

Helpfulness Above All™

In more detail.

By all verifiable evidence, everyone appears to ALREADY intuitively help themselves by far the most, overall, by simply helping other people the most they emotionally feel they can, at work and otherwise. And if you think you do that but other people don't: That appears to me to be a core selfishness that greatly divides the world. For what verifiable evidence supports such thinking? - Given the subjective nature of people's emotional capacity, and especially that of "selfish" people? - Including yours in thinking that? And MINE in calling YOU selfish in thinking that?! Thus, "helpful" and "selfish" are subjective. Which is why I provide a Free Online Guide to work out mutually helpful solutions through The Smartest Dialogs Possible. Because WE ALL need THE MOST HELP POSSIBLE in to BUILD the MOST STABLE, TRUSTWORTHY ECONOMY POSSIBLE, to AFFORD to SOLVE ALL PROBLEMS - shaky jobs & incomes, war, poverty, ignorance, etc. - INFINITELY BETTER THAN WE DO NOW. Am I wrong?
