Connect

When children get consistent, undivided parent attention — even for a few minutes each day — their sense of connection is fulfilled. This feeling of security and warmth in the relationship reduces the need for kids to act out or misbehave to get your attention or seek connection.

What does your child want to do with you for 3-5 minutes today?

Here are a few ideas... what other ideas do you have?

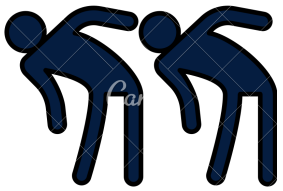

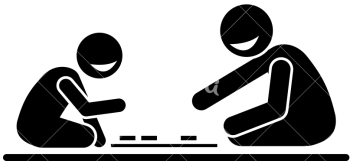

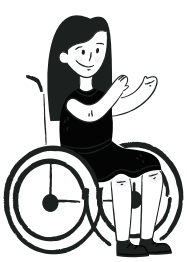

© Blooming Abilities. All Rights Reserved.