

Suicide Awareness Within the Play Therapy Process

Description

This 3-hour live webinar will explore suicide talk, ideation, and presentation that appears in the play therapy process with young children. There is a growing number of young children who discuss, think about, and even attempt harming themselves. This workshop will present information on how suicide ideation presents in young children and how to assess, understand, and work to address issues through a play therapy process.

Learning Objectives

- 1) Define how to assess for suicide ideation through play therapy processes
- 2) Identify intervention steps when suicide related concerns appear in play therapy
- 3) Describe how to implement play therapy processes to support young children with suicide concerns

Workshop Facilitators

Dr Robert Jason Grant, Ed.D, LPC, NCC, RPT-S
(Fatima) Natascha Lawrence, MA, RCC, BCRPT
