Kelley O'Hara is one of the grittiest defenders and fiercest competitors in US Women's National soccer history. A Two-time Women's World Cup Champion and Olympic Gold Medalist, O'Hara won the 2009 MAC Hermann Trophy while at Stanford University and was named to the FIFA FIFPro World XI in 2019. She played for multiple clubs during her time in the WPS and NWSL, winning titles with Gold Pride FC (2010) Washington Spirit (2021) and Gotham FC (2023). She served as a player representative for the USWNTPA and was a driving force in the USWNT's fight for equal pay.

Today, she is a multi-hyphenate in the professional world, all driven by her commitment to shaping the future of sport both on and off the field. Kelley is the co-founder of O'House Productions and the host of Sports Are Fun! podcast for Just Women's Sports. She also serves as a player advisor for World Sevens Football, works as a consultant for BreakAway Data, and is an on-air analyst for CBS Sports."
