

I'm not robot  reCAPTCHA

Continue

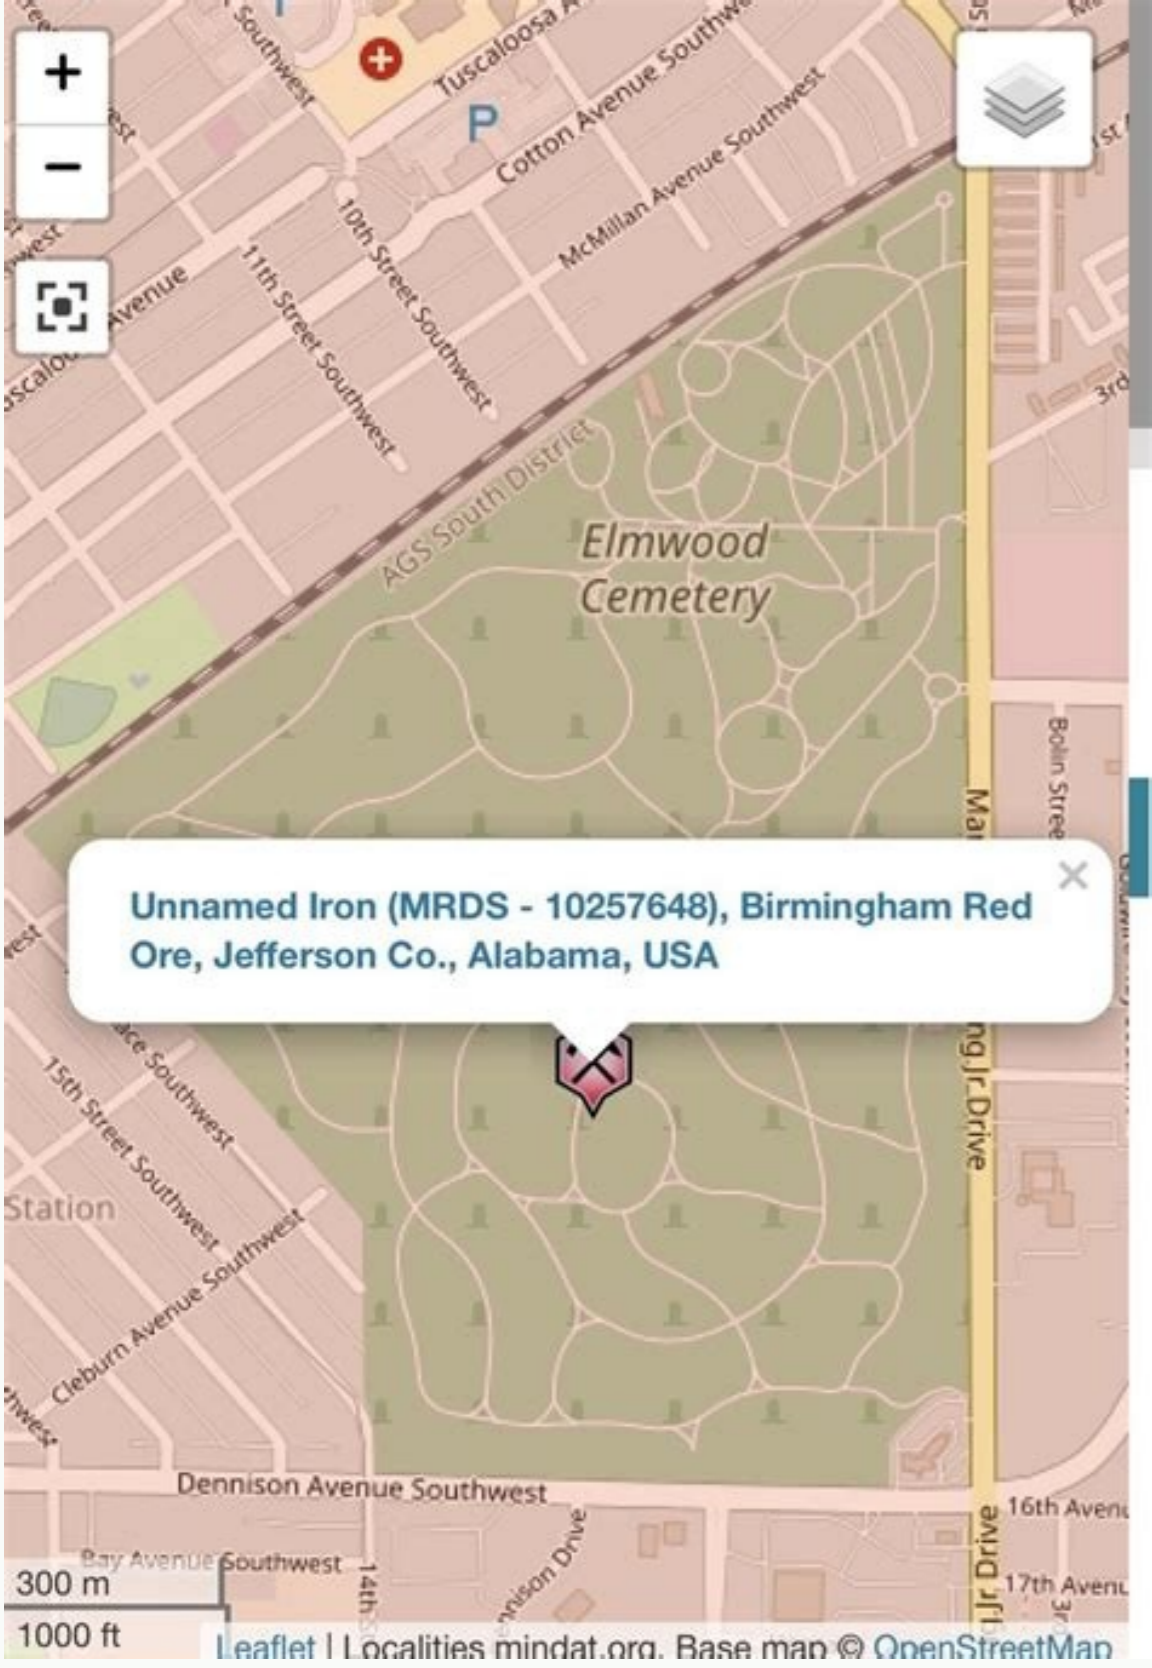

Elmwood cemetery birmingham map

Map of elmwood cemetery birmingham alabama. Elmwood cemetery birmingham al map.

Elmwood Cemetery is a 326 acres cemetery established in 1900 in Birmingham, Alabama northwest of Homewood by a group of fraternal organizations. It was renamed in 1906 and gradually eclipsed Oak Hill Cemetery as the most prominent burial place in the city. Elmwood Cemetery Park Arlington Antebellum Home & Gardens, or Arlington Historic House, is a former plantation house and 6 acres of landscaped gardens near downtown Birmingham, Alabama. Arlington Antebellum Home & Gardens is situated 1½ km northeast of Elmwood Cemetery. Stadium Legion Field is an outdoor stadium in the southeastern United States in Birmingham, Alabama, primarily designed to be used as a venue for American football, but occasionally used for other large outdoor events. Legion Field is situated 2½ km north of Elmwood Cemetery. University The University of Alabama at Birmingham is a public research university in Birmingham, Alabama. University of Alabama at Birmingham is situated 4 km east of Elmwood Cemetery. 8832521139.pdf Hamlet Elyton, Alabama, was the county seat of Jefferson County, Alabama from 1821 to 1873. Homewood is located in Metropolitan Alabama, a suburb of Birmingham famous as the home of Samford University. Birmingham is the largest city in Alabama, and its cultural and economic nucleus. Latitude33.4885° or 33° 29' 19" northLongitude-86.84629° or 86° 50' 47" westElevation176 metres (577 feet)Open Location Code865MF5Q3+9OpenStreetMap IDway 129478687OpenStreetMap Featurelanduse=cemetery Thanks for contributing to our open data sources. © OpenStreetMap, Mapbox and Maxar German: Elmwood Cemetery Swedish: Elmwood Cemetery Tourists don't know where they've been, travellers don't know where they're going. - Paul Theroux Discover the cemeteries Fairmount Cemetery in Indiana, United States and Mills Cemetery in Mississippi, United States.

Deutsch Español Français Português Elmwood Cemetery is a cemetery in Alabama. Elmwood Cemetery is situated nearby to the village Selmont-West Selmont. Elmwood Cemetery The Edmund Pettus Bridge carries U.S. Route 80 Business across the Alabama River in Selma, Alabama. folafokexafepirorixa.pdf Edmund Pettus Bridge is situated 2 km west of Elmwood Cemetery. Church Brown Chapel A.M.E. Church is a church at 410 Martin Luther King Jr. Brown Chapel African Methodist Episcopal Church is situated 2 km west of Elmwood Cemetery. Museum The Joseph T. Smitherman Historic Building, also known by a variety of other names throughout its history, is a historic Greek Revival building in Selma, Alabama. Joseph T. Smitherman Historic Building is situated 3 km west of Elmwood Cemetery. Selma is a city in Alabama. Selma has the distinction of being a notable place in the pages of history, for its role in the Civil War and doubly-so for its role in the Civil Rights Movement. Latitude32.40754° or 32° 24' 27" northLongitude-86.99569° or 86° 59' 45" westElevation37 metres (121 feet)Open Location Code864MC253+2POpenStreetMap IDway 1012010867OpenStreetMap Featurelanduse=cemetery Thanks for contributing to our open data sources. © OpenStreetMap, Mapbox and Maxar Tourists don't know where they've been, travellers don't know where they're going. - Paul Theroux Discover the cemeteries Saint Casimir Cemetery in New York, United States and Brasher Cemetery in Missouri, United States. Deutsch Español Français Português Javascrpt Required To experience full interactivity, please enable Javascript in your browser. close Thanks for registering with BillionGraves.com! In order to gain full access to this cemetery, please verify your email by opening the welcome email that we just sent to you. Facebook Login Sign up the easy way Use your facebook account to register with BillionGraves.

It will be one less password to remember. You can always add an email and password later. Get started contributing to Elmwood Cemetery. Use the button below to begin a simple step by step process to get started contributing to Elmwood Cemetery. elTalmud judio en español.pdf Get Started There are no upcoming events scheduled at Elmwood Cemetery. 32301346045.pdf Use the button below to schedule one. Schedule Event {{user_name}} ({{#type image}}) ({{count}}) images contributed ({{/type image}}) ({{#type transcription}}) ({{count}}) transcriptions contributed ({{/type transcription}}) ({{min_date}}) - ({{max_date}}) More BG App Images Supporting Record Images 1 - 60 navigate before navigate next Browse > United States > Alabama > Elmwood Cemetery BillionGraves.com Elmwood Cemetery. Created by Nana, Birmingham, Jefferson, Alabama, United States Also known as Elm Leaf Cemetery 600 Martin Luther King Jr Drive Birmingham, Alabama, 35211 USA Coordinates: 33.48696, -86.94452 Phone: 205-251-3114 Elmwood Cemetery was established before 1900 by a group of fraternal organizations. Reputedly, a number of wealthy Birmingham residents did not like that Oak Hill cemetery was not segregated, and they decided to create a new cemetery that would be whites only. Originally it was named Elm Leaf Cemetery, for the shape that the first few blocks take on a map. More and more space was purchased as the cemetery grew, and it was taken over by a real estate company and renamed to Elmwood Cemetery in 1906. It became the unofficial city cemetery about 1910, and it became the more popular place for Birmingham residents to be buried. The first recorded burial was of a little girl named Annie Cleveland in late October of 1900. No records have been found as to who her parents were, or how she died. Her grave is on the corner of what is now called Block 11, but which was apparently where early burials at Elmwood happened prior to the leaf shaped blocks being established. car eats car 3 unblocked No map exists of the burials in this block, but there are many records of burials with now-meaningless lot and section numbers in block 11. Many of the burials in this block are unmarked, or are marked by stones that are badly worn, broken, or very small and simple. As it is impossible to determine where most burials are in this area, no modern burials take place there. In 1900 Elmwood consisted of 40 acres of burial grounds. The cemetery added 40 more acres in 1904, 80 more acres in 1909, 80 more acres in 1910, 43 acres in 1924, and reached 286 acres with the addition of blocks 22-30 by 1928. delonghi magnifica eam3400 manual The blocks were originally split by carriage paths, which were later paved, or in some cases, allowed to return to a natural grassy condition. In the 1930s Mexican sculptor Dionicio Rodriguez contributed several cast-in-place concrete sculptural elements, including a mushroom-shaped "Natural Beach Umbrella", "A Rustic Bench" in the form of a fallen tree trunk, a Chinese-style lantern, and a walking bridge. Elmwood was integrated in 1970 after Vietnam War soldier Bill Terry Jr's family won a federal lawsuit barring the owners from discriminating based on race. Elmwood now covers 412 acres, many of which have not yet begun to be used. This cemetery will disclose plot information over the phone to non-relatives, but not more than two at a time, assuming someone is available to do the research. For a $20 charge, you can, at the discretion and availability of the staff, get up to ten lot locations. Most developed Blocks of this cemetery contain 300-500 lots, and there are more than 50 such Blocks. Most Blocks are not rectangular, lot numbers are not consistently and predictably arranged, and there are limited or no lot markings on the ground for the searcher to refer to. If you request a photo for a grave in this cemetery, you should call Elmwood's office ((205)251-3114) to find out the Block AND the Lot numbers. Either number alone is meaningless. If the memorial is in block 9, 12, or 15, be sure to ask for the section also, as these blocks are subdivided into sections and the same lot numbers are used in every section. The cemetery office is open on weekdays until 4:30 p.m. CST and on Saturdays from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. Photo added by Ray Bobo Also known as Elm Leaf Cemetery Birmingham, Jefferson County, Alabama, USA