

Terms and Conditions of Research Reports

Girish Singal adheres to strict guidelines in the preparation and dissemination of research reports. These terms and conditions are designed to ensure the reliability and transparency of the information provided to clients:

Due Diligence

Mr. Girish Singal exercises due diligence in verifying the correctness and authenticity of the information contained in his reports, particularly concerning current and historical data. However, he does not guarantee absolute accuracy or completeness.

Dynamic Opinions

The opinions expressed in the reports are based on current research as of the date of publication. These views may be subject to change without notice as new information becomes available or market conditions shift.

Liability Limitations

Girish Singal does not accept liability arising from the use of his documents or the information contained therein. Recipients are advised to rely on their own judgment and seek professional advice before acting on the information provided.

Disclaimer

Mr. Girish Singal shall not be held responsible for any loss or damage that may arise from inadvertent errors in the information, views, or opinions expressed in his publications.