Washington State Economic Regions

Your Community?

Economic Development: a survivor necessity

Within the Economic Region of South Puget Sound, (Washington state) there's an average of 166 new residents arriving per day, within its 4.2 million already here. These new residents are determining the future of the state of Washington. Economic Development is a vital necessity and without it, there are serious issues of being wiped out of the continued Economic Development within the state. A sub element of Economic Development 's Market Development is New Resident Attraction. Visit the Washington State Office of Financial Management for a clearer view.

Activities can focus on recruiting individuals (African Americans) who would enhance the economy. Individuals (African Americans) who would enlarge the market area where they would receive products and services.

New Resident Attraction. (African Americans) This is a Leadership issue in your community. Are you attracting (African Americans) people to your community with your best interest at hand. If not, who are the 166 New residents per day coming into The South Puget Sound Economic Region?
