

Optimizer Heifers

We sorted off our top ten Optimizer heifers from the fall, 2021 calf crop to offer in this sale. Optimizers tend to calve easier, grow better and move around more than 100% Angus females. We think they make the best Angus cross because of the maternal strengths and do-ability that the Salers breed adds without giving up carcass merit and adding hybrid vigor. This is an extraordinary "spread" female- low birth weight/high growth out of Drummond 907, our favorite Optimizer herdsire who, unfortunately, broke his leg in a gate before we could even get his picture taken. We did collect him, and have used him AI extensively. This heifer is 3/8 Salers, had a 61 pound birth weight, and is one of the biggest heifers in the calf crop.

Another outstanding Drummond daughter from the Francis cow family. Expect easy calving and high growth from her offspring, with good carcass traits. Joe Bush thought enough of her sire to name him the family name of the ranch's founder, A.A. "Jack" Drummond.

This girl certainly catches the eye! She is our only red colored registered animal, which color she gets from her sire, MAC Atomic Force. He comes from MacDonald Ranches, and we used him because of his shape and style. She is 3/4's Salers, and just beautiful.
