FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

National Minority Women Association in Transportation, Inc. (NMWAIT) Launch

Columbia, Maryland – The National Minority Women in Transportation, Inc. (NMWAIT) has officially launched a member-based association with headquarters located in Columbia, Maryland in June 2021. NMWAIT is a membership-based, minority women-owned organization with the mission to increase the visibility, capacity, and business profitability of professional minority women within the transportation sector.

NMWAIT will engage in a range of activities to ensure the success of innovative policy solutions to address issues facing minority women in the transportation industry. To ensure inclusion and diversity in the transportation industry NMWAIT will provide educational activities designed to create a national environment in which reforms can succeed, by educating Americans about these policies through continued grassroots lobbying activities designed to introduce and enact.

NMWAIT is proud to announce Co-Founders Ashley Watson, President, and Sharese Jackson, Vice President of the organization. With the continued support of the Executive Team, Board of Directors, and Members, NMWAIT will provide a space for all to network and stay abreast of current legislation that continues to affect the growth and safety of women in the transportation industry.

“TOGETHER WE RISE AND TOGETHER WE ARE ONE IN NMWAIT”
