

Playwright offers hope through grief

Posted About A Week Ago by Tim Kowols

Rogue Theater's production of "The Loss World Monologues" may be a source of light during a period of grief. Playwright Mary London Szpara wrote the book "The Loss World" after her husband Michael died in 2004 after a long battle with hepatitis C and its side effects. Years later, she adapted the book into a play showcasing a diverse group of women on their own journey of emotional healing. Szpara says it was important for her to capture her thoughts while grieving.

Szpara grew up in Kewaunee County and made Door County a vacation destination her entire life. Door County was one of the last places she and her husband visited before his passing. Szpara says having her play performed in Door County is almost like her story coming full circle.

The show runs from September 24th through September 26th in the upstairs room at Door County Fire Company in Sturgeon Bay with a portion of the proceeds benefiting HELP of Door County.