Experience

Steve has over 25 years of tax consulting and advisory experience serving clients in a variety of industries, but primarily focused on manufacturing and distribution, professional services, technology, insurance, real estate, private equity, and healthcare. Steve provides complex tax consulting, tax structuring, and IRS and state audit and controversy services to all types of taxpayers, ranging from large public corporations to small business and individuals. Steve's client service responsibilities are focused on business and transaction planning, IRS and state audit and appeal consultation, and tax planning services for C-corporations, S-corporations, LLC/partnerships, trusts and estates, and individuals.

Steve joined Urish Popeck from a regional firm where he was Director of Tax in charge of tax consulting and the tax compliance function. His prior public accounting experience included positions with Big Four firms Ernst & Young and Deloitte.

Steve has extensive multi-state tax experience with clients with tax accounting and revenue recognition issues. Steve is also a practice leader on the tax implications of tax reform on pass-through entities, the new §199A deduction, Employee Retention Credit consultation, and choice of entity considerations.
