

Jaime Henshaw Morris was raised in Greene County and graduated from William Monroe High School. She attended the University of Virginia where she received a Bachelor of Arts in English with a minor in history. Upon graduating from UVA, Jaime moved to Richmond, Virginia, to attend the University of Richmond Law School, where she earned her Juris Doctor degree in 2004. She returned home that same year and assists her husband with running Fox Hill Farm, which specializes in agricultural and excavation services.

Jaime worked for LexisNexis for 17+ years, where she focused on legislative analysis and lead projects as well as editorial teams. Jaime's work experience includes regular evaluation and analysis of changes to state law while working to quickly and accurately deliver updates to customers for use in legal practice and government settings. Running for Circuit Court Clerk is the realization of a childhood dream—a dream to learn more about and actively contribute to our legal system while also giving back to our Greene County community.
