File Format

Optimal quality is acheived using vector based desktop publishing programs such as Adobe Illustrator, or InDesign. Files should be saved in the programs native format, such as .ai or .indd. Fonts should be provided, or saved as outlines (single stroke). It is best for InDesign files to scale at no less than 50% of output size.

Hi-res CT image components (photos, scans, image captures), should be included and linked to the layout. CT components should be captured and saved as high-res images. Image formats such as .tiff or .raw is best. The .jpeg format can be used, but may compromise the image quality.

Folder compression formats such as .zip are welcome.

If the file size(s) total less than 20mb, they can be sent attached to a regular email. This is typical with files that contain only vector components.
