Therapy Dog Ministry | McLeod Seacoast Hospital

Chaplain Connie & Therapy Dog Shiloh

About the Ministry

Since the fall of 2017, Chaplain Connie and Shiloh, her chocolate labradoodle, have been volunteers bringing comfort and Christ's love to hundreds of patients here at McLeod Seacoast Hospital.

They have also volunteered in our community at:

- Nursing Homes,
- Assisted Living Residences, &
- Numerous Special Events

They are members of Canines for Christ, an international Christian-based, animal-assisted therapy ministry whose whole goal is to use ordinary people and their beloved dogs to share God's message of love, hope, kindness, and compassion to the community.

They would love to meet you virtually

Due to the upcoming flu season and continued COVID-19 numbers, they are currently not making as many in-person visits to the hospital as usual, but they would still love to meet you and pray with you.

The staff has told them you love dogs and they love people so you have that in common already.

We know it's not quite the same, but if you would like a virtual visit or to receive prayer, while you're in the hospital, please let the staff know and they will reach out to them and we'll make it happen.

Chaplain Connie & Shiloh are praying for your health & restoration while you're here.
