

Russell V. Hoke

*Grounded. Reliable.
Directable.*

---

Casting directors don't need hype. They need reliability, range, and results.

That's where I come in.

I'm a professional actor, singer, and voice artist with decades of experience delivering grounded, emotionally clear performances—whether the ask is a nuanced on-camera moment, a confident commercial read, or a vocal performance that lands the story without calling attention to itself.

I understand the room. I understand the clock. And I understand what it means to make your job easier.

My background spans stage, screen, voice-over, and music production, which means I show up prepared, adaptable, and directable. I take adjustments quickly, stay connected under pressure, and bring choices—not chaos.

What you'll get when you hire me:

- Story-first performances
- A confident presence without ego
- Clean reads, grounded choices, fast pivots
- Someone who treats your project like it matters—because it does

If you're looking for someone dependable, expressive, and easy to work with—someone who feels like they've been part of your casting shorthand all along—I'm ready.

Let's make something that works.