From Struggle to Strength

“I used to rely on others to survive. Now, I run my own business and help other women in my community.”

— Milka Dan, Kanyapir CHEC Member

Milka is one of hundreds of women who joined a Community Health & Empowerment Club (CHEC) — and changed her life.

Thanks to donor support, she received health training, financial literacy, and seed capital to launch a tree farming business.

This is what village adoption makes possible.

Problem Identification – Why Villages Need Our Support

-  Communities face complex challenges, including:
  -  Poor Health Outcomes – Limited access to health education
  -  Economic Hardships – Lack of financial literacy & sustainable income opportunities
  -  Social Inequities – Barriers to leadership, especially for women
  -  Traditional approaches often fail to create community driven, lasting change

 Traditional aid offers temporary relief. CHECs build permanent resilience.

Our Solution – Adopt-a-Village

How We Create Lasting Change

When you adopt a village, you're funding real change — rooted in a model that works. Each adopted village becomes a self-sustaining community — healthier, wealthier, and more empowered.

What is a CHEC?

A CHEC (Community Health & Empowerment Club) is a community-led program that teaches, trains, and transforms.

CHEC Lifecycle:

- 🏁 Start – 24-week health curriculum
- 👛 Build – Economic training + income-generating projects
- 🏆 Lead – Leadership & sustainability

CHECs address all three pillars of well-being: health, economic opportunity, and social empowerment — and they thrive long after GHC steps back.

Real Impact: By the Numbers

In villages with active CHECs:

95% of families adopt new health behaviors

85% of members start a new income-generating activity

70% of leadership roles held by women

100% of CHECs sustained 2+ years after launch

Measurable. Local. Lasting.

Why It Matters

When you adopt a village, you help create a ripple effect of change:

- Health knowledge becomes real behavior change.
- Income projects fuel independence.
- Leadership training turns villagers into changemakers

“We now understand that health and money go together. We have a say in our futures.”

— Agnes Moraa, CHEC Member
