Empowering Communities Through Equitable
Access to Funding

AMAYA HOWARD, FOUNDER & PRINCIPAL CONSULTANT

About the Founder, Amaya Howard, MPA

Amaya combines over a decade of expertise as a grant writer, fundraiser, and capacity builder to empower nonprofit organizations globally. She has raised over $75 million in funding since 2014.

Based in Philadelphia, PA, Amaya is deeply committed to advancing racial equity and securing resources for Black-led and marginalized organizations. Her journey in public service began with a degree in Political Science from the University of North Texas, followed by a Master's in Public Administration focusing on Nonprofit Management.

Amaya's comprehensive skill set spans grant writing, donor cultivation, and strategic fundraising, enabling her to craft long-term funding plans that resonate with diverse donors and stakeholders. Her work includes supporting nonprofits from grassroots organizations to established institutions, with a particular focus on initiatives that foster educational equity, social justice, and economic opportunity.

The Why

Mission: To support mission-driven organizations, especially those led by Black and Brown communities, in securing the funding they need to create lasting impact.

Vision: A world where all organizations, regardless of background, have equitable access to resources that drive sustainable growth.

Problem Statement

The Challenge: Many nonprofits and small businesses, particularly those led by Black and Brown communities, face systemic barriers to accessing funding.

The Impact: These organizations often lack the resources and support needed to effectively compete for grants, leading to underfunded programs and missed opportunities for community impact.
