BIOGRAPHY

Nicknamed “Every girl’s best friend,” Brittany White uses a unique brand of faith, funny and down to earth realness to show women that you can have it all without having to sacrifice your family, faith or career. Brittany is the founder of Saved Girl Summer LLC., a movement that is quickly redefining what it means to be a woman in ministry.

A true believer that “a cheerful heart is good medicine” (Proverbs 17:22), Brittany has brought joy to thousands of viewers through her unique and humorous content. Her gifts have allowed her to interact with some of the most prominent leaders in today’s modern Faith based community, including Pastor Sarah Jakes Roberts. Pastor Sarah has a dedicated following of over five million followers and subscribers across her social media platforms and is the founder of “Woman Evolve.” Brittany appeared as a guest on her wildly popular “Woman Evolve Podcast” in the episode titled “Saved Girl SZN” where they discussed everything from “club Walmart” to how not to give up on your dreams. As a host of the “Saved Girl Sessions” Podcast, Brittany has also had the honor of interviewing several influential women, including multi-award-winning on-air talent, Gia Peppers, who was recently named to Ebony Magazine’s “Power 100” list.

A self-proclaimed “Holy Hot Girl,” Brittany’s vision to bridge the gap between “the Kingdom and the Culture” is demonstrated in her ability to combine ministry with hip-hop and pop culture. Whether through her funny videos or her inspirational messages, she seeks to inspire a new generation of women to follow their dreams without losing their faith. As a content creator, she writes, acts in, and edits her own original content which is often liked and reshared by her followers across social media channels. She has also hosted several sold-out events for her “Saved Girl Summer” brand and has been featured as the keynote speaker for these events as well as others.
