To Whom It May Concern,

I'm writing you today to strongly recommend Gloria Nunez for a position within your organization.

Gloria owned and operated the daycare where my daughter attended, from the time she was three months old in 2016 until she entered kindergarten in September 2021.

Gloria is a consummate professional. In the five years my daughter attended the daycare, Gloria's work ethic and dedication to the job at hand were exemplary. As a medical office manager who oversees a staff of a half-dozen, I can tell you I'd personally want her on my team. Gloria never called out sick once. She is extremely reliable, and my husband and I always trusted our daughter was safe and taken care of in Gloria's hands.

Moreover, Gloria treated the kids in the daycare as though they were her own family. She engaged them in art and science projects, read to them, and taught them language and math skills. She often took the kids on excursions around the neighborhood and played in parks on a daily basis. This wasn't something she necessarily had to do, but that underscores my point: She always went above and beyond what was expected of her.

The daycare shut down for a brief period in 2020 due to the COVID-19 pandemic. When the daycare reopened, Gloria and her staff took every measure and precaution to ensure the safety of the children and staff and immediately put all mandated protocols in place as required for licensed daycare facilities. They implemented stringent cleaning protocols, rearranged the space to encourage social distancing, and mandated mask wearing (as age appropriate).

It is my personal opinion that Gloria Nunez is well-suited for this position and your organization would benefit tremendously from her addition to your team. Please feel free to contact me if you have any additional questions.

Sincerely,

Lisa LaTragna
