

So, MEDIA, you biggest ...

... have profited $ BILLIONS $ from helping people spew highly toxic disproportionately "squeaky wheel" attention-getting benzenelike language that greatly poisons helpfulness in the world, in political, commercial, and other ways. – NOT from your intention to, but in the course of your greater work of being helpful to the world.

So I respectfully request that just beneath

Helpfulness Above All™

tiny, at the top left of your screens, to help maximize EVERYONE'S peace and prosperity, along with YOUR OWN, you put something like

We sincerely apologize for any of our content or ads that seem more selfish than not. Make your case to Helpfulnessaboveall.org, and if they concur, we will block that and dedicate that income to repair the damage.

In other words, you be the superhero. And since the biggest of you you are a few of the richest and now AI-smartest companies in the world, why don't you prove that by applying those smarts to this problem and committing to the above?

Again I propose that is one of by far the most profitable things you can do.

Details for all of this are in my free online guide, below.
