Improvement of the quality of life for individuals and families through enhancement of their economic and social well-being. The well-being of American families is essential to national strength, since the values that underlie national stability are forged by families. Families can be strengthened by providing them with research-based knowledge that can be applied to such areas as provision of food, clothing, shelter and emotional support. Programs include 4-H, Extension Homemakers, Family Nutrition Programs, agricultural, and many educational programs in food, family, money, and health.
