Dear Residents, Families and Responsible Parties,

As we welcome the month of June, we look forward to the sunshine, warmer days, and the many opportunities this season brings for enjoying time together. June is a wonderful month filled with energy, laughter, and special moments for our residents, families, and staff.

This month, we also take time to recognize and celebrate Father's Day. We honor all fathers, grandfathers, stepfathers, and father figures who have shared their love, guidance, wisdom, and strength with those around them. Their stories, sacrifices, and lasting impact continue to inspire generations.

We encourage families to visit, share memories, and celebrate the special men in their lives during this meaningful time. Whether through a visit, phone call, card, or simple conversation, these gestures bring joy and connection to our residents.

Thank you for your continued trust and support of our facility. We are grateful for the opportunity to care for your loved ones and to create a warm, welcoming community each day. We wish everyone a happy June and a very Happy Father's Day!

Steve Fry, NHA, Administrator

Honoring Fathers on Father's Day

Father's Day is a meaningful time to celebrate the fathers, grandfathers, and father figures who have touched our lives with love, strength, and guidance. It is a day to recognize the many sacrifices they have made and the lasting impact they continue to have on their families.

Our residents have shared wonderful memories of raising children, teaching life lessons, working hard to provide for their loved ones, and enjoying special family traditions. These stories remind us of the important role fathers play in shaping generations.

We are proud to honor all of the dads in our community and thank them for the care, wisdom, and kindness they have shown throughout the years. We wish everyone a very Happy Father's Day filled with joy, appreciation, and cherished moments with family and friends.

A TASTE OF SUMMER: LOBSTER ROLLS

- 1 lb. cooked lobster meat from 6 to 8 medium lobster tails or from 3 (1 1/2 to 2-lb.) live lobsters
 - 3 Tbsp. mayonnaise
 - 1/4 tsp. kosher salt
 - 1/4 tsp. ground black pepper, plus more for sprinkling
 - 1/4 cup finely chopped celery
 - 1 tsp. lemon zest
 - 2 Tbsp. lemon juice
 - 2 Tbsp. finely chopped chives, plus more for sprinkling
 - 1/4 tsp. paprika, plus more for sprinkling
 - 1/8 tsp. ground cayenne pepper (optional)
 - 6 split-top hot dog buns
- 2 Tbsp. salted butter, melted, plus more for optional drizzling

1. Remove the shells from the lobster and pick through the lobster meat. Use paper towels to thoroughly pat the meat dry. Chop the meat into very large, recognizable chunks, 1/2- to 1-inch pieces.
2. Place the lobster meat in a large bowl and fold in the mayonnaise, salt, and black pepper. Fold in the celery, lemon zest, lemon juice, chives, paprika, and cayenne pepper, if you like. Cover and refrigerate until ready to use.
3. Brush both cut sides of the split-top buns with the melted butter. Heat a large skillet over medium-low heat. Working in batches if necessary, place the buns cut-side down in the hot skillet. Toast until golden brown on one side, about 1 minute. Flip and toast the other side until golden brown, 30 seconds to 1 minute more.
4. Divide the filling among the buns. If you like, drizzle with melted butter and sprinkle with chives, black pepper, and paprika before serving.

INSIDE THE CURIO -

This month, resident Annette Entz is proudly displaying her beautiful Hummel collection. Annette began collecting Hummels in 1956 while traveling through Europe with the Young Adult Group from the YMCA.

She admires the beauty and intricate detail of each piece, and over the years her collection has become very special to her. Her favorite Hummel is “Umbrella Boy,” which she purchased in Europe as a Christmas gift for her mother.

We hope you enjoy this collection as much as Annette does.

Floppy the Mischievous Bunny — A Short Story Written by the Residents of Sunrise Terrace

Down in the Valley by Farmer Bob's farm, a family of bunnies were born. Out of the litter hopped a big special boy with long floppy ears and a huge fluffy tail. His mother exclaimed "Floppy!" when seeing his long ears, and that was his name. As he grew, he became the mischievous one of his brother and two sisters.

Floppy was the leader of the four and sometimes he would get them in trouble. He would take them with him to Farmer Bob's garden. On this particular day, they were to keep watch for Farmer Bob while Floppy snuck into the garden. But his siblings decided to play- not realizing that Farmer Bob was on his way, pitching hay.

His brother looked up and to his dismay, he started thumping his foot to let Floppy know. But, Floppy didn't notice. He was too busy eating the tempting berries displayed. He didn't hear his brothers thumping, saying, "Pitch Fork Bob is coming!!" Just then, he saw Farmer Bob and heard his sister's warn Floppy to get out of there! His heart started racing and he jumped behind a tomato plant where he had just piled his stash.

He quickly grabbed his goodies to scurry out of there, but he tripped and fell. His stockpile went flying everywhere! Floppy paused for a moment then promptly started gathering everything up. Farmer Bob heard the commotion. He turned from the hay pile heading towards the garden with his pitchfork in hand. That's when he saw Floppy. Perturbed Farmer Bob yelled "Hey you! I told you before and I won't say it again. Get out and stay out of my garden or I'll make rabbit stew out of you! I'll give your tail to my wife just to use as a powder puff!" Floppy used his quick wit. He grabbed a watering can, throwing in the garden treasures he had.

Farmer Bob in a rush latched the garden gate that he forgot was broken and had not been fixed. When he kicked it open, the hinges came off and caught the leg of his overalls. He was stuck. Farmer Bob yelled "I'll get you next time you rascally rabbit!", holding his pitchfork in the air. Floppy saw the opportunity and scampered off with his siblings, heading back to the valley to eat their afternoon delight. Once they were back in the valley, they were enjoying their delicious treasure, with berry juice covering their mouths. Mama came hopping by and exclaimed "Floppy! What have you been up to now?!" Floppy softly replied, "Nothing mama, why?"

Floppy's sisters hopped behind him and his brother to hide. What's that on your face?!" she demanded.

"Um, berry juice" he replied. "You were in the garden, weren't you?" Mama exasperated.

Disappointed and concerned for their safety, Mama strongly warned them and grounded them to the valley.

She warned them, "No place else and you are to only eat the greens, no blossoms!" "Okay Mama" Floppy quietly said, putting his head down. "We are berry sorry".

Meanwhile back at the garden gate where Farmer Bob was caught, his wife Judy had arrived.

She heard his screams and she rushed to his side. It turns out that he was stuck on the gate he had not fixed. Seeing that he wasn't hurt, she started to laugh." Honey, what is the problem?" He replied angrily, "Those scoundrels! Those rabbits are stealing from my garden!" His wife Judy looks away looks around and says "but we have plenty. What did they steal? They're just cute little bunnies and need to eat. We have more than enough to share". As Farmer Bob listened to his wife, he calmed down and seemed to have a change of heart. "Well Dear, since you put it that way...help unhook me from here and grab a basket." They filled a basket with goodies and then headed off to the bunny valley. Once they reached the valley with their baskets of goodies, Floppy and his siblings stuck out like a sore thumb, eating nothing but greens. Farmer Bob said 'now looky there, they're eating nothing but greens". Judy smiled "oh look how cute they are!" Out of nowhere, Mama bunny came to her little one's defense. Judy calmly said, "we are here for a truce and want to be friendly neighbors".

Farmer Bob spoke up and placed the basket in front of Mama rabbit. "We have enough to share so you don't need to sneak in and steal from our garden. We will bring it to you, and you can share it with your family and bunny friends." Wasting no time, Floppy and his siblings hopped to the basket. Looking at Mama with excitement in the air, Mama nodded her head and gave the approval.

Needless to say, there were a lot of happy, hopping bunnies that day... making a friendly end to this tail!
