PRESS RELEASE

25 January, 2021 18:00 ET

LEEDS PRESS CORP ... is actively seeking 'minority authors'. According to the Publisher, we can support 'Black Authors' ... by buying books that celebrate black culture and brings awareness to African-American lived experiences. Readers can purchase and promote black authors' books on their Social Media platforms, as well as, on websites like GoodReads, nominating black authors for Literary Awards, joining local book-clubs and discuss their favorite books on blog sites. Readers can also write and leave book reviews on online bookstores like Amazon, Barnes and Noble, Public Libraries, and many other retailers ... which goes a long way in promoting the book of a "Black Published Author"...

LEEDS PRESS + MINORITY AUTHORS

*"to increase diversity
in the publishing
marketplace..."*

... Leeds Press plans to celebrate Black Authors, on a rolling basis by publishing their stories. "They need to know that we care," said, Reuben Wanjala, Managing Director of Leeds Press Corp. Mr. Wanjala went on to say, "To truly experience the culture, supporting black authors' books provides a great platform where ideas that generate empathy and connectedness can naturally occur." To increase diversity in the publishing marketplace, the company is actively seeking minority authors wishing to publish their books, wishing to tell their stories .. wishing to inspire the world and leave their mark. "We Too ...Were Here!"
