Overview:

Thank you for purchasing this from KRN Solutions LLC. This product is unique to what you may have used before, So I would recommend reading this setup instructions completely before going to any job site. The most current version and other supporting documents can be found at www.krnsolutionsllc.com.

This is a replacement for the Von Duprin module/circuit breaker to power the EL solenoid. It must be supplied with 24VDC only. The input is polarity sensitive, but if wired incorrectly, there will be no damaged done. It just will not work. There is one LED to indicate when power is being supplied.

Installation:

Start with cutting the wires off the old module.

Input wires:

Wire positive to the "+" terminal and the negative to the "-" terminal. Not to worry, if this is wrong, it will not work, just need to switch the wires.

Output wires:

Match the color for all 3 wires to markings on PCB.

Operation and Troubleshooting:

There is an LED next to the input connector. If this is not lite, One of two things are wrong.

1. There is no power to the VD Driver module. Check for 24VDC.
2. If there is power, check polarity is correct. Positive is towards the LED.
