Mike Sullivan Family

The Sullivan family farm near Morton was homesteaded by Mike's great grandfather. The generations to follow have continued the farming operation. Mike returned to the family farm in 1968 and in the years to come Mike and his wife, Jane, would be joined in the operation by sons Tim, Pat and Joe. The Sullivans also have a daughter, Molly, who teaches special education at Cedar Mountain Schools.

The Sullivans raise corn and soybeans and occasionally grow canning crops including sweet corn and peas.

Tim is the business manager on the farm and along with his wife, Sarah, have three children: Parker, Spencer and Lydia. Pat is the farm's shop manager and is married to Jolynn. The couple also has three children: Sam, Emma and Addison. Joe works with the technology components of the operation and along with his wife, April, raise two children: Grace and Connor, with another on the way. The Sullivan's daughter Molly and her husband, Tom Lorang, have two children: Kaitlyn and Keegan.

The Sullivan family is very involved in many community and farm organizations and they are all members of Sacred Heart Catholic Church. Tim, Pat and Joe are graduates of the MARL program and the family has had several generations involved in 4-H and FFA.
