

Hey. I'm Tim Mossman. Old entitled white guy.

Borne from a long line of the same.

Yeah, it's mostly guys like me who let billionaires screw up the world."

That's why for a few years I've been trying to develop a little "save the world project." So I might eventually earn my way into having a little shack in heaven
some day.

I told my elderly Dad about it, back when he was alive.
And he said "Good! We need to save the world! From Obama!"

That was my Dad. God Bless Fox News.

He was actually an amazing man. Helped build the Austin economy a number of amazing ways starting back in the 60s and into this century, contributing positively to thousands of peoples' lives.

In his retirement he labored long and hard to help the poor, building homes with Habitat for humanity. Spent summers repairing the roofs and floors of the Appalachian poor living in rundown shacks.
He introduced me to a poor elderly, but very appreciative couple who had an adult mentally disabled son. Nice man. Then describe what his son did.

I wasn't political until Trump came on the scene.
I thought, well, what a "breath of fresh air."

More to come!
