

Art Etcetera Magazine

Editorial

Hi there,

Firstly, as the Editor, I'd like to thank you most sincerely for considering Art Etcetera as a platform for which to publicise your works/merchandise/gallery; as an independent publication, such interest means a great deal.

The reviews are scribed by me personally, and as a lifelong writer; currently responsible for articulating over 14,000 words a month that pertain to all things artistic; you can expect nothing less than a glowing review of your artwork, merchandise, or gallery.

Should you decide to go ahead, your review will be published on the high-grade paper that we use for our printed magazines and within the innovative pages of the digital version of our publication. It will then subsequently be distributed to our many subscribers and stockists, which are increasing considerably in number with each passing month (more on our current readership and distribution can be found online).

Once published you will also be presented with a handwritten letter, along with a free copy of the magazine, to certify the publication of your works/merchandise/gallery/ as having been reviewed by Art Etcetera Magazine (Etcetera Publishing House Ltd.).

Should you choose to proceed:

We aim to cater to your needs and branding style as best we can and present your work/gallery/merchandise in the highest quality standard. I personally recommend having a spread within the magazine, as this not only allows for additional images and text but enables readers to engross themselves in a truly visual experience of your work across 2 pages.

Please enquire for our current advertisement rates.

Looking forward to hearing from you.

Kindest regards,

Jordan Brinkworth
