New Zealand have strict import conditions, which must be fully met for your pet to be eligible for entry at the time of your flight.

2.3. While SKYE PETS may assist with export and import documentation and processes, we accept no responsibility for any errors, omissions, or inaccuracies in this support. You remain solely responsible for ensuring full compliance with the import, export, and health requirements of both the exporting and importing countries. This includes obtaining all necessary permits, veterinary certificates, vaccinations, and any other required documentation. It is your responsibility to verify all requirements with the relevant authorities in both departure and arrival locations. Failure to comply may result in your pet being denied entry, refused export/import, or placed in extended quarantine. SKYE PETS is not liable for any losses, delays, or costs resulting from such non-compliance.

3. Breed Restrictions

3.1. All breeds, including brachycephalic breeds, are permitted on our flights.

3.2. While there are no breed restrictions on our flights, destination countries may have restrictions. If your pet's breed is restricted or banned in the destination country, they will not be permitted to travel.

3.3. Refer to Appendix B for guidance on restricted/banned breeds.

4. Travel Requirements
