Jill Sookdeo
Designed Objects;
Upholestered Chair
Cushion

Designed for MP incorporating the visual representation of crochet. Designed by digitally rendering crochet repeat, then transferring to Lyrrol print making block. The Muslin fabric was hand dyed with Acid Dye, washed and then cut to the sewing draft. The fabric pattern was stamped on to the fabric, after that it was sewn together and reassembled on to the chair. The cushion followed a similar process of dyeing and assembly.

Triple Moth

Laser Cuts

Small scale Laser cut design for a cloak. The design was created as a vector image using the specs required for the Laser Cutter machine. The Triple Moth motif was laser cut as well as engraved in to wood, paper and felt, as part of experimentation for a garment.
