

So, MEDIA, you biggest ...

... who have profiteered $ BILLIONS $ from helping people spew highly toxic "squeaky wheel" attention-getting benzenelike doubt-in-representative democracy language that greatly poisons helpfulness in the world that ultimately greatly undermine your own interests in having the most robust world economy possible, NOT from your intention to, but in the course of your greater work of being helpful to the world and profiting from that:

I respectfully request that just beneath

Helpfulness Above All™

tiny, at the top left of your screens, to help maximize EVERYONE'S peace and prosperity, along with YOUR OWN, you put something like

We sincerely apologize for our content or ads that seem more selfish than not. Make your case to Helpfulnessaboveall.org or any established nonprofit independent fact-checking firm, and if they concur, we will block that and dedicate that income to repair the damage as prominently as it appeared on our platform(s).

In other words, you be the superhero. And since the biggest of you you are a few of the richest and now AI-smartest companies in the world, why don't you prove that by applying those smarts to this problem and committing to the above?

Again I propose that is one of by far the most self-helpful, profitable things you can do.

Again, see my Free Online Guide™, link below, for verifiable evidence supporting the above.
