

Music artists are typically exploited by record labels and barely paid by streaming services. Why not support the artists and enable them to own a part of the label and streaming service in a transparent way? Introducing GP RECORDS, an innovative record label and streaming platform that leverages the latest technology to distribute both music and shares of the company to the artists who make it.

Blockchain-Powered Transparency - GP Records pioneers transparent stock ownership through blockchain technology, offering artists a direct share in our success for unparalleled fairness and accountability.

Revolutionary Streaming Experience - Our innovative free-to-download streaming platform, supported by visual advertisements, redefines the traditional music distribution model. This approach not only enhances music accessibility but also generates revenue streams benefiting both artists and the label, challenging the standard subscription-based model.

Diverse Revenue Opportunities - Expanding the streaming platform's functionality, GP Records allows artists to sell merchandise, concert tickets, unique NFTs, and personalized video services—a comprehensive ecosystem designed to boost overall income.

Focus on Artist Development and Empowerment - Committed to nurturing talent, GP Records provides consultations, workshops, sound engineering, A&R, and marketing services, empowering artists to thrive in their creative journeys.

Non-Predatory Practices - In stark contrast to industry norms, GP Records prioritizes transparent stock options, fair contracts, and artist development, ensuring the well-being and success of our artists.

Enhanced Community Building and Fan Engagement - We actively foster artist-fan connections with support for social media management, personalized video services, and community networking, resulting in deeper engagement and unwavering loyalty.

Innovative Music Business Model - GP Records marries technology, fairness, and creative entrepreneurship, setting a new standard that benefits all stakeholders in the music industry. But that's not all – GP Records goes above and beyond by offering artists the opportunity to establish their own labels within our framework.

Our founder, Dennis McClung, brings a unique skill set with a strong technical background and extensive business experience.
