Sometimes it even stops and stares at me with these red head eyes. It just stares and stares, and it will just fly across the room. It always looks ravenous. Since I was brought to this world, the demon has done the worst to me. I wonder at times what it is trying to accomplish. I figure it will come on one day and devour my soul, but so far it has done nothing, but look menacing and frightening.
I am actually scared by the dancing creature in the room. I don't know if it has a name.

My heart is pouring ink. It dripples down the gutter of as a crow. My lake waters are filled with the from my silky blue/black feathers. My swoop past them is steady. I am unharmed.

I know I must help them but my malice has won and taken over my cherry red heart. It is filled with raptors and ~~barbed wire~~ ^{barbed wire}. You think I'm Kaley? Think again. Dare we share the same handwriting at times, but that is my oh so clever disguise.

They think I am lost and troubled when in fact I once saw a troubled girl and stole her identity.

Who am I you wonder? I'll give you a hint I
