Such a course of action is not likely to be repeated in future, i.e., they are for non-recurring situations. The duration of this plan may depend upon the type of the project. It may span a week or a month. A project may sometimes be of only one day, such as organising an event or seminar or conference. Mr Ankush is appointed to plan the fashion show, which is a one-time event. Hence the type of plan is a standing plan. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> - Standing Plan: A standing plan is used for activities that occur regularly over a period of time. It is designed to ensure that the internal operations of an organisation run smoothly. Such a plan greatly enhances efficiency in routine decision-making. It is usually developed once but is modified from time to time to meet business needs as required. Mrs Shwetha is appointed to come out with a plan which will improve the efficiency of production. The activity of production is recurring in nature hence the type of plan is a standing plan.	4

Q.28	- Recommendations of Employees: Applicants introduced by present employees, or their friends and relatives may prove to be a good source of recruitment. Such applicants are likely to be good employees because their background is sufficiently known. A type of preliminary screening takes place because the present employees know both the company and the candidates and they would try to satisfy both. - Campus Recruitment: Colleges and institutes of management and technology have become a popular source of recruitment for technical, professional and managerial jobs. Many big organisations maintain a close liaison with universities, vocational schools and management institutes to recruit qualified personnel for various jobs. Recruitment from educational institutions is a well-established practice of businesses. This is referred to as campus recruitment (Each point carries 2 marks)	4
Q.29	- Objectives: The first step in planning is setting objectives. Objectives are the desired future position of the business. They are basic to the organisation and they are defined as ends that the management seeks to achieve through its operations. Therefore, an objective simply stated is what you would like to achieve, i.e., the end result of activities. - Strategy: A strategy provides the broad contours of an organisation's business. It will also refer to future decisions defining the organisation's direction and scope in the long run. Thus, we can say a strategy is a comprehensive plan for accomplishing an organisation's objectives. - Policy: Policies are general statements that guide thinking or channelise energies towards a particular direction. Policies provide a basis for interpreting strategy which is usually stated in general terms They are guides to managerial action and decisions in the implementation of the strategy. - Rule: Rules are specific statements that inform what is to be done. They do not allow for any flexibility or discretion. It reflects a managerial decision that a certain action must or must not be taken. Choose only from legal goods and services and discourage unscrupulous practices like black-marketing, hoarding, etc. - Ask for a cash memo on the purchase of goods or services. This would serve as proof of the purchase made.	6

	-File a complaint in an appropriate consumer forum in case of a shortcoming in the quality of goods purchased or services availed. Do not fail to take an action even when the amount involved is small. -Form consumer societies which would play an active part in educating consumers and safeguarding their interests. -Respect the environment. Avoid waste, littering and contributing to pollution. (any 6 points to be evaluated)
Q.32	- Setting performance standards - The first step in the controlling process is setting up performance standards. Standards are the criteria against which actual performance would be measured. Thus, standards serve as benchmarks towards which an organisation strives to work. In the given case, Mr Anshul had set the performance standard as the production of 200 units of goods in a month's time - Measurement of Actual Performance: Once performance standards are set, the next step is a measurement of actual performance. Performance should be measured in an objective and reliable manner. There are several techniques for the measurement of performance. These include personal observation, sample checking, performance reports, etc. In the given case, Mr Anshul had requested the final count of the goods produced during the month to compare the actual performance with the standard. - Comparing Actual Performance with Standards: This step involves a comparison of actual performance with the standard. Such comparison will reveal the deviation between actual and desired results. In the given case, Mr Anshul had compared the actual production of 140 units with the target of 200 units - Analysing Deviations: Some deviation in performance can be expected in all activities. It is, therefore, important to determine the acceptable range of deviations and the reason for such deviations. In the given case, Mr Anshul had inquired the factory supervisor about the reason for the low production who revealed the reason to be faulty machinery.	6

	- Taking Corrective Action: The final step in the controlling process is taking corrective action. No corrective action is required when the deviations are within acceptable limits. However, when the deviations go beyond the acceptable range, especially in important areas, it demands immediate managerial attention so that deviations do not occur again and standards are accomplished. In the given case, Mr Anshul had requested the replacement of the faulty machinery as a corrective action.
OR	- Basic Physiological Needs: These needs are most basic in the hierarchy and corresponds to primary needs. Hunger, thirst, shelter, and sleep are some examples of these needs. In the organisational context, basic salary helps to satisfy these needs. - Safety/Security Needs: These needs provide security and protection from physical and emotional harm. Examples: job security, stability of income, Pension plans etc., - Affiliation/Belonging Needs: These needs refer to affection, sense of belongingness, acceptance and friendship. - Esteem Needs: These include factors such as self-respect, autonomy status, recognition and attention. - Self Actualisation Needs: It is the highest level of need in the hierarchy. It refers to the drive to become what one is capable of becoming. These needs include growth, self-fulfillment and achievement of goals	6
Q.33	- Cost: The cost of raising funds through different sources are different. A prudent financial manager would normally opt for a source which is the cheapest. - Risk: The risk associated with each of the sources is different. - Floatation Costs: Higher the floatation cost, the less attractive the source - Cash Flow Position of the Company: A stronger cash flow position may make debt financing more viable than funding through equity. - Fixed Operating Costs: If a business has high fixed operating costs (e.g., building rent, Insurance premium, Salaries, etc.), It must reduce fixed financing	6

	costs. Hence, lower debt financing is better. Similarly, if fixed operating cost is less, more debt financing may be preferred. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> - Control Considerations: Issues of more equity may lead to dilution of management's control over the business. Debt financing has no such implication. Companies afraid of a takeover bid would prefer debt to equity. - State of Capital Market: Health of the capital market may also affect the choice of source of funds. During the period when the stock market is rising, more people invest in equity. However, a depressed capital market may make an issue of equity shares difficult for any company.
Q.34	Businesses must lay emphasis on protecting the consumers and adequately satisfying them. This is important because of the following reasons: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> -Satisfied customers lead to repeating sales and provide good feedback to prospective customers and thus, help in increasing the customer base of business. -Business organisations use resources which belong to society. They, thus, have a responsibility to supply such products and render such services which are in the public interest. -Consumers form an important group among the many stakeholders of the business and like other stakeholders, their interest has to be well taken care of. -It is the moral duty of any business to take care of consumers' interests and avoid any form of their exploitation. -A business engaging in any form of exploitative trade practices would invite government intervention or action. 	6
