

CERCIUS

INSIGHTS

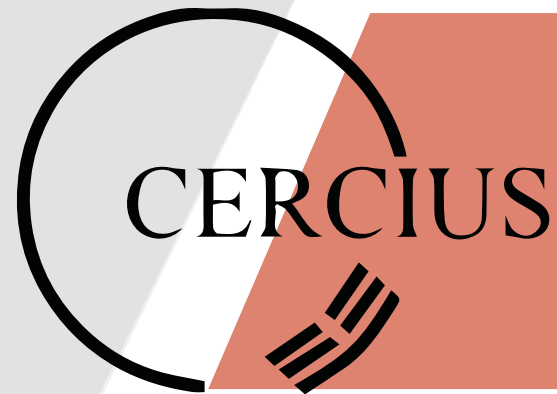

February 2020

Cercius Group - Insights

Notes:

1. Cercius Insights is a monthly professional journal published by Cercius group ltd. Cercius Insights focuses on short studies emphasizing recent political events, and the interrelationship between political and economic processes and factors that influence political, economic, and social outcomes in Mainland China.
2. The journal is based on original research and contains mainly unpublished work. On occasion, thematic special issue might be offered in addition to the regular subscription.
3. The content of all published articles in Cercius Insights reflect the views of Cercius Group Ltd and not that of any of its clients or affiliates.
4. The journal does not accept external manuscripts.
5. Cercius Insights is a subscription based journal. Copyrights of all articles are retained by Cercius Group Ltd, and any third party wishing to cite or quote parts of any articles must obtain a licence from Cercius Group Ltd. The licence does not, however, allows for copying, sharing, redistributing parts of any article. For citation purposes, citation details, and publisher must be identified. The licensor can revoke these rights if terms fail to be respected. In citing articles, the users must give appropriate credit, and provide link to Cercius Group Ltd's website. The user may do so in any reasonable manner, but not in any way that suggest the licensor endorses the user or the use. If the user of Cercius Insights transforms, or builds upon articles or parts of articles, the modified article may not be distributed. This disclaimer may not give the user all permissions necessary for the intended use, as, for example, other rights such as publicity, privacy, or moral rights may limit how the article can be used.
6. Users must obtain additional permission to reproduce any and all other materials owned by Cercius Group Ltd, including tables, charts, diagrams and maps.

Please visit Cercius Group Ltd homepage at
<https://www.cerciusgroup.com>
Editorial communication should be sent to:
The Editor, Cercius Insights
E-mail: info@cerciusgroup.com

CONTENT

CAN THE “ZHEJIANG CLIQUE” PUT OUT ALL THE FIRES?	2
The arrival of Ying Yong and Chen Yixin at ground zero	2
The “shunning” of Jiang Chaoliang	2
The Zhejiang Clique as a governing tool	3
What to make of Wang Zhonglin?	4
Battlefield Hubei	5
Taking back the Hong Kong Affairs system: the arrival of Xia Baolong	7
A last-minute addition to the Zhejiang Clique: the background of Xia Baolong	7
Reclaiming the communication channels while following the “rules”	8
POLITICS AND THE PARTY-STATE	10
Tossing aside another of Hu Chunhua’s mishu?	10
Zou Ming’s background	10
The wrong “ bole ”?	11
A delicate situation and the potential for self-sabotage	12
A very “promising” Two Sessions	12
More meetings, more problems?	13
A delicate situation with a twist	14
Closing ranks in Shanghai	16
The mishu from Guizhou	16
A member of Shanghai’s “Gang of three”	17
Ideas and allies: the imminent return of Xu?	18
ECONOMICS, FINANCE, AND MISCELLANEOUS	20
Overview	20
Supply chain shocks – from China then back to China	21
The domestic economy – what will emerge from the ashes?	23
A financial landmine – the reemergence of shadow banking?	27

CERCICIUS

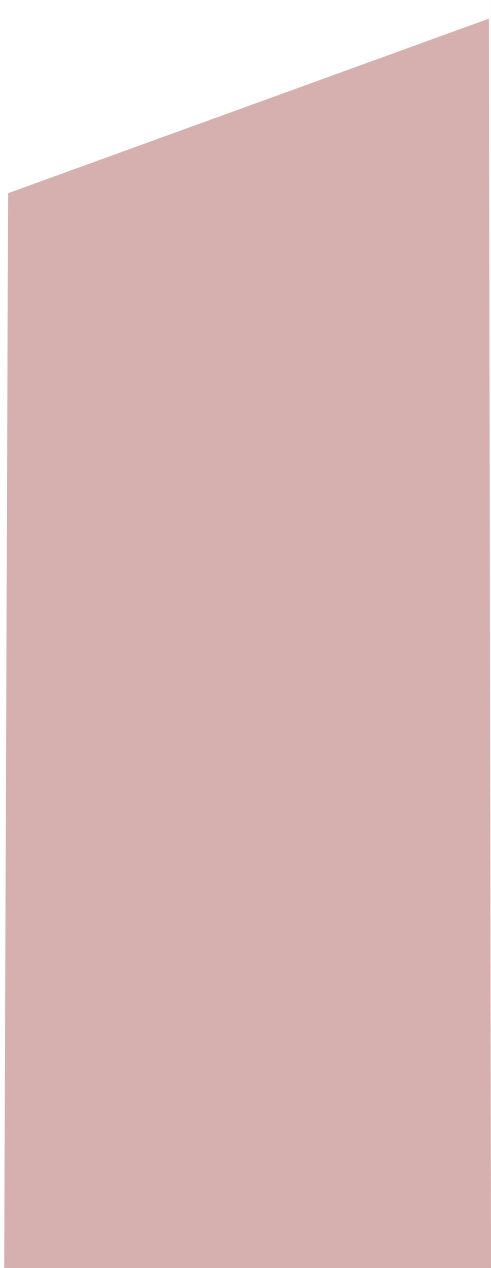

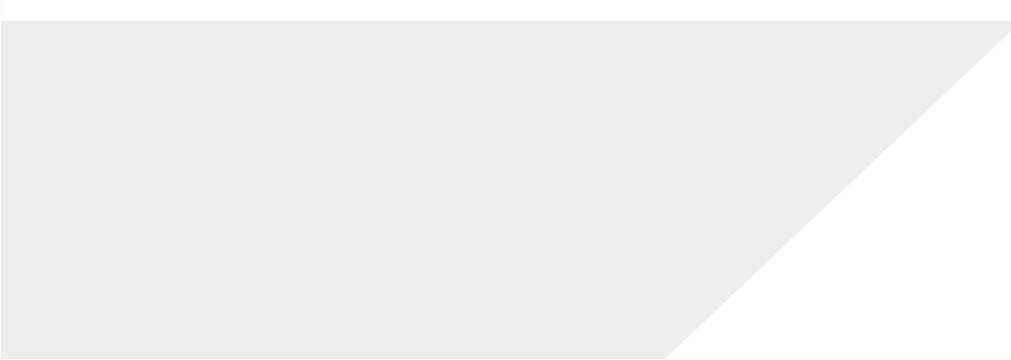

Cercius Insights
February 2020

Structural weakness: how the coronavirus is testing the Party's resolve

Cercius Insights is produced and directed by Cercius Group
Ltd

© Cercius Group Ltd
All rights reserved

Contact us
info@cerciusgroup.com
@CerciusL
<https://www.cerciusgroup.com>

Disclaimer

Cercius Insights was prepared by Cercius Group Limited (“Cercius”), appointed by the “Authorised Recipients”. The information contained herein does not constitute a guarantee or warranty by Cercius, its subsidiaries, branches or affiliates of future performance or an assurance against risk.

This report is based on information available at the time of writing collected within limited time constraints. To the extent information provided in this report is based on a review of publicly-available records, such information, as presented, relies upon the accuracy and completeness of those records, which may not have been corroborated by Cercius. Statements herein concerning financial, political, regulatory or legal matters should be understood to be general observations based solely on Cercius’ experience as risk consultants and may not be relied upon as financial, regulatory or legal advice, which Cercius is not authorised to provide. All such matters should be reviewed with appropriately qualified advisors.

The Authorised Recipients agree that this report and any other information received from Cercius, including this report, are strictly confidential. Any communication, publication, disclosure, dissemination or reproduction of this report or any portion of its contents to third parties without the advance written consent of Cercius is not authorised. Cercius assumes no direct, indirect or consequential liability to any third party or any other person who is not the intended addressee of this report for the information contained herein, its interpretation or applications, or for omissions, or for reliance by any such third party or other person thereon.

Any observations included in the report are subject to change as new information becomes available or accessible. This report does not constitute a recommendation, endorsement, opinion or approval of any kind with respect to any transaction, decision or evaluation, and should not be relied upon or disclosed as such under any circumstances.

Reports provided by Cercius may contain links, hyperlinks or point to websites which are not maintained by Cercius (third party websites). Links to third party websites are only provided for your convenience and their presence does not imply that Cercius endorses these third party websites or has reviewed or verified any information or content contained therein. Cercius cannot guarantee that these sites will be accessible or available and you should expect them to change over time. We have no control over and are not responsible for the availability, information, materials, products or services, contained or accessible through such third party websites and accept no liability howsoever arising in respect of any such third party websites. If you decide to access a third party website, then you do so entirely at your own risk.