

Join our Forcrete professional training

26-30 October 2026 | Cookstown, Co. Tyrone

£1,700 + VAT | £500 non-refundable booking deposit

An immersive, five-day course at Custom Finishes Ireland, designed to teach you how to prepare, apply and finish Forcrete microcement with confidence and precision.

Led by our training team in Cookstown, you'll work directly with the materials, tools and techniques used in high-end residential and commercial projects. From sample boards to a full shower and floor installation, you'll gain practical experience and the knowledge to take the next step towards becoming an approved Forcrete installer.

Hands-on from start to finish

Learn the application process from preparation to the finished surface, including a full shower installation and floor area of up to 15m² in total.

- Complete system overview: primers, base coats, finish coats and sealers
- Application training for floors, walls and wet areas
- Micro-Quartz Course, Medium, Smooth and Trowel X Floor
- New Micro-Stone and Micro-Granite finishes
- Practical problem solving; estimating, pricing and marketing guidance
- Starter Forcrete sample pack including all finishes
- Take home the sample boards you work on during the course
- Access to installer-only pricing and ongoing product support

Who it's for

Plasterers, painters, decorative finishers, bathroom and tile installers, renovation contractors and builders.

Interior designers: send your installer to learn the Forcrete systems for your projects. We also connect designers with approved installers who can provide a trusted referral source.

Your training week

Lunch, refreshments and snacks are included throughout the five days at our Cookstown facility. Local accommodation recommendations are available.

Common questions

Do I need experience before training?

No previous microcement experience is needed. We start with the basics. If you can prepare a surface and work with your hands, you're ready to learn.

Will I be ready after five days?

You'll learn standard applications and understand which jobs to take on, and where further practice or technical advice is needed.

I'm a designer - how does this work?

Send your installer to train in the Forcrete systems. We can also connect you with approved installers for your projects.

What happens after training?

Following approval of completed projects, you'll join the Forcrete installer map, with installer-only pricing and ongoing support. We provide installer contacts to designers and homeowners.
