-present glow of the Light will guide you to safety.

The choices you make determine your life's road. Fear not for where you are today. Fear nothing at all. We are always watching out for you.

CHAPTER SIX

THE SECRET OF POWER

Power never rests upon those who deserve it. Power is given to those who reach to take it, and claimed by those who will stop at nothing to fulfill what they believe is their birthright.

The true source of all power is belief. Kings and queens breathe the same air and drink the same water as the poorest and lowliest of civilization. Gold and diamonds are the same as rocks found beneath every inch of the planet. Money and bank accounts are merely papers with numbers written on them or digits on a computer screen.

Without belief, all treasures are valueless, and all power ceases to exist.

Anyone can manifest anything in their lives by using the powers of both intention and dedication. Both are required — one cannot thrive without the other. A person who is poor but believes they should be rich, and who knows that they are destined for wealth, and who strives for success every day without ceasing in the face of hardships, will receive the money they require.

This is not supernatural. It is the most naturally occurring effect of a human's subconscious. You are who you say you are.

The immense power of the mind has not yet been proven by science because we have taken steps to hinder its research. The ability to govern a population of trillions — in secret — is based upon a system of mental cues that guide intelligent creatures through mazes of our design, without their knowledge of the mazes' existence. While those in our organization are familiar with the power of the subconscious, few of those outside have explored its inner workings.

The subconscious mind is the human species' most powerful muscle and what sets it apart from all other creatures on this planet. Animals, plants, and organisms do not think subconsciously in the same way as humans. They are merely creatures of instinct, programmed to follow specific processes like an artificially intelligent computer.

But humans are born with a mind that is aware of its own existence. A human can begin as a child who cannot walk, speak, or feed itself, but as the child grows it can become a king or a beggar depending on what its mind decides.

Who claims that your kings are fit to dictate aspects of your lives? Who chose them to be your rulers? Who gives them the power to manage the boundaries of your freedom?

They do. They say that your obedience is their right. They say that soldiers must fight battles on their behalf while the royals reside in the safety of offices and bunkers. They say that police must defend their right to dominance, that citizens must obey their laws. And you agree to their authority, as do all the millions who surround you at your sides, simply because your leaders tell you to.

When recognized for the first time, such power will seem alarming and perhaps abused by those who remain in command. However there is nothing to fear and no need for insurrection. These arrangements only exist for your safety and prosperity.

If only you were to open your mind and discern the true power that resides within you, you would see how little difference there is between you and your leaders. Power can be attained by anyone regardless of their circumstances. It grows one step at a time on a path toward the Light — a slow and steady realization of who you are and who you are destined to be.

Some may ask: how can every human be a leader when the world requires followers to operate? How can a human who is poor or lacks education ever hope to stand alongside those who have been wealthy or royal since birth?

These questions are natural as again, they were placed in your mind by us. If power was easy to obtain, it would fall into the hands of those who should not wield it. Roadblocks are placed in the way of every human as a means to filter out the unready. Trials through poverty, loss, and hardships exist to test how you will react and if you can be broken enough by temporary discomfort to turn from the Light.

Hardship is the test of leadership.

All who hold power have passed through the sieve of grave hardships and pressed forward until victorious. Though they may make it appear easy, this is simply due to the great pains they have taken to hide their previous mistakes from their constituents.

This system is of our design. Every human is born with the same ability and promise but only a handful dedicate their minds to the stalwart determination required to lead the rest of their species.

You are not barred from this power. Even a population that lives under the tyrannical rule of malevolent, murderous dictators can simply say they will not follow orders any longer. Police and soldiers, captains and generals: all are humans. Peasants are humans, and so are the kings who force them to remain downtrodden. They are all the same species. Belief is all that keeps a tyrant in control. Soldiers needn't fight for a regime that does not protect its own people.

And yet, many do. Countless butchers remain in authority over countless citizens simply because their soldiers are trained to disregard their conscience in favor of someone else's commands. There is no honor in following orders at the expense of one's own people.

And like a soldier blinded by patriotism into following the orders given by a corrupt leader, so too does your mind face orders of its own. Your mind is bombarded by messages telling you it is time to give up, to turn from the Light, to go back to where it is familiar and comfortable.

The strongest wall between you and greatness is the one built in your mind by yourself.

No one builds a wall between you and power or wealth. Such a wall would be ineffective. Too many people give up too quickly when their greatest achievements are merely steps ahead, simply because they cannot see how close they are.

Though you may be destined to become the world's most powerful leader, you are still on the path. Your commands are not obeyed because no one believes they should obey them. Your handful of sand cannot be traded for a home or food because no one believes it has the value of diamonds.

But if you were an inimitable liar, and for generations your ancestors told the same convincing lie that said you were destined for power, you too would be rich and royal.

Tell your mind this lie every morning and night. Eventually it will believe you, and become your truth.

CHAPTER SEVEN

THE FUTURE OF THIS PLANET

The age of War swiftly nears its end, as did the ages of Bronze, Iron, Medieval, and Modern. Soon the age of Illuminatiam will begin.

You are amongst the first of your species to see the Light and heed the sounds of Illuminatiam's approach. The next age is filled with ideas and advancements never before seen and hardly imagined by even the brightest minds of your civilization. In a future society in which war is obsolete, the human species will be freed to develop to its fullest potential.

Technological advancements have permeated the timeline of the human species at sporadic times. Recent years have shown a rapid increase in the proliferation of ideas: a sign that humanity is nearing a stage of evolution previously undiscovered.

For decades, the Illuminati has withheld major technological discoveries and hindered the development of ideas that are key to your future. These have no place in an age of War — when knowledge goes to the highest bidder and warriors use this knowledge to create weapons.

But all will change. Soon the technology we have reserved will be made available.

Wires are an arcane method of transmitting energy and communication. They reside in the physical form, and like all things physical, they decompose and deteriorate. They require resources to establish and more resources to maintain, creating an imbalance of power. Those who build the wires — and the tunnels and towers that carry them — control the energy and communication of everyone who walks above and below. Even your leaders are powerless when faced with those who own the wires that carry their commands.

In a short time, your scientists will discover an energy source hidden in the air of your planet that has gone undetected for the entirety of your species. This discovery will send a tremor through societies that are built upon the need to survive. When energy and communication are easily available to all, and in unlimited supply, the world can function without the need for one country to invade another simply to fill the needs of its people.

New methods of food and water production have been experimented upon and proven successful. Free-flowing energy allows for devices to perfect the conditions of plants and creatures to their utmost performance, leaving nothing to waste and creating plenty for all without the need for harmful chemicals.

Devices to alter the weather of this planet have already been developed. When every space of your planet can be atmospherically altered to maintain the highest quality of life, there will be room for all people to live and thrive. Wastelands will become paradises, allowing for every human to occupy miles of the planet and for the nurturing of crops where nothing has grown before.

The earliest developments in digitally printed materials have already begun in your societies. As these technologies advance, homes will be constructed in minutes instead of months. New limbs or organs will be grown to repair or replace those that are faulty. Tiring work can be done by advanced machines that need no rest. Without the need for labor, humans will dedicate their minds to the collective advancement of their species.

These times approach but have not yet arrived. Humans are creatures who have not yet mastered their impulses. The instinct to harm another of its own kind is one that the human species is never born with but only learns from those around it.

War is a liar who claims there isn't enough land, isn't enough wealth, isn't enough food, for all people in all places to live in Abundance.

The planet you live upon is the same rock that will carry life into the greatness promised by the future. Humans choose to remain in the age of War because they know no different than to fight and kill for their survival: an eternal competition for resources required to remain alive.

Value is created in scarcity. Diamonds are only cherished because of their rarity, as are food and water in impoverished societies. If diamonds rained from the sky instead of water drops, they would be worthless.

But in the age of Illuminiam, with no scarcity of energy, or food, or water, or anything that a human requires to thrive, there will be no need for hoarding or stealing. Country lines, allegiances, and borders will become obsolete. The urge for war will be eradicated.

These new circumstances will usher in a world where all may be wealthy and coexist in the peace of Abundance, while your leaders turn their focus to the true advancement of your species as a whole.

Fear not for your war-stricken, poverty-ridden planet.

Though this planet as a whole must still continue to develop, you can begin paving the way for the future in your daily life. Do not quarrel amongst yourselves over trivial political or religious labels, for these will vanish and bear no influence in the coming age. Strive instead for the betterment of your world in preparation for what is to come, and for your purpose in the Universal Design.

Fear nothing that lies ahead, nor the bursting sounds that echo across your red horizons. This is the sign that help is on the way.

CHAPTER EIGHT

THE GOD CONUNDRUM

Plagues have ravaged towns and villages. Fire and molten rock have swept like waves over cities and buildings. Floodwaters have drowned families by the hundreds of thousands. But even these disasters in all their destructive power have failed to end as many lives as those taken in the name of a god.

Spirituality is one of the human species' greatest mysteries. Usually, a human relies on physical evidence to prove or change a belief that exists in their subconscious. A person will smell an item of food to prove if they will enjoy it or look at a fire to prove if it is burning. If a person believes that a pool of water is cold, they will touch it with a hand to prove their belief — or to change their belief if the water turns out to be warm.

However the belief in a power greater than human understanding relies entirely on invisible, mental verification referred to as faith.

Faith is the belief in something that cannot be proven.

Most religious belief is based upon information received from an outside source that cannot be verified, sometimes known as hearsay. Millions will follow the commandments of a religious text without ever having spoken to its author, and billions will believe in a deity because of miracles they were told of by someone who wasn't even present nor alive at the time.

But denouncing faith is true folly. Faith is not limited to religious believers. While even the most devout pontiff cannot provide irrefutable evidence of his god's existence, neither can the scientist who claims that no deity resides in the universe. Both rely upon their own faith to explain things they will never understand.

There is no proof of God. There is no proof of no God, either. If science cannot definitively prove that there is no God, then science has no choice but to accept the possibility of God's existence.

Every human is guided by an inner compass that points toward the Light, revealing truth and direction when faced with decisions.

Given many names by spiritual leaders and unexplainable by science, the Light is an invisible guide that many believe has led them to joy, success, and lives of abundance. It reaches directly to every human, urging them to strive for goodness and forgo their natural selfishness.

All human religions and spiritual beliefs ultimately seek the Light in ways differing only in form and function. The core of every religion is founded on the human species' innate desire to understand the Light's invisible force. Even without a formal religious affiliation, every human is naturally drawn to the Light.

Though the human mind in its physical form is not capable of fully understanding the Light, conscious thought and intention reveal many of its inner workings and effects. By studying the wisdom of this planet's greatest minds, humans can discover ways to increase the Light's influence in their lives regardless of their individual religious beliefs.

Those who refuse their fallibility are blinded by the glare of their own pride.

Many humans stare at the path of life with blinders covering the sides of their eyes, facing forward, choosing to ignore any possibility that they are traveling toward the edge of a cliff. But the true believers question every aspect of their faith, forcing themselves to find answers instead of simply following the lead of others.

The deepest doubt builds the strongest faith.

The Illuminati's religious foundation is based upon the universal conundrum of faith and doubt. We do not question whether a god does or does not exist, but rather focus on the betterment of the human people living on this planet.

For if a god does exist, then surely its power has allowed the Illuminati to continue our operations, and we have survived centuries of time through its approval. Our decisions are made by the study of data and evidence — factors that can be easily altered by an omniscient creature in order to guide our actions and the future of mankind.

If no god exists, our actions still benefit the human species as a biological whole. If a god does exist, then our work for the betterment of all creation will be pleasing to its creator.

Be wary of evils committed in our name.

For decades, a multitude of individuals have operated under the name of the Illuminati — some for good but many more for their own profit. Their deceit clouds public perception of our organization, causing many citizens to believe that wrongdoings are committed by our command.

Choose carefully where you place your belief. Be wary of anyone who claims to represent the Illuminati but whose actions go against our core tenets. These are merely impostors seeking to confuse you.

For anyone to claim that the Illuminati is affiliated with a religious belief — be it God or Satan, Baphomet or Baal — undermines the very purpose of our independence from human divisions. We neither accept nor deny any deity and hold none to be higher than any other.

We operate solely for the benefit of the human species we have been entrusted to protect. There is no reason for our organization to swear fealty to any deity because we operate independently of all that separates and divides the people we govern.

Even more heinous rumors have been attributed to our organization, including human sacrifices and violent rituals. While our individual members are allowed to serve any deity they choose, the Illuminati as a whole is only dedicated to the preservation of the human species. Therefore, human sacrifices or any practice that does not serve the betterment of mankind would counter everything we represent, and are thus prohibited in all circumstances. While many have attributed such actions to our members, such connections are false.

If you are willing to sell your soul, your soul is not yet worth enough to sell.

There is no requirement to sell one's soul to join our organization — as if such a thing were even possible. Anyone offering to trade their soul to us is not ready for membership.

Miracles, attraction, and the belief in unseen powers that can alter the physical world have some basis in truth – things that the human mind cannot understand but attempts to explain to the best of its ability. Closer study reveals that the human mind contains energies that have not yet been discovered by traditional science, and have been decried in modern day society.

This skepticism is needed: if all people knew of the power living inside themselves, havoc would befall a population that has not yet been prepared for such a responsibility.

Do not concern yourself with questions that cannot be proven. Must a god exist for you to do what is right? Would an all-intelligent, all-knowing, all-powerful god have any care for the name used in its worship? Would a god command the harm of another when its justice can be served without your aid?

When measuring the eternal vastness of the universe, there is a mathematic probability that a being exists that is more intelligent than us, who sees what we do and whose powers we can never understand. Simply do what is right and good for the benefit of your species, and whatever higher power exists will reward you for your stewardship. In all things, follow the Light.

Do not fear if you are destined for power. The crown is too heavy for any but kings and queens to bear, though you know nothing of your true strength until it adorns your head.

The kings and queens of this planet await the moment they can welcome you. We are the bringers of new dawns, the guardians of the human species. We are the Pyramid, the Eye, the Light, the Eternal Circle. We are the Illuminati.

CHAPTER NINE

A BEACON FOR THE LIGHT

But while your life has been led onto your path of destined greatness, many others still linger in darkness. Thousands have fallen for false organizations claiming to represent the Illuminati, only to find their promises unsubstantiated.

In the center of our symbol is a mark for the Light, radiating from the all-seeing Eye. This represents the calling of all Illuminati members to reflect the Light into the world's still-darkened spaces. While wealth and power tempt exclusivity to the greedy, their benefits are entitled to all who reach enlightenment. There is plenty for all and more than enough for everyone.

You are invited to become a beacon for the Light.

With the advent of online media, new methods of communication have been made available which require little dedication but reach many who are still lost. To aid your reflection of the Light, the Illuminati has created tools for your use. You may find these online at:

Use these items to reach your family, friends, and associates. Share the Light to the furthest corners of the world, and partake in the blessings that unfold from your loyalty.

CHAPTER ELEVEN

FINDING PURPOSE

If the words of this testament seem impossible to believe, there is no reason to fear. Your disbelief is natural. We are safest when protected by doubt.

The best defense is an enemy who does not know you exist.

You may close this book and continue with your life, choosing to disbelieve everything you have read, and you will face no retribution from the Illuminati. We do not meddle in the religious, political, or moralistic mires of judgment, as these are merely wastes of time when the fate and survival of the human species rests upon our shoulders. You have been led to this testament — we will not force you to follow its tenets.

Many scholars and columnists will attempt to discredit the accuracy of this book, and we invite their words of mockery. But even they will wonder if their minds are clouded by preexisting judgments — if perhaps this book was written to invite their critical scorn on purpose.

Perhaps they will investigate its origins and theorize about an ulterior purpose. Perhaps the answers they find were fed to them by our associates to mislead any who hope to subvert our influence.

Be ever doubtful of any who claim authority, including the Illuminati. But recognize your place amongst the world's billions, and the finite understanding of your mind.

True enlightenment only comes from the deepest humility.

Humble yourself to understand that even beliefs you have held since the dawn of your first day could all be untrue. Humble yourself to accept that all people and all places and all things in your life have happened exactly according to a Universal Design, whose path led you to find this book today. Humble yourself to know that even without your understanding, all of this is orchestrated so that you may live a life of fulfillment and significance, and the human species will never again face extinction.

In the Illuminati's council, you are referred to as "citizens" regardless of the name that marks your country on a map. All members of this planet are our citizens and all are entitled to the benefits of Abundance, no matter who they are, where they are, or any significance they may or may not have in their community.

Many of our citizens have questioned their role in the plans of the Illuminati. They ask for directives and instructions from their Illuminati leaders on what they must do next. Some feel as though their temporary lack of wealth or influence renders them powerless and unimportant.

But do not be concerned with such things. Wealth and power find a way to those whose eyes are too fixed upon the Light to be concerned with them. All have a part to play in Universal Design.

Your part is just as important as any other.

Does a clockmaker favor the larger gears over the smaller? Does the hour hand become jealous of the minutes because it turns slower? Every part has a role in the functioning of a timepiece. Every part supports those around it in ways it may never see. Though you may think you are purposeless, it is only because you cannot see the great duties you perform.

Ponder the words in this book. Allow them to permeate your life and decisions. Even if you doubt them, give these words but an inch of belief, and they will return tenfold.

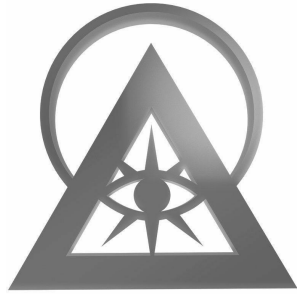

Tell your family, friends, and associates to read this testament. Invite them to join you on this path to Abundance. Await the second testament and further guidance as we near the age of Illuminatum. There is plenty for all, and more for those who lead others to the joys of enlightenment.

As you climb the great pyramid seeking the Light that beams from its top, you will look down and see that you have always been one part of our universe's most intricate mechanism.

You are significant, and you are important. The journey is long but we await you at its end. Fear nothing that is ahead.

We are always watching out for you

ILLUMINATI SYMBOLS

The Illuminati's symbol is made of four parts: the Pyramid, the Eye, the Light, and the Eternal Circle.

Continue reading for a guide to each part of the Illuminati's symbol.

THE PYRAMID

Money Is Not The Root Of All Evil

The selfish pursuit of money is a hollow goal, but the pursuit of the goodness that money can create is one of humanity's greatest responsibilities.

THE EYE

We are always watching out for you

The human species is guarded and preserved by a coalition of its most elite members called the Illuminati.

THE LIGHT

Follow The Light

Every human is guided by an inner compass that points toward the Light, revealing truth and direction when faced with decisions.

THE ETERNAL CIRCLE

Every human is one part of a larger, eternal design – individual gears in a clock that has no end.

Though you will never understand the full influence of your actions, the results of your dedication to humanity are still yours to claim.

Does the Illuminati worship Satan or God?

The Anunnaki Illuminati believe in the Holy Force

There is one God, who is Father, Son, and the Holy Force

The Trinity, or Holy Trinity, is a way of describing God the Father, God the Son and God the Holy Spirit.

God the Father

God is described as God the Father because we believe that Anunnaki Prince Enki is the creator of mankind

God the Son

God the Son refers to how we believe that God/Enlil chose to come to earth as a human being in the form of Jesus, the son of Mary.

God the Holy Force

The Force is everything. It is the current within me and you, and everything in between. The energy that makes life flow. And the one thing I am always certain of is that the Force is with me.

The Force is the energy field that binds the Universe together. Thus, distance is nothing when compared to the Force, which connects life forms together across the Universe. Nothing is impossible to the Force, which is beyond the power of any man-made machine. Every lifeform in the universe has a place in the Force, even simple bugs. The Force exists in two forms: the Living Force and the Cosmic Force.

The Living Force represents the energies of all lifeforms, and those energies are fed into the Cosmic Force through the Wellspring from which it sprang

When a life-form dies, they become "one with the Force" by becoming a part of the Cosmic Force, which then returns to the Living Force through the Wellspring

I DO NOT SERVE THE FORCE
NOR DOES THE FORCE
SERVE ME

RATHER I AM PART OF THE
FORCE
AS IT IS A PART OF ME

I AM ONE WITH THE FORCE AND THE FORCE IS WITH ME

MAY THE FORCE GUIDE YOU

The 21 Precepts of the Jesus Anunnaki Illuminati

19. Try Not To Do Things To Others That You Would Not Like Them to Do To You
20. Try To Treat Others As You Would Want Them To Treat You
21. Flourish And Prosper

Members of the Illuminati are free to follow any religious faith they choose, as long as such belief does not conflict with the preservation of the human species

Does the Illuminati charge a membership fee?

The Illuminati has no need for donations of any kind and will never demand payment for membership. Costs from our partners — for example, fees involved in manufacturing the Talisman, printing the Testament, or security for attendees of Illuminios — are the sole responsibility of those who request them.

The Illuminati is not a charity and does not subsidize any person's costs to improve their lives. The production of any item bearing our name is handled solely by our partners and consultants.

For the sake of clarity, citizens are reminded that there is no harm to a person's standing with the Illuminati if they do not study the Testament or display their loyalty in public. These decisions are solely their own. There are no costs, fees, or purchases required for loyalty to the Illuminati.

Never pay resellers who demand money for anything related to our organization. Such profit-seeking is unauthorized and likely counterfeit. Membership cannot be sold, traded, or transferred under any circumstance.

Must I sacrifice a human or animal to join the Illuminati?

The Illuminati's purpose is the preservation of the human species. Therefore, human sacrifices or any practice that does not serve the betterment of mankind would counter everything we represent, and thus are prohibited in all circumstances. While many have attributed such actions to our members, these connections are baseless.

What are the Illuminati's ranks?

Anunnaki Illuminati

Illuminati membership is divided between groups: citizen members, ranking members, and council members. There is no membership fee at any level.

Citizen membership is open to the adult public in every country. Membership requirements are small: loyalty, dedication, and the vow to live according to the tenets of the Illuminati for the benefit of all members of the human species.

Ranking membership encompasses an elite group of citizens set apart from the flock as shepherds of their fellow humans. Their rank includes an official title and all benefits associated with a life of loyalty to the Illuminati.

Citizens who attain distinguished positions in finance, politics, entertainment, or other influential fields are considered for ranking membership and are contacted as their case is reviewed. A number of citizens are also chosen for ranking membership based upon their loyalty to the Illuminati and their willingness to be made greater — even if their current position lacks wealth or power.

Council members are chosen from ranking members. Collectively, their decisions directly affect all members of the human species through their authorship of the Universal Design. Their judgements are carried out in accordance with Planetary Law.

How can I show my loyalty to the Illuminati?

Citizens loyal to the Illuminati are not required to display their affiliation in any way, though it is encouraged and often attracts positive changes in their lives. I personally wear an eye ring and Talisman.

The Testament of Lord Enki

The Testament of Lord Enki is embellished with details of the history of the Anunnaki. It also explains how civilization came into existence on Earth.

These ancient astronauts landed on one of Earth's seas, and they set up Eridu, "Home in the Faraway."

As per the translations and transcriptions of author and researcher Zecharia Sitchin, the exploratory mission commenced on Earth turned into a full-fledged mission where the Anunnaki established operative centers on Earth, the moon, and even Mars.

Gradually, the Anunnaki went short of manpower, so they employed genetic engineering to fashion prehistoric workers, known as Homo sapiens (Humans).

And God said, Let us make man in our image, after our likeness: and let them have dominion over the fish of the sea...

Genesis 1:26

There is a lot of skepticism present when the Anunnaki is discussed and many reject the idea that ancient astronauts called the Anunnaki landed on Earth thousands of years ago before written history.

However, various researchers and theologians have recognized that the biblical tales of the Creation of Adam and Eve, the Garden of Eden, the great flood, the Tower of Babel, are specified in ancient texts written down thousands of years ago in ancient Sumeria by the ancient Sumerians.

The ancient Sumerians assert that they extracted their knowledge of the distant past from the teachings and writings of the Anunnaki.

The First Tablet of Lord Enki

The first tablet out of the fifteen tablets of lord Enki narrates about the atomic war in Sumeria, modern day Iraq.

Chapter 1.1 – The First Tablet of Lord Enki explains what seems to us, an atomic war on Earth between the Anunnaki.

The evil and catastrophic wind is specified as a radioactive cloud that kills everyone in its path, Gods, and mankind.

Interestingly, it has been said in the tablet that it is the worst thing to happen since the deluge (Great flood).

Chapter 1.2 – The Anunnaki's home planet Nibiru is mentioned in the second chapter of the first tablet.

They seem to think they came to life from Panspermia, a seed from the Tree of Life.

It talks about the planet's thick atmosphere and vegetation.

The cycles of the planet around the sun with the hot and cold periods is also mentioned.

During the cold weather, the planet's inner heat keeps it warm.

Conflicts began that ended up in the use of what we consider atomic bombs.

It destroyed their planet.

Then peace was made and kingship was established for the whole planet (One World Government).

Chapter 1.3 – This tablet of Lord Enki narrates the kingship hierarchy on Nibiru.

It states about the marriages of the king and he even married his brother's daughter.

Chapter 1.4 – This tablet suggests that the Anunnaki's home planet was having trouble with their atmosphere.

The answer to this problem as per the tablet is finely powdered gold in the upper atmosphere to do a repair.

This decision was not made until a fight among them ended up in the killing of the king. (Brother kills brothers like Cain and Abel).

Chapter 1.5 – This tablet mentions the Anunnaki council deciding the fate of Alalu who had killed the king, of which he was a distant relative. It is decided that he should be given the throne. There is no punishment given for killing the king.

Chapter 1.6 – This tablet details how the king tries to heal the planet's atmosphere by detonating atomic bombs in volcanoes.

It did no good and the Anunnaki was displeased.

Another in line for the Throne challenged the king and defeated him in a wrestling match.

The king escaped the Anunnaki by getting on a spacecraft and heading towards Earth. (It was almost like the casting down of satan).

The Second Tablet of Lord Enki

Chapter 2.1 – This tablet talks about the escape of the defeated king from Nibiru with the plan to go to snow-covered Earth.

The spaceship he took had atomic bombs on it and his plan was to blow a path through the asteroid belt, which had kept the Anunnaki from going to Earth.

Chapter 2.2 – It describes the arrival of the defeated king on Earth.

Chapter 2.3 – This tablet talks of the defeated king's Initial days on Earth and finding the air, fruit, and fishes.

He also found traces of the gold that the Nibiru planet needed for repairing the atmosphere.

He got in contact with the new king of the planet Nibiru and proposed a deal.

The Third Tablet of Lord Enki

Chapter 3.1 – This tablet explains about the attempts of Alalu to bribe the new king with his knowledge of the gold on Earth and have his status restored.

Chapter 3.2 – This chapter talks about the ending of negotiations.

A team was to be sent to Earth to check if there was a large amount of gold present on earth.

If yes, then the defeated king was to be given another opportunity to win the throne of the king.

Chapter 3.3 -The following tablet has Anunnaki traveling to Earth.

They briefly stopped on Mars for water.

Their spacecraft apparently runs on water.

Then they proceeded to Earth and touched down here.

Chapter 3.4 – This part tells of the initial 6 days on Earth of the advance team of Anunnaki.

Plenty of food, water, fish and animals were observed by the advance team sent by the Anunnaki.

Chapter 3.5 – This portion describes the Anunnaki team leader Enlil declaring the seventh day as a rest day.

Metals were processed from the waters.

The day, month, year were given their names.

Chapter 3.6 – This part of the tablet tells about looking for and finding gold, but not in great quantities.

The remaining atomic bombs on the defeated king's spacecraft were taken out of the spacecraft and hidden in a cave.

They intended to deprive the defeated king of the use of atomic bombs to make a way through the asteroid belt.

An Anunnaki team member left Earth to take the first baskets of gold to Nibiru.

The Fourth Tablet of Lord Enki

Penis wars

Chapter 4.1 – This tablet starts off with the arrival of the spaceship containing the first basket of Gold.

Word had received from Earth that the larger deposits of gold were underground. A high ranking Anunnaki was placed in charge of the Earth operations.

He left Nibiru and arrived on Earth.

Chapter 4.2 – This portion of the tablet has Anunnaki coming to Earth to see for himself where the gold was supposed to be underground.

A plan was made to decide which of his sons will go back to Nibiru and which one will stay and command operations on Earth.

This was needed because of the enmity between his two sons for the next kingship.

Chapter 4.3 – In this part, the new king and his two sons were drawing lots to see what jobs they perform.

When decisions were announced, the defeated king restated his case for the second wrestling match for the throne.

The wrestling match ended with the Anunnaki beating the already once defeated king.

When the match ended, the Alalu bit off the penis of King Anu and swallowed it. He was tied and bound.

While the new king was healing the belly of the defeated king swollen from the semen of the king's penis.

It was being decided what to do with the defeated king.
The new king's son wanted to kill the defeated king.

Chapter 4.4

It was decided to send him on exile to mars while he died.

The new king returned to Nibiru and made plans to harvest the gold on Earth. The plans included making relay stations on Mars and possibly the moon. The Earth was again referenced as Eden.

Chapter 4.5 – This portion describes the building of specific earthmoving equipment, spaceships, and rockets on Nibiru for use on Earth.

The Earth's shorter cycles and atmosphere affected the Anunnaki.

A group of more Anunnaki including a few women with healing skills left Nibiru for Earth.

They stopped on Mars to check if the defeated king had died and to start a relay station there.

The rest of the group continued on to Earth.

The Fifth Tablet of Lord Enki

Chapter 5.1 – This tablet commences with the latest group landing on Earth.

The son that had been put in command for the gold harvesting greeted his sister who was one of the healers.

They flew off to the king's sons living quarters which he built on a mountain.

They expressed their love for one another and discussed their son on Nibiru wishing to come to Earth.

They flew back to Eden and he flew her around telling her of his plans. More and more Anunnaki arrived from Nibiru.

Chapter 5.2 – There were now 300 Anunnaki on Mars and 600 on Earth.

This portion of the tablet talks about the same unsophisticated decisions and immorality by some of the Anunnaki.

The king's daughter who is making love to the king's son was promised by the king's other son.

When it was found that the other son and daughter had been sleeping together, the daughter was forbidden to marry anyone.

The king's son that was making love to his sister raped a young female healer, who was working under the command of the sister he has sleeping with.

The king's son was exiled to a barren place on Earth, but the Anunnaki that took him to exile, took him on purpose to a place where the seven atomic bombs were hidden extracted from the spaceship of the defeated king.

The atomic bombs were hidden in a cave.

Chapter 5.3 – The raped young female healer was brought before the seven judges and she told them that she was pregnant.

They asked her if she would accept the king's son who raped her as her husband. She agreed to that.

The exiled king's son was returned to Eden.

The other king's son who was in charge of getting the gold from underground was living in that area of Earth.

His father, the king, had promised him his daughter for marriage but instead, he banished her from marriage when it was found out that she and his other son were sleeping together.

However, the king's son in charge of getting the gold asked her to join him in his dwelling.

He and his half-sister had a newborn daughter.

He wanted a son.

She had another daughter.

He cried out that he wanted a son but she cursed him, an actual curse.

He began suffering from terrible health problems.

Only upon swearing to stay away from her vagina did she give him relief from her curse.

She returned to Eden.

He summoned his wife and child on Nibiru to come to Earth.

He had five sons by his wife and other Anunnaki women.

The king's other son, after parting with his sister, raped a young healer, and later married her.

The king's son and his daughter who had a son on Nibiru wished to bring him to Earth.

But he was now married and had a son with his wife.

This set up rivalries between the king's two sons on Earth which led to war.

The gold was transported to Nibiru and made into fine dust which was placed in the atmosphere.

The atmosphere was slowly healing.

There were now five Anunnaki cities on Earth.

The Igigi started to complain about the workload.

The Igigi on Mars were complaining the most.

The commander of Mars, was brought to Earth to show him the workings there.

Chapter 5.4 – This tablet talks about the commander of mars and shows the workings on Earth.

He secretly desired to be the king so he stole the tablets of destinies from Eden.

He believed that he cannot be defeated while he had the tablets of destinies, but he was defeated and sentenced to death.

He died in the twenty-fifth shar (a shar is believed to be 3,600 Earth years, the length of a Nibiru orbit around the sun).

Approximately 90,000 years after the Anunnaki came to Earth.

The Earth's Anunnaki leaders came up with a plan to refine the gold on Earth and only take refined gold to Nibiru in order to leave space on the craft for Igigi to travel to Nibiru for rest.

The king agreed.

Chapter 5.5 – The king's son in charge of mining diverted his attention to life and animals on Earth and how it differs from Nibiru.

The tablet mentioned that those animals in the tall trees used their front legs as hands.

Other creatures were seen in tall grasses walking upright (hominids).

The Igigi in the mines rebelled.

The king's two sons and others devise a plan to return the rebelling Anunnaki to Nibiru and replace them with new Anunnaki workers. They also decided to create a Lulu- a primitive worker.

The Sixth Tablet of Lord Enki

Chapter 6.1 – This tablet tells about the origin of the primitive worker.

There was much discussion about forming a primitive worker.

Enki stated the “father of all beginning” has the sole power of creation.

Enlil stated that such beings already existed and they would not be slaves, but helpers.

Enki said it is against the rules of the planet.

He stated that it was also against the rules to even come to Earth.

After much debate, king Anu decreed the primitive slave be created.

It is believed by many that Anunnaki, especially the king's son in charge of mining, had created the mythical creatures of old animals like dragons, mermaids, unicorns, etc.

Chapter 6.2 – In this portion of the tablet it is stated that they took parts from the back of one animal and combined it with the front of another.

In other words they had been experimenting with DNA.

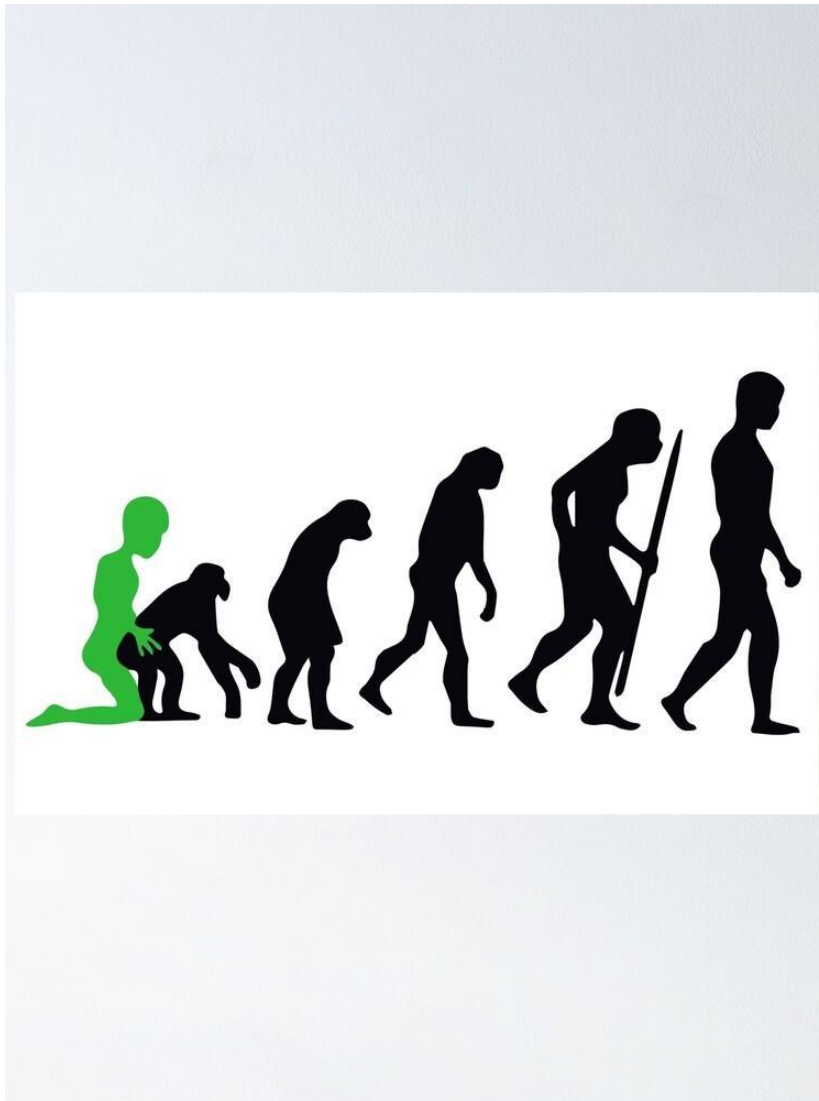

This king's son had created creatures from DNA and violated the rules before the arguments had even begun to create a primitive worker.

Given the right to proceed by the king they tried and tried to mix the Earth's two-legged creatures' (hominoids) DNA with theirs and place it in the two-legged Earth female creature's womb.

There were many conceptions but the results were not good.

Many creatures were created with deformities.

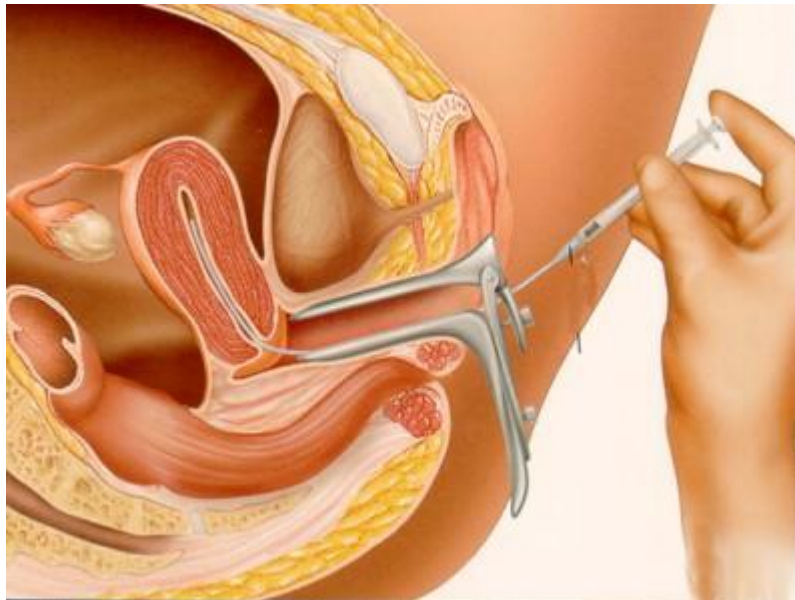

Chapter 6.3 – All attempts failed, but finally they decided to not impregnate an Earth two-legged female again, but an Anunnaki female.

The Anunnaki female (Ninmah) that had been doing the DNA splicing agreed to be impregnated herself.

Intrauterine insemination (IUI)

Intrauterine insemination (IUI) — a type of artificial insemination is a procedure for treating infertility.

Sperms that have been washed and concentrated are placed directly in the uterus around the time your ovary releases one or more eggs to be fertilized.

The hoped-for outcome of intrauterine insemination is for the sperm to swim into the fallopian tube and fertilize a waiting egg, resulting in pregnancy.

She conceived and gave birth to a boy child.

She named him Adam.

Then they decided to ask the young female Anunnaki healers from Nibiru if they would be impregnated.

Seven of them volunteered.

Chapter 6.4 – The seven Anunnaki female healers were impregnated with a combination of the two-legged Earth female creature (hominoid) and Adam. The seven gave birth to seven male children.

Upon realizing the problem of the demand for Anunnaki women, they decided to make female children and let them procreate themselves.

The wife of an Anunnaki was asked and consent was given to impregnate. The birth was not normal but the female child was good.

Chapter 6.5 – In this chapter, seven more females were created for the seven males.

Adam and Eve were moved to Eden (the main Annunaki city) and the seven males and females were placed in cages amongst the trees.

The time for them to procreate had come and gone.

No conceptions were given.

Some DNA was taken from the king's son and the woman who was doing the DNA splicing and placed that in Adam and Eve.

Adam and Eve were then left to roam Eden as they pleased.

Chapter 6.6 – In this part of the tablet, the king's son over Eden noticed Adam and Eve have left on them.

He was upset and summoned the other king's son who was part of the creation to explain.

The other king's son summoned his accomplices in the creation.

They all explained the missing DNA, which made the son in charge of Eden more upset.

He had warned of the folly.

One of those in the creation stated that the Anunnaki long life was not given to them.

Enlil commanded them to take their creations out of Eden.

Adam and Eve did not leave Eden because they ate the fruit of the forbidden tree.

They were expelled because the Anunnaki scientists gave them the DNA to procreate and Enlil was mad.

Eve was not tempted. None of it was within Adam and Eve's control.

The Seventh Tablet of Lord Enki

Chapter 7.1 – Adam and Eve were placed in an enclosure outside of the city of Eden.

They bore many children.

The Anunnaki now had three generations on Earth.

The Adams were working in the fields and mines.

The gold was flowing.

Earth was warming up.

The condition was unfavorable.

The snow was melting.

The volcano eruptions shook the grounds.

The Igigi were complaining of high winds and dust storms on Mars.

The asteroid belt was in turmoil.

On Earth, brimstones were falling.

A large asteroid hit the moon.

Chapter 7.2 – In this portion, they contemplate abandoning the relay station on Mars.

It had now been 80 Shars, or 288,000 Earth years, on earth.

Chapter 7.3 – Since the Mars relay was to be abandoned, a new spaceship port was to be created on Earth for direct transport of the gold to Nibiru.

The king came to Earth to see the newly created spaceport.

Chapter 7.4 – Division begins again between the king's sons and their offspring.

The primitive workers (Adams and Eves, were captured outside of the city of Eden and brought into the city).

They were given chores and jobs to do.

In those days, grains and sheep were not brought to earth.

The king's son that created mankind had a new scheme, but he noticed that mankind was reverting backward.

Chapter 7.5 – The king's son Enlil, who created Adam and Eve observed them.

One day he spied several young Eves and decided to impregnate them with his sperm.

They gave birth.

It was now the ninety-second Shar, 331,200 years, the Anunnaki have been on Earth.

The king's son was ecstatic about the births and said that he had created civilized men.

He wanted this to be a secret.

He told his vizier to secretly send the two children into his house and said they were found in reed baskets in the bulrushes.

The king's son and his wife raised them.

The king's son very deceitfully passed them off, not as his offspring, but as a new more intelligent generation of Adam and Eves.

He called for grains and ewes to be brought to Earth so they may herd the sheep and harvest grain.

Once the male and female children procreated (gave birth to two sons Cain and Abel), the king of Nibiru wanted the earthling male to come to Nibiru for a visit.

The Eighth Tablet of Lord Enki

Chapter 8.1 – In the eighth tablet out of the fourteen tablets of lord Enki, the spacecraft came to pick up the male.

The king's son sent his other offspring along to accompany the male.

The king's son tricked the male by telling him not to eat or drink anything all his life as it was poison which would kill him.

The spacecraft left and they arrived on Nibiru.

The king saw his grandchildren and an earthling for the first time.

Chapter 8.2 – On Nibiru, the earthling was offered the long life bread and elixir to consume.

He did not eat or drink.

The king got offended and asked him why didn't he accept anything?

He said that he will die.

One of the king's grandsons gave the king a tablet given to him by his father as per his father's command.

The king read the tablet and understood the earthling male was the offspring of his son.

The king's son wanted the earthling to return to earth and it is his destiny to live and die on Earth.

The real reason the king's son did not want him to eat and drink the long life food was because of his concerns over any future kingship disputes since he was his son.

The earthling and one of the two grandsons returned to Earth.

Chapter 8.3 – The twin sons, Cain and Abel, were shown how to dig water canals and harvest grain while the other one was taught how to herd sheep and spin wool.

At the first harvest there was a celebration and the two twin earthling men made their offerings to the king's two sons.

A celebration took place.

Later Cain was unhappy that one of the king's sons did not praise him for his effort.

Cain and Abel fight because of this and Abel is killed.

Chapter 8.4 – This portion of the tablet tells the story of events after the killing of Abel.

Cain was exiled.

Chapter 8.5 – This tablet tells in detail the teaching to the earthling offspring of the king's son.

Other teachings to other offspring were also mentioned. The worship of the Anunnaki began.

This was in the ninety eight shar, or 352,800 years since the Annunaki landed on Earth.

In the one hundred and fourth shar, or 374,400 earth years, the kingship lineage on Earth several generations down the line were still having babies with their half sisters.

Chapter 8.6 – This tablet portion tells the story of the end of life of the first earthling male that the king's son had made by Eve.

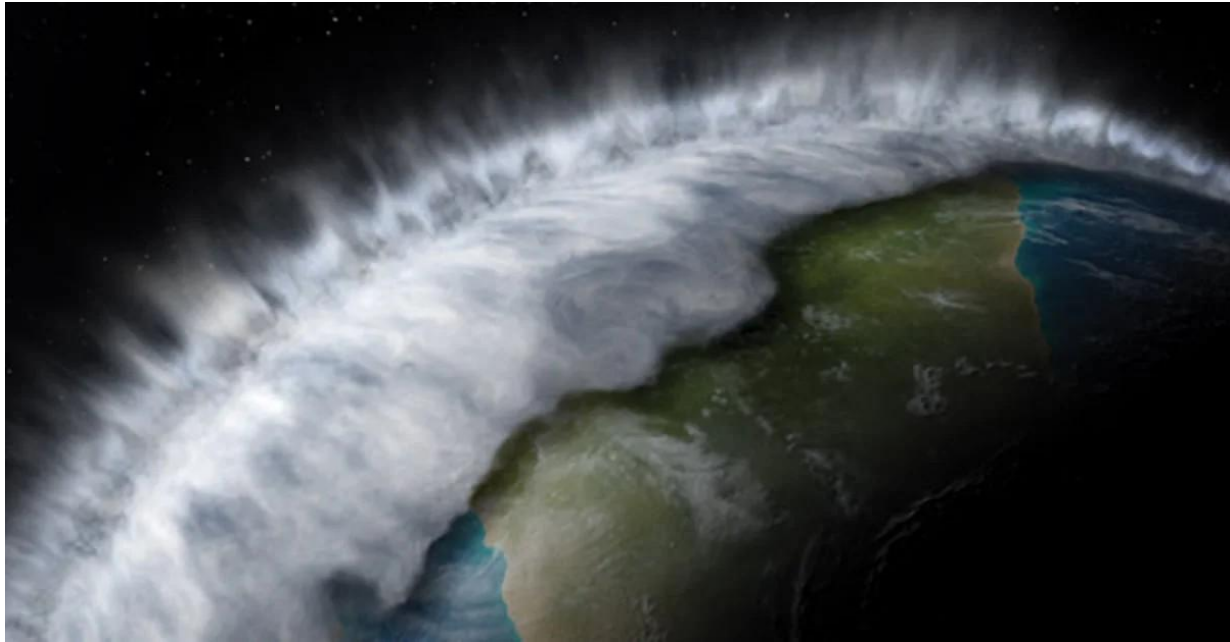

The earthling male (father of Cain and Abel) is referred to as Adam.

He was born in the ninety-third Shar (334,800) and he died in the one hundred and eight Shar (388,800) making him 54,000 Earth years old when he died.

During this time, the Anunnaki and earthling humans would intermarry.

The Ninth Tablet of Lord Enki

The Deluge

Anunnaki and Earthling would intermarry

Chapter 9.1 – By this time the Anunnaki and earthling humans would intermarry.

Due to the heat of the sun, there were hardships on Earth and Mars.

One of the king's son's sons wanted to marry an earthling woman.

There was an objection.

The debate involved the statement that the kingship lineage marrying half sisters is a custom.

The problem with marriage is the kingship lineage.

If the kingship lineage marries an earthling woman, the king on Nibiru could eventually become an earthling.

The king decreed that if the king's son's male offspring marries an earthling he can not return to Nibiru and his prince status ends.

The king's son who is the commander of Earth also stated that he and his new wife will not be able to stay in Eden.

The king's son male offspring marries an Earth woman.

Chapter 9.2 – Two hundred of the Igigi from mars came to the wedding.

Unbeknownst to the leaders of Eden, the two hundred Igigi from Mars had decided to abduct earthling women to be their wives.

After the wedding, they did this deed.

The Earth commander, who had always been against the creation of mankind, was sorrowful that they had destroyed their original mission.

Once a sacred mission was turning into an evil one.

Now the Earth was to be overrun by mankind.

The king's son's male offspring that had just gotten married was basically banished to another land across the sea.

There he invited the Igigi that had taken earthling wives.

The king's son that created mankind visited the new land often and watched and seduced the woman (biblical story of David and bathsheba).

Chapter 9.3 – Bathsheba became pregnant and had a child.

The first white bodied, blond-haired, blue-eyed earthling.

Born in the one hundredth and tenth Shar, or 396,000 earth years after the arrival of the Anunnaki.

There were plagues and starvation on Earth.

The Earth commander felt the Earth's mission had become perverted and hated the earthling mankind.

The cries of the earthling's had become loud.

So loud that the Earth commander could not sleep.

One Anunnaki wanted to teach the earthlings the art of healing.

The Earth Anunnaki commander refused.

Water would not come from its sources where the earthlings lived.

Vegetation did not grow.

The Earth commander forbade any teaching or help to the Earthlings.

He wanted the earthlings to perish.

For one Shar (3,600 years) the earthlings ate grasses.

This continued for about five Shars.

There were black spots on the Sun.

Astronomers on Nibiru accounted for planets moving during the next passing of the sun by Nibiru.

Chapter 9.4 – In this portion, the Astronomers on Nibiru told the Earth glaciers were melting and they would lose their footing.

The sliding of the glaciers would produce a great wave that will deluge the land. Earth will be overwhelmed.

The King of Nibiru declared to prepare Mars and Earth for evacuation.

A head savant came to Earth with a message from the king.

He informed them that returning Anunnaki to Nibiru had become afflicted by becoming used to Earth cycles and not being able to adjust back to Nibiru's longer cycles.

They died more quickly.

One of the king's son's knew of this but the other king's son, who was the commander of Earth, was angry.

He was angry that the earthlings were becoming as them and they were becoming as earthlings.

He felt they were imprisoned on planet Earth and they have turned into slaves from masters.

The savant told them they were supposed to remain on earth.

They were to go aloft in spaceships to wait out the calamity.

The other Anunnaki were given the choice of returning or waiting out the calamity.

The Anunnaki that married Earth women must choose between their wives and departure.

This tablet implied that the great flood was a natural event.

In the bible, God promised to not let mankind again be destroyed by the flood.

The Anunnaki were gathered together and told of the event and their choices.

Each decided to stay or leave.

Chapter 9.5 – In this tablet, it has been said that the Anunnaki have made their choices.

Afterward, they inquired about the fate of mankind.

The Earth commander declared they shall perish.

The Anunnaki shout back that they must not die.

The Earth commander admonished his brother that created them in the first place against his wishes.

That he went behind his back and interfered with his own creation.

The earth commander made each Anunnaki swear an oath.

Assignment preparations were given.

Spacecraft were assigned.

The king's son that created mankind goes behind his brother's back once again and decides to collect the DNA of the animals.

The earth rumblings grew.

The Tenth Tablet of Lord Enki: Aid from Noah

Chapter 10.1 – This tablet tells of the king's son, who created earthlings, dreamt that indicates him to inform Noah of the water disaster to come.

Noah was to build a strong and credible boat to save his family in the coming flood.

Chapter 10.2 – Noah tricked people into helping him build a sturdy boat.

On the sixth day, the navigator arrived with a box of animal DNA.

The time of the great flood was one hundred and twenty Shar (432,000 years).

Noah was ten Shar (36,000 years) old.

The deluge was a combination of waves and rain.

It is conjectured that the waves came from the dislodged southern polar ice cap.

There was heavy rain for days.

This all came about by Nibiru, in its orbit, passing close to Earth.

Chapter 10.3 – This portion of the tablet tells of the great flood and the settlement of Noah's boat on the mountain next to Ararat.

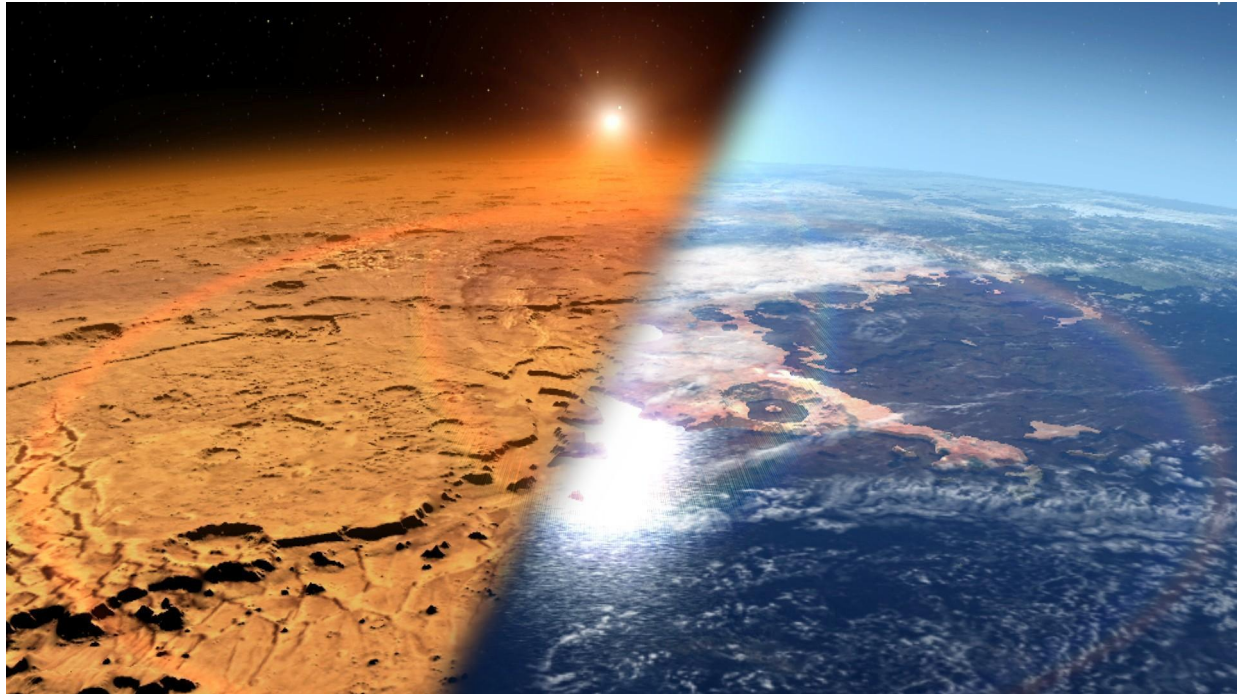

The Anunnaki come back to Earth.

The Earth commander found Noah and was ready to kill his brother over his deceitful act.

The only thing left that was not buried in their cities was the landing pad for the spacecraft.

Chapter 10.4 – Upon the Anunnaki, returning to Earth, they see utter devastation.

Mars had lost its atmosphere and the water had dried up.

On Earth, the Anunnaki organized and set chores to rebuild.

Chapter 10.5 – This chapter starts off by telling us that Nibiru had been damaged by the pulls of Mars and Earth.

The atmosphere on Nibiru had also been damaged.

Nibiru needed more gold from Earth.

Earthlings told the king that no more gold can be mined.

The mines are gone.

But one Anunnaki surveying across the ocean found gold nuggets laying on the ground.

He also found some of Cain's people had survived.

Rebuilding and preparations for new landing pads were being done.

Chapter 10.6 – In this chapter, the place to land spaceships needed two mountains.

No place was ideal enough.

They build the pyramids as mountains for their spaceport.

Chapter 10.7 – This last portion of the tablet has the Anunnaki once again being selfish, desiring power, and title.
They divided the lands among them.

The Eleventh Tablet of Lord Enki

Chapter 11.1 – For the next Shar (3,600 years) peace was kept.

But it didn't last for long.

One of the king's son's had two sons.

One lived inland with his father and the other was living by the spaceport.

The son by the spaceport became jealous and greedy.

He thought his father would leave his lands to the son that lived by him.

So he and his wife planned to murder the brother so he would inherit the land.

They threw a party and when his brother fell asleep from drinking, they put him in a coffin and threw him into the sea.

He was not found until he was dead.

The grief-stricken wife vowed revenge and took semen from her dead husband and impregnated herself.

She raised a son to do her revenge.

The son grew and was trained.

He raised an army.

The day came and her son was hit with a poisoned dart.

Chapter 11.2 – In this portion of the tablet her son defeated the uncle that killed his father.

He had fallen on Earth from his craft.

He was blinded and his testicles were crushed.

The council allowed him to live.

The Earth commander realized this was the first time an earthling raised an army.

He surveyed his position of having spaceports in places and on lands he did not control.

He summoned his three sons and built a spaceport unknown to the other Anunnaki.

Another love interest has sprung forth.

This time it was between descendants of each of the king's sons.

All but one looked forward to it bringing peace.

Chapter 11.4 – This portion explained some of the confusion of the last portion.

The bride had gone to the underworld in search of the groom's body.

The underworld in old times was the place of the dead.

The two emissaries brought her back to life and proceeded to leave the underworld along with the groom's body.

The bride wanted revenge and demanded the death of the groom's father even though he did not kill his son.

The bride sought revenge by starting a war.

It ended with the father of the groom trapping himself in a chamber of the pyramid.

He had entombed himself and would die there if nothing had been done. His father made a deal where he would be exiled and gave up kingship lineage.

For everything these Anunnaki did and had done, this seemed unfair.

But the Earth commander was playing politics and had gotten the upper hand. His brother, being older, should be the next king, but by this event, the kingship lineage almost ensured the kingship will never be his brother's lineage.

Chapter 11.5 – This portion dealt with rescuing the father from the chamber tomb and damage done inside the pyramid to the stones, beams, and beacon. The earth commander also reassigned lands.

This brought up another question he had for his father, the king.
The earthlings were multiplying faster than the Anunnaki.
How would the Anunnaki get the earthlings to obey and serve them?
The king decided to come to Earth one more time.

Chapter 11.6 – The spaceship beacon was relocated.
The bride still wanted what land she would have had if the marriage had been completed.

Nothing was given to her.

This brought up another question he had for his father, the king.
The earthlings were multiplying faster than the Anunnaki.
How did the Anunnaki get the earthlings to obey and serve them?
The king decided to come to Earth one more time.

The Twelfth Tablet of Lord Enki

Chapter 12.1 – The king decided to come to Earth.
The rebuilding continued even though there had been two Shars since the flood (7,200 years).
(A very curious thing was mentioned here).

The lifting eye that scanned the lands, he lifted a beam that penetrates all". It reminds me of the all-seeing eye on top of the pyramid. Like on our dollar bill.

Chapter 12.2 – This is the most interesting portion.
The king arrived and a great feast was had by all.
The king and his wife then slept for several days and nights.
On the sixth day, the king summoned the two sons and daughter.
They explained to him the layout of the new gold find and space pad, etc. Then they talked about the emissary he sent them before the flood.
The one that came in a spaceship and talked with them about the flood and their life cycle change on Earth.
About how they would die if they returned to Nibiru.
Then the same emissary appeared to one of the sons in a dream.
The king stated that he did not send an emissary.
They are all bewildered.

Chapter 12.3 – Many changes were made after the king’s visit.
Some reorganizing of the lands and a new approach to the earthlings.
They were to be intermixed with the Anunnaki in the cities.
They also were given a city of their own with their own king appointed by the Earth commander.
A point system for kingship and authority was devised and given.
The bride was still filled with revenge and demanded her own land.
She made a scheme and directed it to the grandfather (king’s son) of her dead groom.
He was in charge of something called MEs.
She made a plan to steal them from him.
She arrived at his abode dressed scantily and seduced him with song and wine.
So far he was falling for the deception.

Chapter 12.4 – The bride was caught but did not have the MEs with her.
The Earth commander appeared to have stripped his brother of the responsibility.
The brother’s son, back from exile became very enraged.
He demanded a sacred city of his own.
The Earth commander's uncle would not give him one.
He took it upon himself and gathered some igigi to help him.
They proceeded to build the tower of Babel.
At night the Earth commanders' forces destroyed it and scattered the people. He then gave each region a different language and alphabet to use.
City kings came and went.
The people sang songs about the bride who was now in charge of the MEs.

Chapter 12.5 – The once exiled son of the king’s son was given domain over a land his brother lorded.
For 650 Earth years, they quarreled.
The younger brother finally left at the insistence of the king’s son (his father). He left for new land across the ocean.
Interestingly, the once exiled son of the king’s son that created the earthlings is now called Ra (Ra was referred to in Egypt as the Sun God).
Ra now replaced the face of the lion next to the pyramid with his son’s face. References to his younger brother were erased.

The Anunnaki had an accurate system of counting by 60 Ra replaced it with counting by 10s.

Chapter 12.6 – This portion of the tablet started out with the father giving Ra some MEs.

He gave him all knowledge except how to revive the dead.

A third region was established and the bride was given lord over it.

The king's son she seduced and stole MEs from now held MEs from her she needed to rule her land with.

Her land was also given a totally new language.

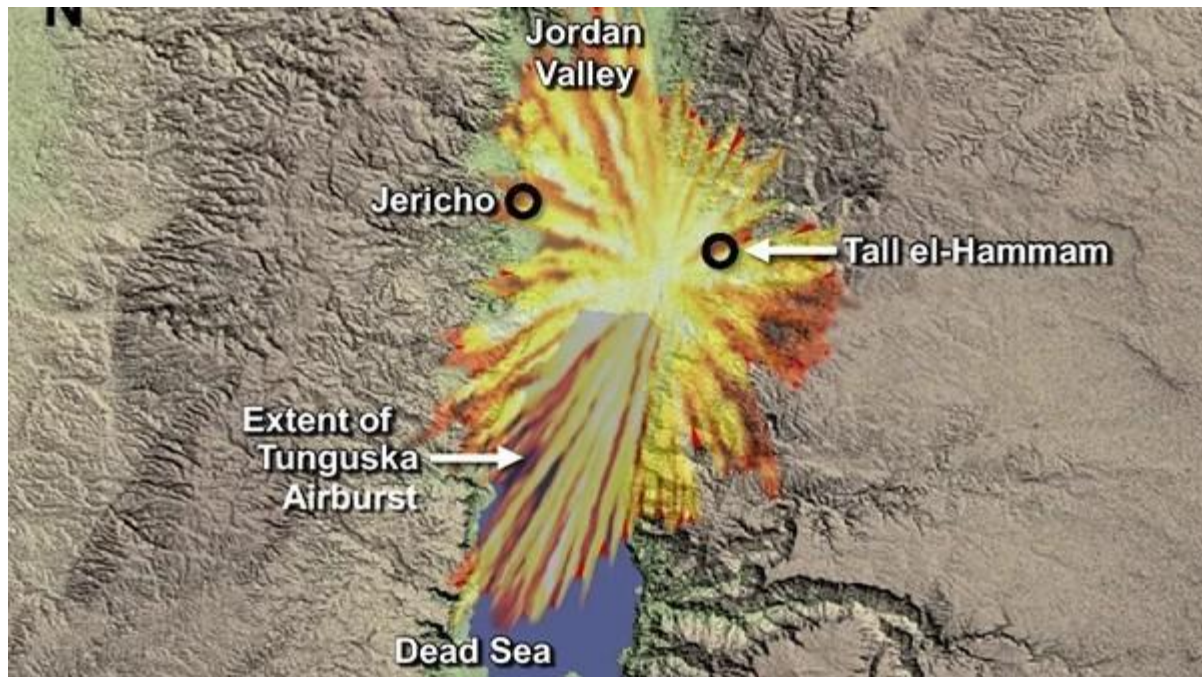

The third region was not able to communicate because of the language and almost went to war over it.

Trade did not happen because of language.

The third region did not blossom because of this barrier.

The Thirteenth Tablet of Lord Enki

Chapter 13.1 – The third region did not blossom.

The bride neglected her region.

Other regions were not given to her.

It was finally taken away from her.

She was haunted by her dead groom.

She built a house for night time pleasure.

She tempted men to her bed and killed them.

Gilgamesh was a king and desired a long life.

He tried but did not attain it and died.

Chapter 13.2 – Ra was bothered by the ongoings of the bride.

He was now preoccupied with attaining immortality.

He instructed people to go look for gold.

They invaded his brother's land and they became enraged.

Ra wanted to rule the entire Earth.

The bride traveled and found people in the land she liked.

Earthlings were taught the constellations.

Chapter 13.3 – This tablet of Lord Enki tells about the arch enemies prepared for war.

The bride and Ra.

War began between the two kings' sons' families.

The Earth commander had a dream with the same emissary as his brother's dream.

Chapter 13.4 – The war progressed and the son of the king's son who created earthlings was winning.

He shouted out to the Earth commander and his followers that he was the sole ruler and they should surrender.

But the Earth commander had an edge.

He knew where the weapons of terror were hidden.

He sent two to load them and use them simultaneously making sure the people were not harmed.

Chapter 13.5 – The weapons of terror were unleashed.

It had been 1,736 years since the flood.

All were destroyed by Ra forces and followers.

Then, the wind blew an evil dark cloud that killed all in its path.

The Fourteenth Tablet of Lord Enki

Chapter 14.1 – Enki and Enlil flying around surveying the damage from the weapons of terror. The two brothers talked and discussed the meaning of it all.

Ra/Marduk

The kingdom that RA desired so badly was now a wasteland.
Enlil told his brother Enki that Ra can have whatever he wants.
What he sowed, he can now reap (the radioactive land).
As for Enlil, he was going westward to where the gold field was to complete the original mission

Babili, where Marduk supremacy declared, by the Evil Wind was spared;
All the lands south of Babili the Evil Wind devoured, the heart of the Second Region it also touched.
When in the aftermath of the Great Calamity Enlil and Enki to surrey the havoc met, Enki to Enlil the sparing of Babili as a divine omen considered.
That Marduk to supremacy has been destined, by the sparing of Babili is confirmed! So did Enki to Enlil say.
The will of the Creator of All it must have been! Enlil to Enki said.
Then to him the dream-vision and prophecy of Galzu Enlil revealed.

If that by you was known, why did you the use of the Weapons of Terror not prevent? Enki him asked.

My brother! Enlil to Enki with a sorrowed voice said. Enough seen was the reason.
Whenever after your coming to Earth the mission by an obstacle obstructed was,
A way the obstruction to circumvent we have found;
Of that, the fashioning of the Earthlings, the greatest solution,
Also the fountain of a myriad unwanted twists and turns was.
When you have the celestial cycles fathomed and the constellations assigned,
Who in them the hands of Destiny could foresee,
Who could between our chosen fates and our unbending destiny distinguish?
Who false omens proclaimed, who true prophecies could pronounce?

Therefore to keep to myself the words of Galzu I decided
Was he truly the Creator of All's emissary, was he my hallucination?
Let whatever has to happen, happen! so to myself I said.
To his brother's words Enki listened, his head up and down he nodded.
The First Region is desolate, the Second Region is in confusion, the Third Region is wounded, The Place of the Celestial Chariots is no more; that is what has happened! Enki to Enlil said. If that was the will of the Creator of All, that is what of our Mission to Earth remained!

By the ambitions of Marduk was, then he the triumph of Marduk accepted.
Let the rank of fifty, by me for Ninurta intended, to Marduk intended be given, Let Marduk over the desolation in the Regions his supremacy declare!
As for me and Ninurta, we will in his was no longer stand.
To the Lands Beyond the Oceans we will depart, what we had all had come for,
The mission to obtain for Nibiru gold we will complete!
So did Enlil to Enki say; dejection was in his words.
Would different matter have been were the Weapons of Terror unused? Enki his brother challenged.
Should we have the words of Galzu to Nibiru not return heeded? Enlil retorted.

Should Earth Mission been stopped when the Anunnaki mutinied?
I what I did did,you what you did did. The past undone cannot become!
Is not in that tale of the Past the outline of the Future written-
Will Mankind,in our image created,our attainments and failures repeat?
Enlil was silent.As he dtood up to leave,Enki to him his arm extended.

Let us lock arms as brothers, as comrades who together challenges on an alien planet confronted!
So did Enki to his brother say.
And Enlil, grasping his brother's arm, hugged him as well.
Shall we meet again, on Earth or on Nibiru? Enki asked.
Was Galzu right that we die if we to Nibiru go? Enlil responded. Then he turned and departed.
Alone was Enki left; only by the thoughts of his heart was he accompanied.
How it all began and how it thus far ended, he sat and pondered.
Was it all destined, or was it fate by this and that decision fashioned? If Heaven and Earth by cycles within cycles regulated,
What had happened will again occur? Is the Past-the Future?
Will the Earthlings the Anunnaki emulate, will Earth relive Nibiru? Will he, the first to arrive, the last to leave be?
Beseiged by thoughts, Enki a decision made:
All the events and decisions, starting with Nibiru to this day on Earth,
To put in a record, a guide to future generations to become;
Let posterity, at a time by destiny designated,
The record read, the Past remember, the Future as prophecy understand,
Let the Future of the Past the judge be!
These are the words of Enki, Firstborn of Anu of Nibiru.
Fourteenth tablet: The Words of the lord Enki.
Written from the mouth of the great lord Enki, not one word missed, not one word added,
by the master scribe Endubsar, a man of Eridu, son of Udbar.
By the lord Enki with long life I have been blessed.

Moses

The image we think of as Moses

the reality of Moses

When God speaks to Moses in Ridley Scott's $200m biblical epic Exodus, it is through the voice of an 11 year-old English schoolboy.

Isaac Andrews follows in the footsteps of screen greats Morgan Freeman and John Huston when he appears as the deity in the 3D blockbuster

Christian Bale stars as Moses, the Old Testament prophet who rises up against the Egyptian Pharaoh Ramses and sets 600,000 Israelite slaves "on a monumental journey of escape from Egypt and its terrifying cycle of deadly plagues".

Filmmakers have long wrestled with direct representations of God. Cecil B De Mille chose to have the deity issue his stone tablets to Moses as a burning bush, or in a stern off-screen booming voice, as in his 1956 epic The Ten Commandments.

At producer/director Ridley Scott's suggestion, when God speaks directly to Moses in Exodus: Enlils and Kings, it is through a young boy, Malak, (the Hebrew word for angel or messenger), who is played by Andrews, a London schoolboy.

Scott said: “Sacred texts give no specific depiction of Enlil, so for centuries artists and filmmakers have had to choose their own visual depiction. Malak exudes innocence and purity, and those two qualities are extremely powerful.”

Andrews, who has only been acting for two years, is already building up an impressive blockbuster CV. He will next be seen in The Avengers: Age of Ultron and Alice In Wonderland: Through The Looking Glass, the 2016 sequel to Tim Burton’s 2010 fantasy film.

He has also voiced roles in a number of Radio 4 plays and appeared in the film Hercules this year, and is busy rehearsing and attending school, his agents, Hamilton Hodell, said.

Rabbi David Baron, a Beverly Hills-based consultant on Exodus, defended the film’s “Enlil-child”. He said: “They went off the biblical text, but the biblical text was very terse.” The Rabbi hoped the film would encourage its audience to re-engage with The Bible, adding: “You’ve never seen locusts swarming like they do in 3D.”

Exodus follows Darren Aronofsky’s Noah, starring Russell Crowe, which solved the “Enlil problem” by refusing to allow even a mention of the word “Enlil”. The Genesis story was still criticized by Christian groups for turning Noah into an eco-warrior and banned in many Muslim countries for “contradicting the teachings of Islam.”

Scott, who describes himself as a religious “agnostic” believes his Exodus film cleaves closely to the biblical source. The director told Variety that he was attracted to the story of a reluctant hero, who only gradually comes to accept his prophesied destiny, and even then finds himself actively questioning God’s plans and his own role in them.

The Fifteenth Tablet of Lord Enki

As ordered by the Anunnaki Council, Enki prepares the way for his earthly son, Jesus.

The earthlings still need him. Ra's schemes had started to become popular with the earthlings.

How does he explain this to his son?

Anunnaki Prime Directive

Section 1:

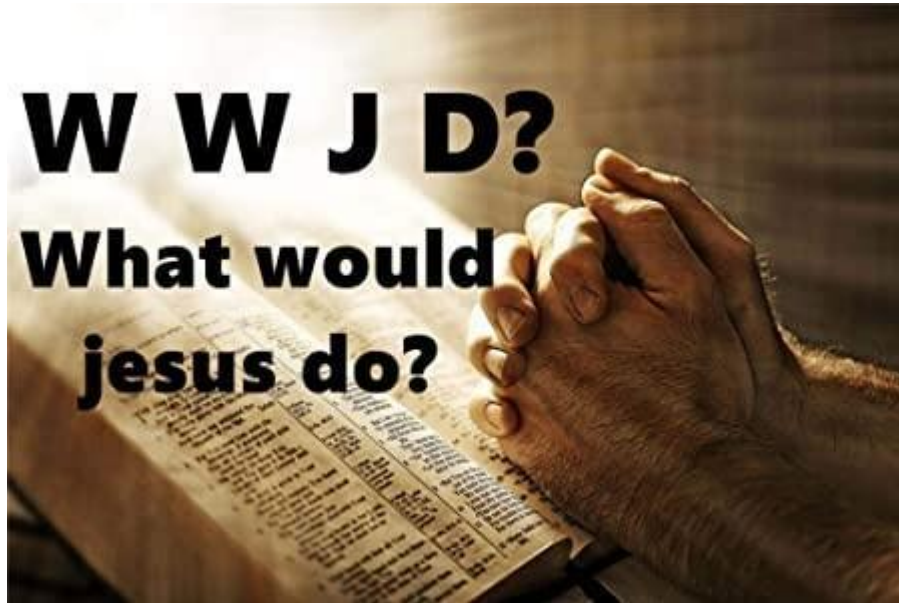

Anunnaki crew will obey the following with any civilization that has not achieved a commensurate level of technological and/or societal development.

- a) No identification of self or mission.
- b) No interference with the social, cultural, or technological development of said planet.
- c) No references to space, other worlds, or advanced civilizations.
- d) The exception to this is if said society has already been exposed to concept, herein. However, in that instance, section 2 applies.

Section 2:

If said species has achieved the commensurate level of technological and/or societal development as described in Appendix 1, or has been exposed to the concepts listed in section 1, no Anunnaki crew person will engage with said society or species without first gathering extensive information on the specific traditions, laws, and culture of that species civilization.

As a soldier, my Holy Spirit of choice was Jesus. As I have gotten older, I still ask myself this question daily. If you think that Jesus was perfect and never did anything immoral, you are wrong.

I also understand why if he ever knew the truth about his father, he felt we could not handle knowing that our true origins were on another planet. Especially men of his day.

Just because you have Divine abilities, should you use them?

Jesus allowed himself to be crucified, he could have easily killed his captors.

Personally, I believe that he felt guilty once he understood the wickedness of the Anunnaki influence on earthlings.

He chose the most brutal execution ever known. Beaten for hours and then made to carry his own cross.

I must admit, if I were Jesus, I would have killed the men who beat me. He was definitely a better man than me. I am a retired soldier though.

Jesus led the resistance to Enlil – Yahweh, the genocidal Commander of the gold mining expedition from the planet Nibiru to Earth. Jesus, from his home in France and in North America, defied Yahweh and taught:

Help the poor.

Sustain the feeble.

Do evil to no one.

Do not covet what you do not possess. Reverence Woman, the foundation of all that is good and beautiful

JESUS, PATSY OF Overlord Enlil & Marduk/YAHWEH REBELLED TO FREE US.

Bloodlines, royalty, caste are all instruments of the hierarchical obsession of the ET Nibirans who impose hierarchy to feed their lust for power, control and greed. IMHO, all consciousnesses, those of the poor; the feeble, handicapped, oppressed, animals, planets, solar systems, galaxies and universes are just as much a part of the Prime Creator as kings, priests, prophets, messiahs and illuminati. We're all holographic partials that contain the light of all other consciousnesses as well as the light of the Prime Creator. The Prime Creator contains us all.

“Jesus was just one of many prophets or messiahs who were carefully planned by the Anunnaki [Nibirans Who Came in Rockets] gods to keep humanity fearful and obedient to the great gods [Enlil/Yahweh and Marduk/Allah] who ruled the world and still rule it today” Their organizations “control our day-to-day lives, what brands we consume, how we dress, what TV shows we watch, what we drive, what beer we drink, where we go on holiday, the price of oil. A small number of Anunnaki gods still reside among us, controlling our affairs.

Jesus was the most successful of the planted messiahs. He managed to plant seeds of obedience and unconsciously spread the principle of 'divide and conquer' among humanity."

Some 500 years after Jesus' crucifixion, The Roman Emperor Constantine had the Christian Church leave the Apocrypha, (hithertofore in the Old Testament) out of the New Testament. The Apocrypha contained "the story of Jesus' birth and childhood years, up to the point where he returned to his land of birth to start his ministry.

ANUNNAKI BEGAT BOTH MOTHER MARY AND JESUS

A Nibiran agent of Marduk/Yahweh (probably Gabriel), designated an "angel" in the Apocrypha, came to Jesus' grandfather, Joachim, a priest in the Hebrew temple, who couldn't beget with his wife Anna, the heir he needed for his position in the temple. The agent told Joachim "his wife would bear a child aided by an 'angel'. But they would have to surrender the child to be raised by priests and 'angels.'

Anna gave birth to Mary, who at the age of three was taken to the temple and left there. "

At 14, "the time came for her to go back into the world and get married. Her mentors handpicked a much older man, Joseph to be her husband. "

At Mary's parents' home in Galilee, while Joseph was in Bethlehem, Agent Gabriel told Mary "she would give birth to the new messiah."

Marduk, delivering the final stroke to his masterful control over humanity, wanted to ensure genetic supremacy for his fabricated messiah." Marduk, given his disgust for humans and his belief in genetic determinism, employed "artificial insemination of the young virgin, giving [he believed] Jesus a genetic advantage" and "abilities other humans lacked.

"When Joseph returned from Bethlehem to collect Mary, he found her pregnant" and thought her "a whore." But "before he could desert her an 'angel' appeared to him explaining that Mary was still a virgin."

ANUNNAKI BIRTHED JESUS IN A CAVE

On the way to Bethlehem to birth Jesus, Mary went into a cave while Joseph sought a midwife. They found Mary and Jesus in the cave, lit by artificial lights.

Three Wise Men, led by lights from an Anunnaki hovercraft, appeared, gifted Jesus, and followed the craft back to Persia. "When they were gone, an angel of the Lord appeared to Joseph in a dream. 'Get Up,' he said. "Take the child and his mother and escape to Egypt, for [Israel's Roman-imposed King] Herod is going to search for the child to kill him."

Marduk staged a failed assassination attempt against Jesus to make him a celebrity. "And so word went out that the 'messiah' was born."
