Learning to use Underpainting

MIKE BYRNE

Ever wonder how the masters from the Renaissance Era got such deep rich moods into their paintings? My thinking is that, besides the quality of the oil colors and their talents, underpainting may have a lot to do with it.

I have been using my own style of underpainting, which most of the time pleases me. I will share some of the information I have found regarding underpainting and go beyond those tidbits to demonstrate to you how I have worked a type of underpainting into my floral, nautical and landscape watercolors and acrylic paintings.

--- Mike Byrne

A Few Ditties from Next Months Speaker

KEN HERSHENSON

Ken is back teaching in-person classes at Atelier School of Art in Royal Oak. He has an Acrylics Guided Study class which focuses on acrylic paint, composition, design and observation for students working on their personal projects.

He also has an Acrylics Fundamentals class which provides a foundation to move ahead and create a quality finished product through a step by step series of classes.

Ken's most recent painting in the "I DO know Jack" series is pictured above and entitled "Pepper Jack". If you wish to see more of his work, stop by Lily's Seafood in Royal Oak where he presently has 20+ artworks on display.

Ken has also created a brand new website for his artwork at www.KennethHershenson.art.
