Dear Hunter Cole,

On behalf of the State of Montana, I write today to thank you for answering the call to assist southern California as they face the impacts of historic wildfires. Thank you for your willingness to leave your home, your family, and your community to help others in need. Your commitment to serve is a testament to the character, grit, and compassion that define the people of our great state.

Here in Montana, we understand the devastating impacts of wildfire. And, we know the critical role our skilled firefighters have in defending lives, homes, and landscapes. Knowing you took that same determination and expertise to California to support their efforts fills all of us with pride and gratitude.

Montana has always been a state where neighbors help neighbors, and in this case, you extended that sense of community beyond state lines. Your work not only brought relief to those impacted by the fires but also showcased Montana's unwavering spirit of service and resilience.

We are proud of you and grateful for the courage and commitment you've shown. Thank you for representing Montana well and for reminding us of the strength and generosity that define our state.

Know that Susan and I are keeping you in our thoughts and prayers as you continue your work in our Montana communities. Thank you and please don't hesitate to reach out to me for anything. My door is always open.

Sincerely,

Greg Gianforte
