My Blue's Journey

My journey with the blues began in the heart of the South, where the soulful melodies first took root. As I traveled, I was constantly drawn to the rhythm and emotion of blues music, always seeking out performances and creating art that captured its essence. At the age of 18,

I embarked on an adventure that took me to Europe for four years, followed by two years in the vibrant streets of New York City, and then onto the sunny shores of California for five years. Throughout my travels, I attended countless music shows, engaged in conversations with my blues heroes, and immersed myself in the world of blues.

But above all, I never stopped creating art that celebrated and preserved the legacy of these influential artists.

Contemporary Representation

The selection includes musicians from the golden period of the blues, mostly the 1920's through to the 1970's.
