Message from the President

We are headed into a wonderful month with the Advent message bringing us "the light", the birth of the Messiah, the Son of God, our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ. It is my hope that each of you have a wonderful holiday season, enjoy the message of "the light" and enjoy this wonderful month with friends and family.

Do not miss our midweek Advent Services starting on Wednesday December 4 and continuing on December 11th and 18th. Pastor Anderegg will lead the midweek Advent Services at 5:00 pm. Our Christmas Eve service will be led Pastor Brandt and will also be at 5:00 pm.

This past month we have been busy with the announcements and acceptance of the Voters on November 17th that:

- We will be fortunate to keep both Pastors Anderegg and Brandt who will share the Pastor duties at our church, together serving as our part time Pastor. This is wonderful news and we have been blessed for the past twelve months to have them provide our worship services and bible study, and are even more blessed with securing them too both toil with us, as our Pastor in the future.
- We have been blessed by the generous giving of our congregation, in their support of Peace. We have also been blessed with a gift from the estate of Nadine E. Meyer, which will help us maintain this wonderful church provided for the glory of God and His gift to us, His Son, our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ, and to continue to bring the word to believers and non-believers alike.
- Finally that we will be blessed with a new window in our church celebrating our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ. The materials for this stained glass window are provided from the Dale Murrell Fund and a friend of Dale and Carol's, who did the original stained glass windows that flank the altar, is providing the labor for this gift. I think we would all agree, we have surely been blessed. It has not been an easy eighteen months, but it has been a blessed eighteen months as we continue to grow in our faith, if not in our numbers.

The deadline for the January newsletter is Mon., Dec. 23 at 9 a.m. If you have an article you want published, or information you want to get out to the whole congregation, prepare it and send it to plccamdenton@gmail.com. The newsletter is as good as you make it.

On the lighter side, be sure and attend the Peace Lutheran Christmas Party, to be held at 2:00 pm on Saturday December 7th in the Fellowship Hall. We know the food will be great, it is always good to get together for fellowship with our church family and if we have half as much fun as we had last year...you'll have a wonderful afternoon.

The LWML Christmas Party is December 9th at 12:00 noon. This is a salad and desert luncheon, and this group of ladies always have a good time.

The church outing to Main Street Opera on December 15th for a matinee performance of Christmas music. Join in for the fun and entertainment.

Finally I want to thank everybody for their help and assistance over the past year. It hasn't been the easiest of times, but it has been a great deal of fun. Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year to each and every one of you, it has been great to share this journey with you. Mic Carlson

Why We Go to Church?

A church goer wrote a letter to the editor of a newspaper and complained that it made no sense to go to church every Sunday.

He wrote: "I've gone for 30 years now, and in that time I have heard something like 3,000 sermons, but for the life of me, I can't remember a single one of them. So, I think I'm wasting my time, the preachers and priests are wasting theirs by giving sermons at all."

This started a real controversy in the "Letters to the Editor" column. Much to the delight of the editor, it went on for weeks until someone wrote this clincher:

"I've been married for 30 years now. In that time my wife has cooked some 32,000 meals. But, for the life of me, I cannot recall the entire menu for a single one of those meals.

But I do know this: They all nourished me and gave me the strength I needed to do my work. If my wife had not given me these meals, I would be physically dead today.

Likewise, if I had not gone to church for nourishment, I would be spiritually dead today!"

When you are down to nothing, God is up to something! Faith sees the invisible, believes the incredible & received the importable! Thank God for our physical and our spiritual nourishment!

If you cannot see God in all, you cannot see God at all!

Thank You!!

The following letter was received from Medical Missions for Christ. We held a spaghetti supper on September 21 which raised $765.00. Thrivent dollars was used for this project.

Dear Friends at Peace Lutheran Church,

"When it comes to people, there's always another variable." I heard a man say this recently as he encouraged people not to be too quick to judge others. I knew what he meant. When you take time to show concern and listen to another person's story, it can completely change the way you think of them.

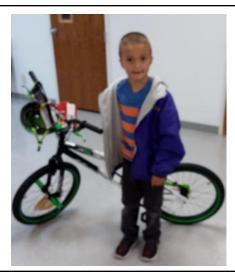

Here at Medical Missions for Christ Clinic we have opportunities every day to hear the unique stories of the people we serve. They come to us because they have health concerns, but getting to know them as individuals helps guide the way we minister to them. True healing is wholeness: physically, emotionally, and spiritually.

Thank you for choosing to be part of this important ministry. Your financial support is a blessing to our patients and to those of us that serve them.

Grace to you and peace, Carolyn Bowling Executive Director

Monthly Devotion

How It All Ends

They will see his face, and his name will be on their foreheads. There will be no more night. They will not need the light of a lamp or the light of the sun, for the Lord God will give them light. And they will reign for ever and ever.

Revelation 22:4-5

In order to know how a story ends, you must read the last chapter. And in Revelation chapter 22, the final chapter of the Bible, we read about two glorious prospects that will be enjoyed by every redeemed child of God, Let's look at them:

1. 'They shall see His face.'

One of the greatest joys of heaven will be seeing the faces of our departed loved ones and spending eternity with them. But thrilling thought that may be, it will not compare with the joy of seeing the face of Jesus the One we love most. The songwriter said, 'Face to face with Christ my Savior, face to face what will it be. When with rapture I behold Him, Jesus Christ who died for me.' And that is not all; read this: 'Beloved, now we are children of God; and it has not yet been revealed what we shall be, but we know that when He is revealed, we shall be like Him, for we shall see Him as He is' (1 John 3:2). We will see Him, we will be like Him, and we will be with Him, forever. How wonderful!

2. 'And they shall reign forever and ever.'

Just as the exams you take in school prepared you to graduate and go out and make a living, the tests and trials of this life are preparing you to graduate and reign with Christ in the next life—all because of His mercy and compassion. Keep your eyes on the prize. This life is the short story; the next life is the big story—seeing Jesus face to face, and reigning with Him forever.

Prayer: Heavenly Father, I cannot wait to see You face to face and be with You for eternity and all of other Saints that have gone on before me. In Jesus' Name, Amen.

Tim Hetzner, President/CEO of Lutheran Church Charities

From Everyone His Witness:

The "I" in LASSIE stands

I nviting is about sharing God's word and keeping an ongoing conversation. It is guided by the context of your relationship with the person, the person's response, the options at hand, the possibility of continuing contact, etc. As there are no stock invitations, they should be crafted for each person according to their own circumstances. Also we should not be afraid to "pass off" the person to someone else who is willing to do so if a problem arises in your relationship. Inviting includes the whole Body of Christ. Ask the person to "come and see" (John 1:46) Philip invited Nathanael to "come and see" when Nathanael was dismissive of Jesus. Instead of debating, Philip invited him to see for himself. Nathanael did so and became a disciple of Christ. It's often an effective way to keep the person engaged in the discussion of Jesus.

Invitations for HEAD, HEART or HANDS: A head person is geared to truth claims and challenging concepts. Inviting to an ongoing in depth discussion or study would suit such a person. A heart person strives for a deeper connection and relationship with others. Invite to a small group study. A hands person wants to make an impact in some way, so invite to a service related activity or mercy work. Always think about how the person relates when offering an invitation.

Invite to What? Eventually to the wedding feast of the Lamb – but there may be steps to take first. In Matthew 22 Jesus speaks of servants going out to get people to come to the king's wedding feast. The aim was to fill the hall with the full number of guests to share his joy. In Revelation 7, we see Jesus as the victorious Lamb on His Heavenly throne with all the elect celebrating with Him. In sharing the story of Jesus we seek to continue the conversation that could lead people to this wedding feast. And although that invitation is vital, there may be other invitations to offer first. In doing so, we must be aware of the options available and note the many ways that people can hear about Christ that will appeal to them.

Invite to Worship? Maybe not the best idea for some people – at least not at first. The time is gone when inviting to worship was a "go to" means of evangelism. It's simply too much of a foreign experience to those who have no connection to a church and thereby would be reluctant to go. Also, our society no longer fosters relationships that used to make inviting to worship services appealing. Not long ago churched and unchurched people were more engaged with one another in community activities and inviting them to church was easier vices appealing. Not long ago churched and unchurched people were more engaged with one another in community activities and inviting them to church was easier and better received. They were familiar with one another so inviting them to church was not an uncomfortable thing to do. Today it is more likely they don't even know each other. There may be other reasons that inviting to worship may not be best. 1) The person is not a believer. Worship is for believers, not unbelievers. Though an unbeliever can come to a church service, hear the Word, and come to faith, evangelism is not made for worship. Instead, worship service is where God's people come to receive God's gifts of Word and Sacrament, and where they respond to God's mercy and grace with praise and thanksgiving, and become equipped to be his witnesses for living in and serving the world as His Church scattered. The person should have some sense of this before attending services. 2) The person is uneasy with liturgical worship. Because there is no experience in this form of worship, it may confuse or even trouble the person. It may take considerable orientation so that they will cherish the beauty, Christcenteredness, and the Biblical impact. 3) They are offended by closed Communion. It may be difficult for the non-churched to comprehend the limitations on participation and why in love we do so. Therefore, one should explain to the person why they can't participate in the Sacrament until properly instructed in the faith. 4) The congregation is not welcoming. Making people feel welcome d by a friendly congregation is essential. We may not have much of a problem with this but we need to keep in mind that engaging with newcomers in a friendly fashion will go a long way. So welcome and let them know you're glad they came and encourage them to come again! First impressions matter!

Invite to Worship? For some people – yes! Though not initially the best idea for some, for others an invitation to worship may be the best option if they are open and would benefit from it. The only way to know is to find out their attitudes and experience with the church and worship. A dechurched person may want to return to what is missing in life and an invitation may be well received. But if he says he finds worship boring or unimportant, an invitation may not be best. It is important to understand the reason he left the church before an inviting to worship. But if someone appears interested in the Christian faith - even an unbeliever - an invitation may be effective. If an invitation is given, make sure guidance and overview is provided on what to expect from the service. (The liturgy, closed communion, the law and gospel narrative, etc.) Listen, ask, seek, and share to know if and when to extend an invitation to join us in worship.

How to Invite: Invitations should be...INVITING! Here are a few pointers on how to invite a person to worship: 1) Be honest. No one likes the "bait and switch." Never hide something from the person you are inviting and don't "dress up" one's concerns. You may reconsider inviting if you can't address the concerns. 2) Don't rush things. Make sure the person is open and continued on page 10 Avoid being pushy and don't act like you're eager to "close the deal." 3) Make the invitation specific. Include a time, place, and purpose in the invitation. "Let's get together sometime" is not an invitation. 4) Be willing to take "No" for an answer. Don't forget it's the invitation being rejected, not you. Graciously keep the door open for a later "yes" by listening, asking, seeking, and sharing if possible.

On The Web: Worship Anew. We all probably know someone who is disabled or ill and can't attend church service. Formerly known as Worship For Shut-Ins, Worship Anew is a 30 minute Lutheran worship program produced by Lutheran Media Ministries. Each service includes hymns, scripture readings, and a pastor delivering a message that presents a one-on-one feeling to the viewer. It's a great way for the shut-in community to hear the Word of God every week.

J esus, in His Sermon on the Mount, is teaching those who follow Him that worrying about the necessities of life is idolatry: worshipping a false god. This is because worry and anxiety show what we care about. Our anxiety reveals what we love and to what we're devoted. It reveals what we trust in.

This is why our Lord begins this section with an overarching principle: "No one can serve two masters, for either he will hate the one and love the other, or he will be devoted to one and despise the other. You cannot serve both God and money."

But you say: "I must eat and drink. I must have clothing to wear and have a home in which to dwell." Yes, all these things you need. And Jesus says that your Father in heaven will ensure that you have them. He demonstrates this with a simple argument.

Your Father in heaven feeds the birds of the air, who

Your Father in heaven feeds the birds of the air, who neither sow, nor reap, nor gather into barns. He clothes the lilies of the field, who neither toil nor spin but are arrayed more luxuriously than Solomon in all his glory. If, then, your Father in heaven feeds the birds and clothes the lilies, how will He not also feed and clothe you when you are worth more than they are?

For you know that you are worth more than them. You are worth infinitely more. You are worth the price of the eternal Son of God. Did the Son of God come down from heaven and become a lily? Did he descend and take on the form of a bird? No!

He came down from heaven and became a man: flesh of our flesh and bone of our bone. He is one of us, our brother. And what did He do when He became flesh to dwell among us? He gave His holy, precious blood and His innocent suffering and death, that you might be His own and live under Him in His kingdom forever. God became man in Christ Jesus. He lived the life we failed to live, and He died the death we deserve because of it. He was raised again on the third day to overcome sin and death ... for us. He was crucified for our transgressions and raised for our justification. So, if your Father in heaven has given His Son to die for us in order that we might live with Him eternally, how will He not also give us all things to support this body and life?

To be anxious about the necessities of life, to devote yourself to food and clothing, to care about this and find security in it, is to serve another god. It is to deny that you will live forever because Jesus, the Son of God is risen from the dead, lives and reigns for all eternity. It is to believe that God – who created you, redeemed you by the death and resurrection of His Son, and sanctifies you by His Spirit – will not keep His promises of sustaining you in this life.

Jesus says this: Seek first God's kingdom and His righteousness. God's kingdom is His rule among us. His rule among us comes when our Father in heaven gives us His Holy Spirit, so that by His grace we believe His holy Word and lead godly lives here in time and there in eternity. This is what we ask God to do for us in the prayer Jesus taught us.

Your Father in heaven knows what you need – food and clothing, house and home, etc. – and He promises to give it to you. Chief of the things you need is His grace and mercy in His Son, Jesus Christ. So, seek after that. Those who seek will find. And all the necessities of life, our Lord says, will be added to you.

There was much discussion regarding repair of the cemetery fence. It was agreed that for the job to be done correctly professionals must be hired. It was also suggested that the fence be torn down from the entrance arch to the road.

New Business:

The church organ has developed an electrical problem. Mic will contact repair people.

The meeting was adjourned, and Mic closed with prayer.

- Hark the Herald Angels Sing

Yes! Angels are real!! Yet in today's world, the truth about angels may be compromised by recent movies, TV shows, and other current media. As Christians, we know The Holy Bible is our only reliable source about angels. Here are a few Biblical facts about angels to ponder and enjoy.

- The Bible teaches that angels were made by God during the six days of creation though Scripture doesn't reveal which day.
- The word "angel" comes from a Greek word that means "messenger" so angels are God's messengers. The word "angel" is a description of what they do.
- In Scripture, angels are described as spirits. When angels do appear in human form, this is only a momentary appearance for those who need to see them. Angels are not gods.
- There are both good and evil angels.
- Good angels enjoy the blessing of being in the presence of God beholding his great glory, majesty, and power.
- Good angels praise God and serve as God's servants in the world. God sends angels to serve and to protect Christian believers in their work and their callings in life; they attend to the dying, care for children and rejoice over every sinner that repents. Angels were present at every great event in the Kingdom of God.
