

This Woman's Work

November 2023

Limited to 50 Signed Copies

Welcome to Pop Nouveau Gallery's Exhibition 'This Woman's Work'

The exhibition is assembled with selected works from Kate Bush, comprising of Original Artwork, Limited Edition Signed Prints, Original Production Artwork for albums singles & promotions; Original proof artwork, Posters and Vinyl.

One of the key elements in her career has been longevity. That and sheer quality of musicianship have helped her write her name into the music history books.

At Pop Nouveau Gallery we believe that the artwork used to create the covers and promotional displays are as important culturally as the music itself.

Many artists are easily identified through their iconic covers. The artistry of various Kate Bush album covers and the iconic imagery have produced great creativity, time and time again. The Exhibition will include the Whole Story Original Production Artwork displayed for the first time in full.

POP NOUVEAU GALLERY HAS 6 ROOMS

Our visitors, both online and in person, increases on a daily basis and we are looking forward to more people joining us to view and potentially own some of the most iconic pieces of art in music history.

Because the gallery's main focus is cover-artwork for albums, singles and promotional media, we take on very few independent artists.

Two of the artists whose work is prominent, however, are:-

Joe Hope

A prolific and multi talented artist from the North East.

The Gallery has purchased 5 pieces of his work already and have just started to offer limited edition prints of these.

As Joe's work has been predominantly 3-D for the gallery this was carefully considered and executed to produce unique museum quality 2 dimensional prints.

Stormy Picasso

Who has become the Gallery's lead in sales. From re-imagined album sleeves to rehashes of the work of V Festival artist James Wilkinson.

These collaborations have produced a new direction for both artists and the gallery. Each exhibition contains at least one mash-up signature piece.

The gallery continues its collaboration with famebureau.co.uk. The collection of historic musical art is second to none and we dig into the archives for each exhibition. As a result we are able to schedule monthly exhibitions at least 6 months to a year ahead.

We welcome feedback from our visitors and so far we have a 100% success rate in the feedback left for us. Because we could not possibly show the vast archive all at once, we encourage visitors both here and online to let us know their interest and be the first to see any relevant items as we find them.

The 2nd part of the proofs has the back cover with the proof for the printed CD on the same sheet measuring approx 24x18 inches Original Proof artwork is extremely rare, it is generated from the Original Production artwork that is sent to the Printer.

Normally only a handful, if that, were produced for inspection and approval by the artist, management and/or record company. As a result most of them were thrown away after approval. Some proofs were rejected and never used, these are the true rarities

The shots by Brian Griffin were requested by Kate Bush after she had seen the cover of Depeche Mode's Broken Frame album cover.

Taken in 1983 after the previous year's release of The Dreaming, there is every chance that new songs for The Hounds of Love may have been on Kate's mind when she had this photoshoot taken.

They are beautiful evocative photographs and Pop Nouveau Gallery is proud to offer them for sale.
