Bio

Out of the Ashes emerged from the legacy of Jack Stevens... lead singer of early 90's South Florida rock band Sin City, whose album Night Time Hour explored themes of sorcery, betrayal, and redemption.

After Stevens' passing on the eve of their biggest show, guitarist Ray Anton revived the songs they played together with a new voice.

Enter Maria Serritella, a powerful vocalist and classically trained dancer whose commanding presence and edgy style evoke Pat Benatar and Joan Jett while remaining distinctly her own.

Out of the Ashes delivers a new, modern take on classic '80's arena rock.

Ray Anton

Ray's guitar playing journey began at the young age of 16. He pursued his muse and studied guitar and music at Miami-Dade College. "It was hard rock and heavy metal", said Ray. "I was into Van Halen, Journey, Judas Priest, KISS and Ozzy Osbourne". Ray sites his early influences as Eddie Van Halen, Neil Giraldo and Neal Schon.

Ray formed many bands through his teenage years, but Sin City touched a nerve within the South Florida circuit. Rock-N-Roll was in Ray's bones and his desire to stay involved with music broadened when he met Maria Serritella, and Out of the Ashes was born.

María Serritella

American born María Serritella began her singing journey in her school's chorus ensemble at an early age. She later performed in musical theater & then sang backing vocals for her local church choir. This would be the start of María's career helping her create a solid foundation as an experienced singer & stage performer.

Her influences are Pat Benatar, Joan Jett, Stevie Nicks, Ronnie James Dio, David Coverdale & Steve Perry. As an adult, she sang backing vocals for an Elton John tribute band & then formed a Pat Benatar tribute band... Ultimately, she teamed up with Ray Anton to form Out Of The Ashes.
