

Winter 2019 Update

Good News! Hemp-derived CBD is no longer a controlled substance under federal law! AND You Will Love Our New Higher Potency CBD Pain Salves & CBD Oils and New Year Specials!

As a consequence of the 2018 Farm Bill, hemp is now permanently removed from the Controlled Substances Act (CSA). It is now deemed an agricultural commodity, no longer able to be classified as a controlled substance, like marijuana. However, as a side note, this is causing an onslaught of new CBD companies popping up from those looking for a quick way to make money. As a precaution please be aware of inferior quality low cost gimmick oils.

Scientists, even FDA's own, have concluded that CBD is safe as an ingestible product.

Current scientific research confirms that hemp-derived CBD is safe in food, supplements, and beverages and has provided general health and wellness benefits to millions of Americans. Because hemp contains only a minute trace amounts of tetrahydrocannabinol (THC), the psychoactive component of cannabis, hemp-derived CBD products are non-psychoactive and do not cause a “high” in users. Further, hemp-derived CBD does not have the potential for abuse or addiction. (Portions of the above have been excerpted from January 22, 2019 U.S. Hemp Roundtable Newsletter.)
