Dear Aunt Bingo

Deplorable Behavior at Bingo

Dear Aunt Bingo,

I became the saddest person in the world when I witnessed an act of racism at a local Bingo hall. A Hispanic lady asked a non-Hispanic woman if somebody was sitting at the table next to her, and the woman's answer was that the Hispanic lady (and her friends) could not sit there because they speak Spanish. The Hispanic women became upset and called the manager, and right in front of the manager the non-Hispanic woman made a racist comment. The manager immediately told her that if she made another comment like that, she was not going to be allowed in the Bingo hall anymore. (I admire him for doing that!) All her friends started yelling to take the Hispanics out of the Bingo hall, while the woman was yelling and hitting the table very mad, saying, "Speak English, because you are in America!"

It is very sad to see how vicious and ignorant people can sometimes be. I am Hispanic myself. I was lucky to have come to this country when I was 17 years old and to have my mother support me so I could go to school to learn English and get an education. Some people are not that lucky and have to work hard to support their families and don't have the time to go to school and learn the language 100 percent.

I have been mistreated myself, so I feel very bad to see how people mistreat other people just because of their nationality. I think every Bingo hall should let people know that the Bingo tables are not their private property and that they must share, because everybody's money is the same no matter their color or what language they speak.

Most American citizens' ancestors probably spoke another language when they came to the United States from France, Italy, Ireland, Germany, Russia, or elsewhere. This is an immigrant nation.

Let's play Bingo in peace, please! We all go to a Bingo hall to win and have a good time, right? So, let's do so.

V.C., via e-mail

Dear V.C.,

Your Bingo hall experience and observations are so important for readers to hear!

Such behavior in this day and age, in a Bingo hall or anywhere else, is shocking and deplorable. As you say, people seem to forget that the United States is an immigrant nation.

There are millions of people worldwide who long to pursue the same American dream that we enjoy by birthright. And there are still many opportunities for these "new Americans" to make their place in the United States without harming anyone, and, in fact, enhancing the nation's diversity and vitality.

I encourage everyone to be tolerant and accepting of those different from themselves, and to take a stand whenever they see or hear someone express bias like this woman and her cohorts did at Bingo.

They should be ashamed of themselves—and at the very least owe the women whom they harassed an apology. If nothing else good came from their behavior, at least it serves as a lesson to the rest of us how not to behave.

Thank you for having the courage to share this important message. —Aunt Bingo

Bingo Hall Monitors

Hi, everyone. I hope you are well and enjoying the weather and celebrating the 248th birthday of this great nation. Soon it will be 250 years: the semi-quincentennial.

This time around I would love to get your ideas on the use of monitors in Bingo halls to show the ball that is ABOUT to be called. (I have an easy e-mail address. It is simply: bingo@earthlink.net.)

Like many of you, my first experiences of playing the game we all love best was in a hall where the caller actually CALLED the numbers. No monitors. No advance warning. Just Bingo. To be honest, I still prefer it that way. Even in halls that have monitors—and most do—I never look at them, unless things are really close, and I am too curious for my own good. I find that learning about the numbers the old-fashioned way is how Bingo works best for me.

The main reason that I started ignoring the monitors is the fact that, at least for me, they did more harm than good. And, in some states where the "number called" is the number spoken by the caller and nothing else, why consult the monitors anyway?

I know many of you violently disagree with me at this point. That's fine. If monitors work for you, then consult the monitors. I guess it is what you're used to that determines which system you feel the most comfortable with. I would love to hear from you about this.

Finally, a look into the e-mailbag. I got a really nice letter from Josey in Joplin, Missouri. She writes: "Bob, I read your comments the other month about some of the older women (bingo biddies as you called them) who seem to think they deserve special perks at Bingo. I could not agree with you more. There is a woman at our hall who thinks she is the BINGO QUEEN. Sometimes I'd like to crown her."

And, here's a note from Fr. Larry at a Catholic school in Iowa: "Bob, I have always appreciated the way you seem to be on the side of the average Bingo player, and you are proud to mention you still play in your old Catholic grade school. Remember, it was a small parochial school in New Jersey that first used Bingo as a fundraiser and asked the company making Bingo supplies to get more winning combinations.

I am writing this to ask your help in getting more volunteers to help out at charity Bingo halls... and not just Catholic ones. There are thousands of men and woman who VOLUNTEER every week at the American Legion, the Elks, the Moose, Lutheran schools and at other charity Bingo events. Without these UNPAID volunteers there would be no charity Bingo at all. Please thank all of them for me and invite more people to help out. Thanks, and God bless you. Fr. Larry."

Answer!

Gardening Made Easier

Dear Savvy,
What gardening tips can you offer to older seniors? I love to putter around and work in the garden, but my back and knees have caused me to curtail my gardening activities, which I miss greatly.

—Older Gardner

Dear OG,

There's no doubt that gardening can be hard on an aging body. Joints stiffen up, kneeling for prolonged periods hurts, and bending and reaching can strain muscles. But that doesn't mean you have to give up your hobby. You just need to garden differently, add some special tools and know your limits. Here are some tips that may help you.

Limber Up

With gardening, good form is very important as well as not overdoing any one activity. A common problem is that gardeners often kneel or squat, putting extra pressure on their knees. Then, to spare their knees, they might stand and bend over for long stretches to weed, dig and plant, straining their back and spine.

To help protect your body, you need to warm up before beginning. Start with a short walk followed by gentle stretching, focusing on the legs and lower back.

Change It Up

Keep changing positions and activities. Don't spend hours weeding a flowerbed. After 15 minutes of weeding, you should stand up, stretch, and switch to another activity like pruning the bushes or just take a break. It's also important that you recognize your physical limitations and don't try to do too much all at once. And, when lifting heavier objects, remember to use your legs to preserve your back. You can do this by keeping the item close to your body and squatting to keep your back as vertical as possible.

Get Better Tools

The right gardening equipment can help too. Kneeling pads can protect knees, and garden seats or stools are both back and knee savers. Lightweight garden carts can make hauling bags of mulch, dirt, plants or other heavy objects much easier. And long-handled gardening and weeding tools can help ease the strain on the back by keeping you in a standing upright position versus bent over.

There are also ergonomic gardening and pruning tools with fatter handles and other design features that can make lawn and garden activities a little easier. Fiskars and Felco make a number of specialty tools that you can buy online or at local retail stores that sell lawn and garden supplies. Also check out Gardeners.com and RadiusGarden.com, two online stores that sell specialized gardening tools and equipment that are very helpful to older gardeners.

Make Watering Easier

The chore of carrying water or handling a heavy, awkward hose can also be difficult for older gardeners. Some helpful options include lightweight fabric or expandable hoses instead of heavy rubber hoses; soaker or drip hoses that can be snaked throughout the garden; thin coil hoses that can be used on the patio or small areas; a hose caddy and reel for easier hose transport around the yard; and a self-winding hose chest that puts the hose up automatically. There are also a variety of ergonomic watering wands that are lightweight, easy to grip, and reach those hard-to-get-to plants.

To find these types of watering aids check with your local lawn and garden supplies stores or visit Gardeners.com.

Bring the Garden to You

If your backyard garden has become too much to handle, you should consider elevated garden beds or container gardening—using big pots, window boxes, hanging baskets, barrels or tub planters. This is a much easier way to garden because it eliminates much of the bend and strain of gardening but still provides the pleasure of making things grow.

Bringing Baby to Bingo

Our next-door neighbors have a brand-new baby so when the grandparents, Millie and James, came to visit we invited them to park their RV on the flat spot in front of our house and plug in to our electric outlet. We became friendly and, on a particularly boring day when the baby had to go for a check-up, we invited them to come with us to play Bingo.

They became instant fans. Having never played Bingo before, they absorbed it all like water after a long dry spell. The risk factor fascinated them, and they were ready to play again any day.

Worried that their newfound love of Bingo might be cutting into their Grandparenting time, I hit upon the plan of taking them to late night games so they would have daytime for the family. They loved it. There is something almost mysterious about late night games and the players are somewhat different, too. There is a greater proportion of men to women. There are fewer women crocheting doll clothes. The atmosphere is not as social, although our new friends conversed with everybody and talked easily about themselves.

They are from Canada and their very slight accent proved enchanting. When they won a game, everyone in the room applauded. Millie smiled and flushed as if she had won a marathon. James patted her back in encouragement. Kate grumbled that the very next number had been hers.

Then their daughter Susan came to call. She wanted in on the action, too.

"Come along with us," Kate suggested. "We'll take the RV and the baby can be fed and you can both sleep if you need to."

It didn't work out quite that way. Susan became as fiendish about Bingo as her parents. She and husband Jack took turns playing the cards or caring for the baby. I think Jack spent most of his time minding the baby, but he didn't object. We all had so much fun with our new Bingo family.

Guy's Turn

Bingo Needs Newbies!

Hi Guy,

We only have a handful of Bingo games in our town, which makes it fun to watch the Bingo operators try new ways to compete with each other and attract players.

One of the halls did something I thought was clever: They started encouraging teenagers and young adults to come and play as an inexpensive, new and fun night out. They also amped up the menu with food kids like and play contemporary music (nothing too rockin') before the games.

On one side, it worked...over the course of a few weeks the number of young players climbed from a handful to maybe 20 or so. But on the other side, many older players felt it was inappropriate to encourage these young people to "gamble" and have been vocal in their objections.

Do you think inviting young people to Bingo is a bad thing?

—LG, via email

Hi LG,

As long as they are well-behaved and relatively quiet, I have no problem with young people coming to Bingo. In fact, I think it should be encouraged.

Every form of entertainment must have new blood to keep it going, and Bingo is no different. Without new players, Bingo could go the way of the dinosaur. And it has all the ingredients of a fun game that will appeal to young people: socialness, competition, and the opportunity to win prizes to name a few.

It would be interesting to hear from readers about their feelings regarding young people at Bingo. Are they pro or con? Do they see Bingo as innocent entertainment or wagering that could lead young people astray? I hope you'll share your thoughts (email tara@bin-gobugle.com, snail mail: Bingo Bugle, Box 527, Vashon WA 98070). —Guy

TIPS

Want to pump up a dying fire? Never use lighter fluid. Even if the coals look really gray, they could be hot on the inside. The stream of fluid CAN catch fire. It's too dangerous. Put new briquettes in with the old, and light those up using a long-stick match.

* "Keep flareups from unintentional blackening: Keep a clean spray bottle filled with plain water next to the grill. Long after you're done cooking and you're ready to clean up those ashes from briquettes, mist the ashes first, and it will keep them from making a dust cloud." — U.L. in Georgia

* From charcoal grilling expert Kingsford, here's a great tip to use when grilling chicken: "When applying a dry rub to chicken pieces, it's often hard to keep the rub affixed and it's even more difficult to keep the chicken's original, golden color. Try painting chicken pieces with yellow mustard prior to applying the rub. Not only will the rub stay in place, your final product will be visually appealing — without any trace of mustard flavor."

* When wrapping vegetables in foil packets to grill, make the seams on the sides. This way, the veggie packets can be turned over for even cooking and to avoid burning on one side. You can even label the outside of the foil in permanent marker. It won't affect the taste of the food.

* To cover a picnic table in windy conditions, choose a fitted bed sheet. An alternative that is kid-friendly is to cover a table entirely with white butcher paper, taped at the seams and secured underneath with strong tape such as duct tape. The kids can busy themselves drawing placemats and decorations for everyone in crayon while the adults do the grilling.

Bingo for All Ages

There's nothing scarier than the split second when you lose your balance in the shower and think, "Oh God, they're going to find me naked." —Ms. Know It All Woof, woof. The official forty dog days of summer are July 3 through August 11. Ancient Greeks and Romans believed this was a time of bad luck, drought, and unrest when dogs and men could be driven insane by the extreme heat. Currently, Dog Days are associated with summer's peak temps and humidity; which as my regular readers know, I loathe. To avoid a heat-stricken body, I could take a refreshing dip in our pool, but alas, we have none; and besides, I can't swim. Or I could sip iced tea to cool down inside and out with this recipe I found to be refreshing: www.almanac.com/recipe/dog-days-iced-tea. Or I could turn down the AC, relax in my recliner with my drink of choice, and watch Disney's Frozen for inspiration. Yep, that's my plan.

July 24th is Cousins Day and I love my cousins. We were rural kids who spent our days outside exploring. A swamp, wetlands, bordered our property and that was the first place we headed on explorations. Our parents warned, don't, it's dangerous. Was it? Yes. Did we listen? No, we were dumb@#$#@ but we grew up none the worse for our time outdoors; feeding our imaginations with child driven adventures.

Most kids today will never experience that same joy we felt as we defied our parents and ran wild, doing what kids used to do, spending time outside in the summertime. Cell phones, computer games, and other self-isolating activities have replaced authentic chances to socialize and build life skills.

Maybe we should legalize bingo for all ages everywhere and teach young people the fun in playing bingo. After all, bingo is all about socialization and the group delight of playing a game that involves numbers, patterns, and cognitive thinking, but not in zombie like isolation. Laughs and boos frequently break out and we are surrounded by those having a good time; encouraging interaction by all who are present. It presents an opportunity to talk, celebrate wins, and bemoan losses with fellow attendees. We can vent our frustrations aloud to other players instead of internalizing them. Yes, it's still a game with a machine in control, but at least we're in the presence of other humans who are honing their social skills, which our young people definitely need.

Remember that July 11 is Cheer Up the Lonely Day. Francis Pesek of Michigan is mostly credited for it. Known for his own kindness, he was concerned for the neglected around him, shut-ins and others in nursing homes. He drew attention to their plight and his ideas grew into this special day to remember the lonely. Research shows that loneliness is contagious and may infect all who are in a group; 40% of people experience intense loneliness at least once in their lifetime; only 33% of Americans are truly happy, with loneliness a factor; consistent loneliness increases one's chance of early death by 19%. Scary, but we can help by practicing kindness and noticing those around us who may need some TLC. Until next month, may Lady Luck blow you kisses as you dance out the door with dollars. Win big. And don't forget July 14 is National Nude Day. Celebrate however you want, but remember what others see, they can never un-see. nlpvzw6172@gmail.com.

QUESTIONS

1. Which group got their name from a hat?
2. Name Elvis Presley's first No. 1 hit. (Clue: He was still with Sun Records at the time.)
3. Who wrote and released "Angel Baby"?
4. Name the group that wrote and released "Sh-Boom" ("Life Could Be a Dream").
5. Name the song that contains this lyric: "And if you would let them hold you, Oh how grateful I will be."

ANSWERS

1. The Tams, from tam o'shanter, which they wore when performing. Their only No. 1 hit was "What Kind of Fool (Do You Think I Am)" in 1964.
2. "I Forgot to Remember to Forget" in 1955. When he moved over to RCA Records the same year, his first hit with them was "Heartbreak Hotel," also a chart-topper.

3. Rosie and the Originals, in 1960. To get attention for the song, Rosie asked the music department in a department store to play it. A record company soon signed up the group.

4. The Chords, in 1954. The Crew-Cuts quickly followed with a cover.

5. "These Arms of Mine," by Otis Redding in 1962. The song was singer-songwriter Redding's first major single and it was later featured in several soundtracks, including Road House and Dirty Dancing.

Casino

Questions & Answers

I've heard the expression "casino hopping." What does it mean?

A: Casino hopping is simply a way to stretch your bankroll and playing time while having fun. For example, in gaming meccas like Las Vegas you play for a while in one casino, go to the one next door, and finish up at a third. Here's what to do:

(1) Set a dollar loss limit for each casino. For example, in casino #1, you play until you've lost $50, $75, or whatever your budget allows. You then go to casinos #2 and #3 and repeat.

(2) Set a firm playing time for each casino. Win or lose you play for 30, 60, or however many minutes, then move on to the next casino.

Casino hopping not only adds variety to your playing, it builds in walks, which are good for your concentration, and you'll also find that you have better luck in some casinos.

Q: What is the double or nothing feature on a slot machine?

A: This feature is found mostly on video poker and in bonus rounds. By pressing the double or nothing button, you are given the option of doubling a winning payout or losing it all.

The double-up feature has no house advantage. You have a 50-50 chance of winning on any given bet. It's a fair bet, but not a smart one. Here you're not only risking the money of a normal bet, but all the money you've already won.

But if you insist, and only a small amount is involved, try the option once, maybe twice. More than that, you're not just pushing your luck, you're shoving it.

Nevada Happenings

Silverton Swimmin' Hole

The Swimmin' Hole at Silverton has reopened after being closed for a complete remodel to the tune of $10 million. The pool deck now features cabanas and daybeds, a bar and grill, a 32-foot retractable screen at the bar for special-event broadcasts, fire pits, and new restrooms. It's part of a $50 million makeover at Silverton, including a refresh of the casino and a complete renovation of the property's 300 hotel rooms completed last fall.

Big Hit at Venetian

A royal flush was hit on a Three Card Poker game at the Venetian in May, triggering the Millionaire Progressive for $1.9 million. The player, identified as from Connecticut, was dealt the royal in spades and had made the $5 side bet, making him eligible for the jackpot. The Millionaire Progressive links up Three Card Poker, Ultimate Texas Hold'em, Crazy 4 Poker, and Mississippi

Stud; introduced in 2018, it's been hit 14 times since then.

Local Fave Opens at Palace Station

The first Lindo Michoacan opened in Las Vegas on E. Desert Inn Road nearly 25 years ago in 1990 with 12 tables; since then, its three locations (a second in Summerlin and a third in Henderson) seat more than 300 people and it's one of the most popular and venerable Mexican restaurants in town. The fourth location opened at Palace Station this past Cinco de Mayo weekend. Located in the former Tacos & Tequila space, the new room seats 106 guests and offers the same menu as the other three restaurants.

Las Vegas Spaceport Permitted

Last year around this time it was reported that the Las Vegas Spaceport, Inc. quietly acquired 240 acres roughly 50 miles west of the city near Pahrump to build a hotel-casino-astronaut-training-center-spaceport—words that don't often appear together. The company has a plan to get a jump on space tourism, while locating the spaceport near major military bases and their pilots and technicians, plus rocket scientists. Now, Clark County has just approved construction permits for the Las Vegas Executive Airport, slated to be the "cornerstone" of the complex, which will serve both commercial and private space tourism. The overall plans include a passenger terminal, rooftop deck, restaurant, and hotel; there was no mention of a casino in the recent news reports. Construction is expected to begin in late summer, with an operator selected in four years and space travel "at least five years" away.

Keith Urban Heads to Fbleau

After a long residency last year at Zappo's Theater at Planet Hollywood and one at the Colosseum at Caesars in 2019, country singer, songwriter, and guitarist Keith Urban will play 10 shows at BleauLive Theater; the dates are October 4, 5, 9, 11, and 12 and February 14, 15, 19, 21, and 22. This is the first "residency" at the 3,800-seat BleauLive, which has been defined since opening by single shows; Fontainebleau apparently doesn't like the residency label and is calling the 10 shows an "exclusive engagement."

Getting Help when Leaving the Service

Those who leave the service can be in for quite a life change, not only for them but for their families.

The VA knows this and has set aside $4 million to be used this year as grants to organizations that help with that transition.

The services these organizations are to provide include employment placement, interview training, resume help and more.

Besides the grants to organizations, the VA takes its own steps. See benefits.va.gov/transition/transition-home.asp for more information.

The Military to Civilian Readiness Pathway (M2C Ready) is a two-year effort: one year before you leave the service and one year afterward.

Part of M2C Ready is the Solid Start program, which helps veterans during the first year of leaving the service. They give you three calls during that first year (at the 90, 180 and 365 day marks) to make sure you know about the benefits you have. (A heads up ... take care that you're not talking to a scammer. Veterans are often targeted, so beware what personal info you disclose on the phone.)

You can call Solid Start at 800-827-0611 or see benefits.va.gov/

TRANSITION/solid-start.asp. The page has lists and links to resources you can use. Among others, the sources include employment help, housing assistance, pensions, education, life insurance and getting your records. Don't miss the link to the VA Welcome Kit at the bottom of the page. Get one (it's a download) and keep it with your important documents.

If you're not actually leaving the service yet and are moving from one duty station to the next, hook up with TAP or the Transition Assistance Program. Check the "modules" at TRANSITION/VA-TAP-Course-Catalog.asp for videos on topics of your choice. These are actual training sessions with resource guides.
